SHOUSE MADE NEW CHIEF OF BIG WET BODY

Du Pont Reveals Choice as Head of Association Against Prohibition.

NONPARTISAN GROUP RAPS HOOVER STAND

Federal Dry Protection Pledge Objected To; Drive Set to Elect Law's Foes.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

Election of Jouett Shouse, deposed chairman of the executive committee of the national Democratic committee, to the presidency of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment was formally announced last night by Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the executive committee of the association.

Announcement of the election of Mr. Shouse was made by Mr. du Pont in a letter addressed to the directors of the association. The letter was made public accompanied by statements from Mr. Shouse and Maj. Henry H. Curran, who has been president of the association. Maj. Curran, who will assume the vice chairmanship of the board, pledged his cooperation to Mr. Shouse.

Although the announcement by Mr. du Pont and the statements by Mr. Shouse and Maj. Curran obviously had been curried to relieve them of interpretation susceptible to the support of one or the other major political parties, none the less the declarations took issue with President Hoover's prohibition statement in his speech of acceptance. In that speech the President sponsored constitutional guarantees against the return of the saloon, even though the prohibition amendment might be repealed.

First Pronouncement.

"The police power embodied in the eighteenth amendment never belonged in the Federal Constitution and should be eliminated," Mr. Shouse said in his first pronouncement as president of the association which has been the backbone of the movement against prohibition. But significance was attached to his additional statement that:

"There is the duty, too, to see that in any substitute that may be proposed this improper attempt at control is guarded against."

Considered in the light of the declaration of Mr. du Pont, issued last month after the national conventions, the Shouse statement was construed as a direct warning to Republican candidates that the wets could not go along in supporting a candidate whose declaration on the prohibition question had won the support of the leaders of some, at least, of the dry organizations. Mr. du Pont said last month that the Democratic platform, declaring for straight-out repeal immediately, met the aims of the association. But, he made haste to add, 40 per cent of the delegates to the Republican convention had felt the same way about prohibition.

In the statements made public yesterday there was an obvious purpose not to alienate any Republican or Democratic support from the association. On the other hand, the association took a page out of the history of the rise of the dry organizations to power.

To Support All Wets.

Energies will be directed toward election of wet members of the House and Senate, regardless of party affiliation. The association would prefer a wet Republican to a dry Democrat

Strikers Capture Owner of Mines

300 Oklahoma and Arkansas Workers Also Take Four Employes.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Three hundred striking Oklahoma and Arkansas coal miners tonight massed at the Frank Gunther workings, near Bokoshe, and held captive the proprietor and four employes. Serious trouble was anticipated by authorities as the strikers grew surly. They surrounded the mine, refusing to let Gunther and his four employes leave.

The Gunther mine was not worked today, but the miners were provoked because Gunther had employed ten nonunion men Tuesday. One of the workers was beaten unconscious when he left a store at Bokoshe after quitting work last night.

Bokoshe is a little mining community in Leflore County. The strike was called in this section recently when officials of the United Mine Workers of America demanded recognition of their organization and sought conferences with mine owners regarding wage scales.

AUDITOR SAYS BALL INFLATED BALANCES

Improper Checks Charged to Former Treasurer; Tilts Are Heated.

Testimony intended to show that E. Wade Ball, former Arlington County treasurer, had inflated bank balances through the improper issuing of checks was introduced yesterday at Ball's trial on charges of misuse of public funds before Judge Walter T. McCarthy in Arlington Circuit Court.

During the latter stages of yesterday's session the courtroom was near disorder owing to several brisk verbal interchanges between Defense Attorney Crandal Mackey and T. Coleman Andrews, Virginia State auditor, who was on the witness stand.

Evidence to show that Ball had transferred $36,000, received on four personal notes paid by checks on his accounts as treasurer to his account as treasurer soon after it had been placed in his personal account, was put before the jury by the defense.

When Andrews took the stand as the last prosecution witness, he told the jury that Ball had no legal authority to borrow to pay debts of the county, no matter how much money he transferred from his personal account to the account as treasurer.

His statement, "I look upon that $36,000 as a misappropriation under the law," brought a clash with Mackey.

The two argued heatedly after Mackey said that Andrews was trying to present the incident as an embezzlement. This Andrews denied.

When Mackey asked Andrews if he had not violated the ethics of the accounting profession by giving auditors' reports to the press, Andrews replied that he had not given anything to the press. Then Mackey asked if the accounting profession had any ethics. Andrews answered "it looks like we have more ethics than you."

These and other remarks brought gales of laughter from the spectators.

Nicaraguans Nominate Diaz for Presidency

Managua, Nicaragua, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Adolfo Diaz, former president of Nicaragua, was unanimously nominated for the presidency at a convention of the conservative party here yesterday. The vice presidential nomination was left in the hands of the party's board of directors to be decided later. Senor Diaz, who is in the United States, is expected to return here soon.

WALKER HOLDS FEE-SPLITTING IS NOT WRONG

Roosevelt Is Angry as He Ends Quiz With "Trust" of Doctors Hit.

MAYOR IS "IGNORANT" OF BROTHER'S WORK

Governor Attacks Witness' Unresponsiveness; Defense Starts Monday.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—In a blaze of anger at the "unresponsiveness" of Mayor James J. Walker's answers to his pointed questions, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today concluded his examination of the mayor, on trial before him for alleged misconduct in office.

The governor's persistent and increasingly angry proddings into "fee-splitting" by Dr. William H. Walker, the mayor's brother, provoked one of the most dramatic scenes of the ouster trial.

The mayor sputtered and hesitated. The governor pounded on his flat-topped desk, grew red in the face and "commanded" the mayor to reply.

And the mayor, expressing ignorance of what his brother had been doing, finally asserted that he "saw nothing wrong in fee-splitting," adding that he had done it in his law practice.

Flays 'Medical Trust."

But the fee-splitting in question, revolving around what Seabury has called the "medical trust"—A group of four physicians who did the bulk of the city's compensation case work, and who divided their fees with Dr. Walker (who did no work at all)—came under the direct fire of the governor's most scathing expressions.

The charge that Mayor Walker "neglected his duty" by permitting this fee-splitting arrangement was taken up after a dull session in which the governor probed deeply into Walker's association with his missing financial agent, Russell T. Sherwood, and his

Illness Menaces Endurance Fliers

One of Two Women Feared to Have Appendicitis; Ice Is Lowered.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Illness threatened to end the endurance refueling flight of Mrs. Louise Thaden and Mrs. Frances Marsalis at Curtiss Field tonight after they had spent 80 hours in the air.

The women dropped a note saying Mrs. Marsalis was suffering pains in her side. Field officials feared it might be appendicitis and consulted a physician. An ice bag and a bucket of ice were lowered to the endurance plane with a note urging the women to land if the pain continued.

At 1 p. m. today the pair had completed three full days in the air and tonight they were less than two days from their goal of breaking the 122-hour record for women.

Their plane was droning steadily over the airport several hours after they dropped the note.

Prof. Piccard Starts Stratosphere Ascent

May Climb More Than 10 Miles From Earth to Advance Science.

Dubendorf Airdrome, Zurich, Switzerland, Thursday, Aug. 18 (U.P.).—Prof. August Piccard, a slight, middle-aged man of science, locked himself in the spherical gondola of a huge balloon today and started out on an aerial voyage which may carry him farther from the earth than man ever before has ventured.

Careless of the unknown hazards lurking in the stratosphere more than 10 miles up, the unassuming little scientist was intent on the solution of a profound mystery of the universe—the secret of the cosmic ray.

Thousands of persons were at the airdrome when Prof. Piccard and his assistant, Max Cosyns, pulled fast the "man hole" in the gondola and gave the signal to cast off the balloon. The giant bag rose skyward at 5:05 a. m. (11:05 p. m. Wednesday, E. S. T.).

Only by little acts, such as snatching a cigarette from the lips of a newspaperman, did the scientist disclose his nervousness as he began his second flight into the stratosphere—a strictly scientific affair for him, but a glorious adventure in the eyes of the enthusiastic crowd at the airdrome. Prof. Piccard hopes to ascend at least 10¼ miles.

were at the airdrome when the great balloon was released and rose rapidly into the air. They had been at the airdrome since 3:30 a. m.

The huge crowd cheered the scientist and his aid time and again and when the balloon was released a great demonstration was given. Over a thousand automobiles were parked around the airdrome.

One of the spectators was Dr. Hugo Eckner, famous commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin.

Piccard received telegrams of greet-

4 DEAD IN $1,000,000 FLOOD IN OKLAHOMA

12 Inches of Rain Pour Upon Plains; Bridges, Cattle and Houses Lost.

Enid, Okla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The toll of flood waters that swept across northwestern Oklahoma plains following torrential rainfall reached four known dead and property damage estimated up to $1,000,000 tonight.

Bert Dillon, 55, father of W. A. Dillon, Alfalfa County attorney, and Mrs. Sam Cellan, 60, were drowned near Cherokee, where 12 inches of rain fell last night.

At Enid, Mrs. Maggie McParland drowned as she attempted to flee from her home and an unidentified boy lost his life in swirling Boggy Creek.

Wrecked bridges, gapped highways and inundated homes marked the course of the flood, brought on by three cloudbursts.

Salt Fork River and Cotton Wood Creek, swollen by rainfall varying from five to twelve inches, raged far out of their normal channels, sweeping away crops, live stock and buildings.

The plight of the citizenry, with hundreds temporarily homeless, brought hurried response from the Red Cross.

F. A. Winfrey, acting manager of the Midwestern division, with headquarters at St. Louis, ordered a field representative to the stricken areas to direct relief work.

The flood waters were rapidly running their course, bringing high crests to points southeastward. With rain still falling in some sections through which the floods must pass, fear was felt that the dangerous inundations might extend their heavy toll.

Cherokee, where twelve inches of rain fell last night; Enid, which received 10.76 inches, and Alva, with 8.66 inches, were the points hardest hit. Rescue crews today picked men, women and children from housetops, telephone poles and trees.

HOOVER 'SURRENDER' ASSAILED BY CANNON

Sees Loss of Several States for President From Dry Law Attitude.

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., who helped carry Southern States for President Hoover in 1928, today assailed the prohibition stand set forth in the President's acceptance speech as "surrender to the speakeasies, bootleggers and nullifiers of the Constitution."

The bishop criticized the President for not demanding more men and money from Congress for the enforcement of prohibition, and asserted that, as a result of the acceptance speech, Mr. Hoover may lose the electoral votes of several States.

Persons who consider Federal prohibition the outstanding issue of the campaign can support neither Mr. Hoover nor Franklin D. Roosevelt, he said. His statement follows:

"The outstanding, indeed the overshadowing part of Hoover's prohibition statement, is the startling declaration by a President of the United States of the helplessness of his administration in its warfare against lawlessness, in its efforts to control what Hoover denominates the 'intolerable speakeasies and bootlegging' and to prevent 'practical nullification of the Constitution.'

"But is not the President himself responsible if his administration is as helpless as he now so suddenly declares in the very face of that most significant and encouraging official

U.S.-Franco Commercial Discussions Start Soon

Paris, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Negotiations for the new Franco-American commercial agreement are in the preparatory stage, the foreign office announced today, but it is hoped that on Monday formal discussions will be opened between Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Julien Durand, the minister of commerce.

Man Boards Auto; Shoots Passenger

Attempted Holdup Fails, but Motorist Suffers Wound in Shoulder.

Harvey Ferguson, who was 25 years old yesterday, received a strange birthday present when he was shot in the right shoulder by two holdup men on the Rosaryville road near his home, about a half mile from Meadows, Md. His uncle, Frank Ferguson, who was riding in a car with him, escaped injury.

Ferguson was taken to the office of Dr. James I. Boyd at Forestville, Md., where the bullet was removed from his right shoulder blade. It was believed to be a .32 automatic bullet. His condition was said to be not serious last night. Deputy Sheriff Henry Morris and police from the county headquarters at Upper Marlboro were searching for the two holdup men last night.

The Fergusons told the doctor they were riding slowly when two men jumped on the running board of their car. One of them shouted, "Throw up your hands!" and then began shooting. Apparently frightened, the pair jumped into a waiting car and drove away. Ferguson said he could identify one of them.

Italy to Abandon Third Of Navy as Economy Move

130,000 Tons of Fighting Ships Will Be Retired Beginning August 25; Fleet to Consist of Heavy and Light, Fast Cruisers.

Rome, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—One hundred thirty thousand tons of Italy's fighting ships—virtually one-third of the entire navy—will be retired under a program beginning August 25. The purpose is to save money.

When the program has been completed, Italy will be without a single battleship. The Andrea Doria, 22,700 tons, and her sister ship, the Duilio, which were rushed to completion in 1915 when Italy entered the World War, will be placed out of commission. Under the Washington treaty, Italy has the right to 170,000 tons in battleships, but she has elected to disregard this category in favor of heavy and light cruisers.

A report presented to the disarmament conference showed that the whole Italian navy totals 404,005 tons, including 20 ships still under construction.

The crying need for economy was indicated by the fact that some new ships are intended for retirement. These are four of the twelve 2,000-ton destroyers of the newest Italian type which were strewn between North Africa and South America when Gen. Italo Balbo led his air squadron to Brazil in January, 1931.

In addition to the two battleships, the vessels scheduled for retirement include three heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers, 25 destroyers and a dozen submarines, all within the age limit.

The heavy cruisers are the Sanmarco, the San Giorgio and the Pisa, averaging 10,000 tons and each more than 20 years old. Among the light cruisers are four old German ships and one that used to be in the Austrian navy.

While the retirement program is under way, the fleet will be fully recognized. Two squadrons will be created, the first of which will consist of seven 10,000-ton cruisers, none more than three years old, with headquarters at Spezia, a strategic point in relation to the southern coast of France. The second squadron will be made up of six 5,000-ton cruisers, none more than two years old, some of which hold world speed records. Headquarters will be at Taranto where the ships will be available against Jugoslavia and the French colonies.

Victim of Amnesia Roams to Jersey

Capital Woman Forgets All but Number of Telephone Here.

A telephone number was instrumental yesterday in identifying a Washington woman, suffering from amnesia, who was found wandering about the streets of Atlantic City, N. J.

The woman, Miss Charlotte Murphy, of 1879 Newton street northwest, was picked up by police shortly after alighting from a Washington train. She was unable to tell who she was or where she was from. After several hours' questioning she said she remembered a telephone number—Adams 5567.

A check of telephone directories showed the exchange listed in Washington. The number was called. It was learned Miss Murphy was housekeeper for Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Simonton, of the Newton street address. They said she was on the verge of a nervous breakdown and wandered from the house Tuesday afternoon.

A sister, who also lives here, left last night for Atlantic City to return Miss Murphy to Washington.

GARNER, HERE, AGAIN PLEDGES U.S. INFLATION

Soldiers Bonus Should Be Abandoned, Is View of Speaker.

YANKEES DIRECTING CAMPAIGN, HE SAYS

Will Take Plane on Last Stages to Texas From Parleys in New York.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Florid and ebullient after a month's vacation in his rugged Texas, and full of the spirit of victory after a series of conferences with party leaders in New York, Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, came back to Washington yesterday to tell his friends about "the general lay of the political land."

He pledged himself and his party, if successful in November, to continue the fight for the Goldsborough inflation bill, but expressed the view that the soldiers' bonus should be abandoned. He believed the omnibus public building bill so dramatically rejected in the last session well might be permitted to play dead.

He had found no opportunity to sound business sentiment in New York during his recent visit, but expressed high confidence that "nothing Roosevelt could do between now and November could keep him from being elected."

At National Press Club.

Sitting in the corner of the National Press Club lounge late in the afternoon, Mr. Garner gave a group of approximately 100 newspapermen a straight-from-the-shoulder view of national politics, of fishing on the historic Nueces, of the dizzy glamour of New York City, and of his own somewhat chimerical plans for the vice-presidential campaign. He adorned his account frequently with the vigorous figures of the ruddy plainsman and embellished his simple, straightforward conclusions with the rustic elegance of a man who al-

State Democrats Defy U. S. Ruling

Mississipians Are to Ignore Election Injunction on Districts.

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The State Democratic executive committee today voted to defy a Federal court injunction and hold the State congressional election by districts instead of by the State-at-large.

A three-judge Federal court in New Orleans Tuesday granted a permanent injunction to a private citizen, restraining Secretary of State Walker Wood from certifying those members of Congress nominated under the controverted redistricting act of the 1932 Legislature.

Shortly after the committee's action, Representative Will Collier, chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, withdrew as a candidate from the "fictitious" Seventh District, set up in the recently enacted redistricting measure, and declared himself a candidate from the State-at-large.

To Publicize or Not—That's The Burning R. F. C. Issue

South Trimble, Clerk of House, Puzzles Over List of Loans; Hoover Says "No," Garner Says "Yes," So Veteran Official Hires Lawyer.

(United Press.)

A quiet, elderly man with thinning gray hair sits between the devil and the deep blue sea and wonders whether he should make public the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's loans to private companies.

He is South Trimble, clerk of the House of Representatives, and appears to be considerably bewildered by the rush of notoriety that came to him yesterday merely because the morning mail contained a letter bearing long rows of figures with dollar signs in front of them.

On one side of him is mustered all the might of the Hoover administration, which insists the welfare of the Nation demands that the loans be kept secret. On the other side is the Democratic leadership of the House, ready to raise the cry of dereliction of duty unless he makes the loans public.

Caught in such a situation, Trimble did what any bewildered man would do—he went out and hired a lawyer. Then he announced he would make his decision known today.

The controversy goes back to the turbulent days that closed the last session of Congress, when senators and representatives, nerves frayed by heat anad never-ending debate, wrangled over the so-called "Reconstruction Finance Corporation publicity provision of the relief bill."

Even President Hoover got into the struggle, warning against "the danger that would result to the credit structure if this publicity provision were insisted upon." Speaker John N. Garner and Democratic Leader Henry T. Rainey, of the House, insisted they would keep Congress in session until doomsday unless the publicity clause was included in the relief bill.

What happened was that the bill finally provided the Reconstruction Finance Corporation should file monthly reports with the clerk of the House, the secretary of the Senate and the President. Nothing specific was said about whether they should be made public.

Yesterday Mr. Trimble, a Kentuckian who was clerk of the House in the days when Champ Clark was a national figure, sat in the office where

NEW RUSSO-BRITISH TRADE PACT LOOMS

Soviet Dumping Is Strongly Attacked by Dominions at Ottawa Parley.

Ottawa, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Indications that the British were trying to meet Canadian objections against Russian dumping and thereby save for the United Kingdom generous tariff preferences in the Canadian market, developed today with a report that an effort was being made to obtain London's sanction for a new Russo-British trade agreement.

The Canadians have been joined in their stand against Russian dumping by the Australian and New Zealand delegations to the imperial economic conference. The whip apparently has changed hands, and the British were represented as being astounded at dictation to the motherland by the daughter nations.

It was understood that the British delegates had been asked to obtain London's approval for a new agreement with Russia to replace the Graham treaty, which still has four years to run. The new convention would make it impossible for Russia to undersell the dominions in Britain.

The United Kingdom delegation can not pledge its government, and so the question has been carried to London. Usually reliable sources said a ruling by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was expected not later than tomorrow.

The United Kingdom agreed to a report of the committee on commercial foreign relations. This report called upon the participants in the conference to free themselves from existing treaties which would interfere with mutual preferences established in the Commonwealth.

In approving the report the British delegation, it was said, indicated that steps would be taken by Briain to abrogate its treaty with Russia. Although the Russo-British treaty requires six months' notice of cancelation, it was understood that administrative action by the United Kingdom would be taken to cope with any Soviet dumping in the interim.

Court-Martial Gives 10 Years in Hawaii Attack

WILD PLAUDITS HAIL CLEARING OF LANCASTER

Jury at Miami Acquits Flier of Murder of Clarke.

MRS. KEITH-MILLER ABSENT AT VERDICT

Court Mob Shrieks Delight as Love Triangle Death Trial Is Finished.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British flier, was freed of a charge of murdering Haden Clarke, young writer and his rival in love, today by a verdict which precipitated a court room demonstration that threatened to go beyond the control of bailiffs.

The twelve-man jury deliberated 4 hours and 48 minutes before acquitting him on one complete ballot.

He had been on trial since August 2 in one of the most sensational hearings in the history of south Florida—a trial that brought out the secret love lives of himself, Haden Clarke and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, in detail.

Fashionably gowned women wept and shrieked in delight as E. B. Leatherman, clerk of Circuit Court, read aloud the jury's verdict of "Not Guilty."

Near-pandemonium followed, with bailiffs, deputies sheriff and police vainly striving to control the crowd that surged toward the freed man in an effort to grasp his hand.

Portly Matron Moans.

One portly matron, who had been an interested front-row spectator since the start of the hearing August 2, moaned as she sank back in her chair, gasping with delight. It was learned later that she did not know Lancaster.

In the midst of the uproar, deathlike stillness descended as Lancaster, nervously clasping and unclasping his hands, stepped forward before the jurors, still in their box.

"Gentlemen," he said, "you have been very patient with my case. You have had to listen during the long trial of the case to many things. I want to give you my heartfelt thanks for exonerating me."

Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, third figure in the strange triangle, was not in the courtroom when the verdict was read, but quickly heard it in an adjoining office.

"Fair and Impartial."

"I am delighted," she cried. "I knew old Bill would come through."

Defense Counsel James M. Carson expressed pleasure at the verdict, as did his associate J. H. Lathero.

State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne did not immediately have a statement. Dr. Beverly Clarke, of New York, brother of the dead man, was in the courtroom at the verdict but would make no comment.

Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, mother of Haden Clarke, was in the room before the case went to the jury, but

G. O. P. ENTHUSIASM SEEN HIGH IN EAST

Drive Leaders Say States in Area Now Claimed by Foes Will Go Republican.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A "rising tide of Republican enthusiasm" in New York State was claimed by W. Kingsland Macy, Republican State chairman, in a telegram he sent today to Eastern campaign headquarters.

There was a sparkle in the eyes of Senator Felix Hebert, director of the Hoover-Curtis ballot-drive in the East, as he read this sentence of the message.

New York State, home of the Democratic standard-bearer, has 47 electoral votes and will be one of the principal battlegrounds in the fall campaign.

Hope to Win East.

As Senator Hebert announced receipt of the conclusions reached by Macy in his tour of upstate counties, Senator Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, assistant eastern manager, issued the following statement:

"We realize that the Democrats are at the present time claiming all the New England and Eastern States.

"We hope to get one or two from them before the end of the month.

"We should be able to get a few more during September.

"By the middle of October all of them should be safely Republican.

"To make certain of such results will require work. We at least are assuming that to be true.

Says Foes Must Be Radical.

"We must get the truth to the individual voter. If we do that we shall convince him. The Democratic candidate will have trouble convincing the East that they are not radicals.

"In their endeavor to do so they will alienate their three great generals, Long, Wheeler and Dill.

"After all, the only possible chance the Democrats have is to be radical and more radical with each day of the campaign."

Macy said of New York State that "in conferences so far held in my circuit of the State, leaders of almost two score counties report a rising tide of Republican enthusiasm in response to President Hoover's acceptance speech."

Praises Acceptance Speech.

"I am not exaggerating," he added, "when I say that nothing has stirred the hearts and minds of men and women in the State to such an extent since Lincoln's Gettysburg address."

The speakers' bureau is concentrating on plans for the Maine State campaign. Secretary of the Treasury Mills will be one of the outstanding orators who will be sent into the State.

The organization of the engineers' national Hoover committee, which will conduct a Nation-wide campaign for the President, was announced by John V. M. Reynders, chairman of the new group's executive committee.

The announcement said "active work is being undertaken to consolidate engineering sentiment and to call for support from allied technical and professional groups."

18 Are Arrested In Gang Slaying

Party Raided Intended to Celebrate Killing and Pay Off, Is Belief.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Plans for a party which police believe was to "celebrate" a recent gang slaying and pay off of the killers were interrupted today by arrests of sixteen men and two women. Fourteen of the men were held without bail for hearing Friday, charged with the slaying of John Bazzano, of Pittsburgh, whose strangled and stabbed body was found in a burlap bag in Brooklyn August 8. The women and two men were released as not involved in the plot.

All the men, prosperous looking and claiming to be in the restaurant or grocery business, denied complicity in the killing. They were rounded up in Brooklyn and Manhattan hotels, on information detectives have been gathering for many days.

Police declared the gruesome "celebration" was to have been held in a midtown hotel tonight. They said Bazzano's four killers were to have been wined and dined, paid $5,000 each and "sounded out" on proposed slaying of a New York racketeer, at "increased rates" of $7,000 each—or even $10,000, if they insisted.

Lawyer in Largest HoldupTrial Killed

Underworld Contacts of Defender of Bailey Are Sought.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Authorities looked tonight to underworld contacts of J. Earl Smith for clews to the mysterious slaying of the 34-year-old Tulsa lawyer found shot to death here this morning after participating in the defense at Fort Scott, Kans., of Harvey Bailey, identified as the leader of the largest bank robbery on record.

While officers sifted circumstances of the killing, Bailey, named as the leader of the $2,000,000 holdup of the Lincoln (Nebr.) National Bank & Trust Co. two years ago, was sentenced for a bank robbery at Fort Scott and sent to the Kansas Penitentiary at Lansing to serve 10 to 50 years.

Smith's body, battered and shot, was found beside his motor car on a lonely road near the Indian Hills Country Club here. A voice over the telephone apparently lured the attorney away from home last night to his death. Telling his wife and two children he would be gone 20 minutes, he drove away at 8:30 p. m. He was not seen alive again. Police were attempting to trace the telephone call.

Mallorca Court Fines 4 Americans on Papers

Palma, Mallorca, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Four prominent American colonists were arrested today on a technical charge of not registering their passports and fined. Police said the real reason was that there were too many Americans settling in the Belearic Isles.

Among the four were Sibyl Sutton Vane, theatrical producer, and David Munro, editor of a local American paper.

Five Men and Woman Saved As Fishing Schooner Burns

Victims Adrift in Dory Picked Up 12 Miles Off Cape May by Chance Craft; Skipper Surprised When Rescued.

Cape May, N. J., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The sea, lapping over these sandy shores tonight, sang its same sweet song for five men and a woman fresh from as terrifying an experience as the great wilderness of water ever devised for her stalwart followers.

The six were aboard the fishing schooner Hilda Marie that burned to the water edge 12 miles off Cape May today. They had the choice between death in a raging fire or death by drowning. Their chances seemed one in a hundred, but they took to the sea. A few minutes later a friendly sail showed itself on the horizon.

Edward Brex, master mariner, threw one leg over the arm of the plush rocker in the living room of his seaside cottage and puffed out acrid smoke from his black pipe.

"I been goin' to sea for twenty year'," he said, "ahd it'd take more'n a little fire to scare me."

Mrs. Brex paused in her task of preparing dinner to look in. "I was scared and I'm not minding admitting it. But I'd rather go to sea with my man than be left ashore, so I would."

The Hilda Marie, Capt. Brex commanding, Mrs. Brex aboard, and manned by a crew of four, sailed from Cape May for the five fathoms fishing grounds, 20 miles off shore. The sea was calm. An offshore wind puffed the Hilda Marie's stained sails. The watches passed uneventfully until a little before dawn today when a heavy fog settled down. Seaman Raymond Klien was at the wheel. He sniffed the damp air and whistled for his watch mate.

"I smell smoke," he said.

"Yer smellin' things," said Seaman William Burton. But he took a "look-see" anyway. The room containing the little auxiliary engine was on fire. In an instant, all hands were on deck.

Smoke billowed out of the engine room. In its center was a dull, red spot of living flame. In every direction was a gray, impenetrable blanket of fog. The sea lapped ironically against the sides.

"Do you want to live?" Capt. Brex barked at his crew. "Then pump faster, lads."

The old pump fairly sang and water poured into the engine room. But it was too late. The flames spread and in an hour the poop deck of the Hilda Marie was a mass of crackling, roaring flames. The five men and Mrs. Brex were huddled forward. There was nothing to do now to save the ship.

"Don't cry, honey," said Capt. Brex. "Now men! What shall it be? would you like to hang around a bit, or take to the dory?"

The dory was swung over the side and launched in a calm sea. It leaked. The men set to bailing, but how long could they keep it afloat? They drifted away from the Hilda Marie and soon she was lost in the fog. For a while they could hear the roar of the fire, but soon that too was lost.

"Well, men, if we had a compass maybe we could navigate," said Capt. Brex. "But we ain't got a compass, so I suppose we'd better be prayin'."

At that instant a breeze sprang up. The fog grew gradually thinner. A mile from them was the smoldering hulk of the Hilda Marie.

"Look! Look!" sobbed a sailor. "A sail! A sail!"

It was the sails of the fishing schooner, Bob Jack, out of Newport News, and for the six in the dory there was never a more beautiful ship. She was coming all sails set, having sighted the burning Hilda Marie.

"Well," said Capt. Brex, as he helped Mrs. Brex over the rail of the Bob Jack, "all I can say is I'm surprised. I thought that was about the end of my seagoin'."

GARNER PAUSES HERE EN ROUTE HOME FROM EASTERN SESSIONS

ways has been a hundred per cent for the people.

"I am going to do whatever those Yankees up there in New York tell me to do," Mr. Garner said in response to a question to his plans for the campaign.

He said he had no speaking engagements, planned no trips and hoped nothing would happen between now and November to take him far from his home in Uvalde, Tex.

Asked when he might leave Texas to take a part in the national campaign, Mr. Garner answered: "As late as possible."

"Meant No Discourtesy."

Responding to a question concerning his refusal to talk to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York over the telephone during the vice presidential crisis in the Democratic national convention at Chicago, Mr. Garner said he meant no discourtesy to Gov. Smith, but had simply adhered to his policy of never talking over the telephone after 6 o'clock at night. He revealed for the first time that both Gov. Roosevelt and William Gibbs McAdoo also had tried to talk with him from Chicago the same night, but he would not answer the telephone after hours.

Commenting upon his trip to New York, Mr. Garner said he was profoundly impressed by the "difference between the two civilizations" which he had encountered in Texas and the great American metropolis. The speed at which automobiles travel over the highways astonished him.

"You can't imagine it until you see it yourself," he concluded at this point.

He had been to New York City many times, but never before had been so impressed by the different tempo of life there, he explained.

Most Satisfactory Talk.

Mr. Garner said he had a most satisfactory talk with Gov. Smith, but preferred not to say just what active part the 1928 presidential nominee would take in the national campaign this year.

"I'll let Smith speak for himself on his part in the campaign," he said.

So certain is Mr. Garner of victory in November that he feels that details of campaign management are not a matter for real concern, at least to himself.

"You are still a candidate for Congress, also?" a newspaperman asked.

"I am still a candidate for Congress—and I'm going to be elected both ways," Mr. Garner responded.

"Then if you are elected to both jobs, which one will you select?"

"Well, I'm not agoing to decide that until after the election."

"You can't preside over both the Senate and the House, can you?"

"No, but I could move over there in 30 minutes."

Smile of Confidence.

"Well, you're going to do a lot of talking for the national ticket between now and November" an interviewer suggested.

"Probably too much," Garner replied in a flash.

Pressed for details as to his personal plans, the Speaker added: "I'm going to do what they tell me."

As a result of his conferences in Albany and New York City, Mr. Garner feels there is no longer any serious misgiving in the East concerning his political policies.

"I think I convinced them I'm not going to eat 'em up," he said. A smile of easy confidence carried assurance to his audience that "Cactus Jack" had impressed his rustic individuality upon the party managers along the vital Eastern seaboard.

Asked if he had suggested immediate publicity for the monthly reports of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the first of which now is in the hands of South Trimble, clerk of the House, Mr. Garner said he had not discussed the matter with Mr. Trimble.

Silent on Bonus Exodus.

"I make laws; I don't execute them," he added.

Asked if he favored immediate publicity, Mr. Garner said he could not answer before he had an opportunity to look into "all the facts of the matter."

Questioned whether the expulsion of the so-called bonus army had "hurt President Hoover politically throughout the country," Mr. Garner replied:

"I was afishing then. I don't know any of the details."

"Did you note any improvement in business sentiment in New York?"

"I didn't try to sound it out," Mr. Garner replied.

"Was there any business," another interviewer pressed.

"I didn't get any of it," the Speaker answered.

Summarizing his election views, Mr. Garner said:

"If the election were held today—and, of course, every man his own guess—the Democrats would win by 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 plurality."

Commenting upon President Hoover's acceptance address, Mr. Garner said he felt confident the President would change his mind before November.

"On what?" he was asked.

"Oh, on many things—anything."

Mr. Garner left Washington last night over the B. and O. railroad for Cincinnati, where he planned to take an airplane for St. Louis and Dallas en route to Uvalde.

Party Ahead of U. S., Is Charged to Garner

(Associated Press.)

In a letter sent from Lafayette, Ind., and made public by the Republican national committee, Representative Wood (Republican), Indiana, yesterday asked Speaker Garner whether one of his recent utterances means he put his "party ahead of the country."

Addressing the Democratic vice presidential nominee as "Dear Jack," Wood wrote:

"I see by the papers that you replied to a question of David Wilson, Democratic State chairman of Connecticut, as follows:

"'I have always done what I thought best for my country, never varying, unless I was advised that two-thirds of the Democrats were for a bill and then I voted for it.'

"Now Jack, the folks out my way want to know if this means you are for the good of the country except when you vote as a Democrat, or do you mean that you put your party ahead of the country, or are you simply trying to explain why you went haywire during the last session of Congress, and if so, where does that leave the Democrats?"

He added as a postscript:

"Everybody is curious to know if you apologized to Al yesterday for ducking out on him when he tried to get you on the phone that time when you made the deal for the Vice Presidency."

Two Mummified Bodies Disappear

Reported Stolen at Hotel After Being Shown as Indians.

Indian Springs, Ga., Aug. 17 (A.P.). Bodies of a woman and child, unearthed here August 12, which have been on exhibition as mummified bodies of Indians, were reported stolen from the basement of a hotel here last night. Sheriff W. D. Pope announced today. Sheriff Pope said he investigated and found that entrance to the basement apparently had been through a broken window pane. The glass case containing the bodies had been broken and laid aside.

Since the discovery was announced crowds have visited the scene and viewed the forms. It was announced the bodies were dug up from under 3 feet of clay soil by a Negro workman.

Scientists who subsequently viewed the forms, including P. W. Fattig, curator of the museum at Emory University, and Dr. Leon P. Smith, professor of chemistry and geology at Wesleyan College, have expressed doubt that the bodies could have mummified in the clay soil of Georgia.

ROOSEVELT TO VISIT 21 STATES ON TOUR

Western Campaign to Begin at Topeka, September 14; Buffalo Last Stop.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. Roosevelt, on his Western campaign trip next month, it was learned tonight, will touch 21 States and make sixteen stops in 22 days.

The Democratic presidential nominee, traveling by special train, will leave Albany September 12. Before he returns to his home State October 3, he will have visited the grain States of the Middle West, the Rocky Mountain region, the Pacific Northwest, California, the Southwest and the industrial section of the Great Lakes.

It became known that the itinerary, which is virtually complete, calls for the first stop at Topeka, September 14. The other cities to be visited and the dates are:

Denver, September 15; Cheyenne, September 16; Salt Lake City, September 17 and 18; Butte, September 19; Seattle, September 20; Portland, September 21; San Francisco, September 23; Los Angeles, September 24; San Diego, September 25; Williams, Ariz., September 26; Albuquerque, September 27; Sioux City, Iowa, September 29; Milwaukee, September 30; Chicago, October 1; Detroit, October 2 and Buffalo, October 3.

Mr. Roosevelt will make only a few prepared addresses on the trip, which will be devoted largely, as he said a few days ago, to finding out what "the people want."

While his train will cross parts of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Texas and Oklahoma there will be no scheduled stops in these States. Some of them will be visited later in the campaign.

It is understood Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, and her husband, and the eldest Roosevelt son, James, and his wife, will be with the governor during part of the swing.

On his first campaign trip to Columbus, Ohio, where he speaks Saturday, the governor will leave Albany at 10:45 p. m. Friday and arrive at Columbus at 11:55 a. m. Saturday. Stops in Ohio will be made at Ashtabula, 7:13 a. m., Cleveland, 8:45; Shelby, 10:05; Crestline, 10:20; Gallion, 10:30, and Delaware, 11:20. The time is all standard. The governor speaks at 4 p. m. and will leave Columbus, returning, at 8:45 Saturday night.

Curtis to Receive Notification Today

Simple Ceremony Planned on Steps of Kansas State Capitol.

Topeka, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—At a simple ceremony tomorrow Vice President Charles Curtis will be notified formally of his renomination by the Republican party.

In keeping with the expressed desire of Mr. Curtis, the ceremony will be in sharp contrast with the pomp which accompanied his notification four years ago.

The Kansas Capitol will be the scene again, but the ceremony has been shifted from the south to the broad north steps of the State House to save the expense of building a canopy to protect the dignitaries from the sun.

Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, will preside. The ceremony will begin at 3 p. m. (Central standard time). Dr. Phillip C. King, president of Washburn College here, will deliver the invocation. L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, keynoter at the Republican convention, will make the notification speech.

Wallace's Son Scores G. O. P. Farm Neglect

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Henry A. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, indicated today he would support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt if the Democratic presidential nominee adopts a program to restore the foreign market for the agricultural surplus.

Wallace, son of the late Henry C. Wallace, who served in the Harding and Coolidge Cabinets until his death in 1924, assailed the Republican party as "grossly culpable in its refusal to formulate some plan of definite farm relief."

PARTY PLANS TO PAY DEFICIT OF $400,000

Democratic Agreement in $100,000 Raskob Debt Made as Drive Begins.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—An agreement looking to the liquidation of the $400,000 Democratic deficit was reached today, and the Roosevelt-Garner campaign chiefs immediately set to work on their money-raising plans.

Just how the old indebtedness will be paid off was not disclosed.

The announcement that the problem had been solved came from James A. Farley, national chairman, as he came from a conference with John J. Raskob, his predecessor.

Raskob, who loaned hundreds of thousands of dollars to the party, not only to help pay off the 1928 deficit, but also to finance the between-elections organization he built up, was silent about the meeting.

"I am out of politics," he asserted, adding that any comment would have to come from Farley.

$100,000 Owed to Raskob.

About $100,000 of the deficit is owed to Raskob personally, while the rest is represented by notes held by a New York bank.

The rest of Raskob's loans either have been paid off or have been canceled by him as a party contribution.

For more than an hour Farley, Frank C. Walker, national committee treasurer; Robert Jackson, national committee secretary, and former Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman of the executive campaign finance committee, conferred in Raskob's Fifth avenue office.

The first problem they tackled was how much they should set as a goal for their drive. Last week a figure of $1,500,000 was tentatively announced.

Then they turned to a discussion of how and where they should seek financial aid.

State Budgets Adopted.

As the meeting ended, Chairman Byrd announced a budget had been adopted in every State "so our finances will be handled with every business efficiency." The size of these budgets was not disclosed.

He issued an appeal to "all loyal Democrats" to send in a prompt contribution, however small, and the names of five or more of their friends. He promised prompt acknowledgment of all contributions.

In telling of the "satisfactory adjustment" reached with Raskob, Byrd said:

"We express our appreciation to Mr. Raskob for his generous attitude."

He did not give any hint as to what the "satisfactory adjustment" was.

He announced a finance committee will be appointed for each State and a full meeting of the national executive finance committee will be held each week.

In making his plea for funds he promised that "every effort will be made to eliminate waste."

WESTON IS SLIGHTLY AHEAD IN WYOMING

Clark, for Governor, Behind Him Only 723 Votes; Carter Wins.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Wyoming's three-cornered Republican gubernatorial primary contest remained undecided tonight, with Harry R. Weston, State treasurer, holding a lead of only 723 votes over A. M. Clark, acting governor, on returns from 542 of the State's 686 precincts. The vote was: Weston, 15,338; Clark, 14,615.

Mayor E. W. Rowell, of Casper, who sought the nomination on an anti-prohibition platform, had received 8,105 votes.

Vincent Carter, of Kemmerer, seeking a third term, was assured a victory in the Republican congressional contest with Perry W. Jenkins, of Cora. Carter, who engaged in the campaign as an advocate of revision of the prohibition laws, received 24,838 votes from 540 precincts. Jenkins, who ran as a supporter of the eighteenth amendment, trailed with 11,949 votes.

Leslie Miller, of Cheyenne, apparently had won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination by a comfortable margin from Thomas D. O'Neil, of Big Piney. The vote from 542 precincts was: Miller, 12,569; O'Neil, 10,176.

The Democrats will certify a congressional candidate for the November general election by petition.

Clark, acting as governor while also serving as secretary of state, sought the nomination to fill out the two-year unexpired term of the governor, Frank C. Emerson, who died in 1931.

Weston received the Republican State convention indorsement and campaigned aggressively on an economy platform. Clark also had pledged himself to extensive retrenchment in governmental affairs.

SHOUSE NEW HEAD OF BIG WET GROUP

and vice versa. Its political activities will be directed along those lines.

However virtuous and high minded such a course might be, the association could not do much else, in view of the strong monetary and numerical support it has had from Republicans and Democrats all over the country. Even to seem to align itself with one or the other party would, perforce, weaken, if not alienate, the support the association has had from the other side.

In the election of Mr. Shouse to the association presidency, incidentally, is seen the influence of John J. Raskob, erstwhile chairman of the Democratic national committee. It was Mr. Raskob who brought Mr. Shouse to Washington to be chairman of the Democratic executive committee, a job which may not have been created for Mr. Shouse, but which had at least been dormant for some time.

Mr. Raskob not only has been the financial "angel" of the Democratic party for the last few years but he has been a heavy contributor to the coffers of the association opposed to the prohibition amendment, in the affairs of which he has had an active and potent voice. Apparently Mr. Raskob liked very much the way Mr. Shouse has handled his job on the Democratic committee and decided he should head up the work of the association.

Drive for Funds Due.

Naming of Mr. Shouse is expected to be followed by a hard drive for funds among the populace. Large contributions will be welcomed with open arms, but there probably will be a drive to get small contributions from countless thousands of men and women, not only for the benefit of money received but because each contribution by an individual will increase the ardor of the individual.

"Today," Mr. Du Pont said, "a somewhat different character of work confronts us. The executive committee of the association recognizes that active steps toward organization will be required in a number of the States in order to bring about promptly the ratification of the new amendment which Congress will submit. As is well known the position of the association is for unqualified repeal."

The association, he continued, felt "that the only wise solution for the vexed liquor problem is to return control to the States without attempting such restrictions, no matter how desirable their purpose, as to introduce new complications into the situation." The association hopes to work with both political parties and to assist, without reference to partisanship, insofar as it can toward election of members of the Senate and the House who are pledged to the important policy of repeal."

Lame Duck Amendment Bill Signed by Pinchot

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Gov. Pinchot today signed a joint resolution of the special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature ratifying the proposed "lame duck" amendment to the United States Constitution.

Jobless Aid Police In Farmers' Strike

Few Iowa Produce Trucks Enter Sioux City, Despite Special Protections.

Sioux City, Iowa, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Though patrols of special deputies and police opened a market route for farm produce today, only a few trucks pierced lines of striking farmers picketing highways leading to this important farm market.

Most dealers and farmers preferred not to risk the sticks and jibes of the strikers, battling for higher prices for products in a double-angled struggle. One group was responding to the "farm strike" call issued by the National Farmers Holiday August 8 and the other involved milk dealers and producers in this territory.

The truckers who approached strikers' picket lines were escorted safely by deputies recruited from the unemployed.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, issued a statement yesterday blaming President Hoover for the farmers' strike at Sioux City. "The cause of this strike," Brookhart said, "is the utter disregard of the Republican platform of 1928 by President Hoover and his party, and also the utter disregard of the President's own acceptance speech at that time."

WALKER UPHOLDS FEE-SPLITTING AS ROOSEVELT FINISHES QUIZ

failure to produce him before the Hofstadter investigating commission.

Walker began his testimony regarding Dr. Walker by declaring:

"I have no knowledge whatsoever of the scope of my brother's business."

Views on Fee-Splitting.

"I don't consider fee-splitting wrong," he said a moment later, and the spectators sat back expectantly as the storm clouds gathered on the governor's face.

"If fees are split there must be two parties," the governor remarked, when Walker explained that his brother had some sort of a "business arrangement" with the other doctors involved.

"Don't you think it part of your duties to find out the propriety of these doctors continuing in the city employ?" Roosevelt blazed at the witness. "It was testified O'Mara (one of the physicians involved) received fees from the city for compensation cases, and that within two or three days thereafter, O'Mara gave him a check for exactly half the sum of these city fees. Dr. Walker testified he never did any city work. Do you consider this ethical?"

"I don't see anything unethical about it," the mayor stubbornly persisted.

Demands Answer.

"Do you consider fee-splitting by city doctors a part of good government?" the governor asked, as though astounded at the mayor's reply.

The mayor hesitated and twisted nervously in his chair.

"Mayor, you are not responsive to my questions," the governor continued sternly. "Answer the question, please!"

The mayor sat silent for a moment and again Roosevelt commanded, "Answer, mayor!"

"If he (O'Mara) owed him money, I think it perfectly ethical," the mayor responded.

"Don't you think that fee-splitting on the part of the city doctors tends to cost the city more because the doctors might lengthen the time of treatment and thus run up their bills?" the governor thundered.

"You're assuming——" the mayor began, only to be interrupted by another blast by the thoroughly angry executive.

"You're not answering my questions," he shouted.

Walker's Bitter Reply.

"The regents of the State of New York and the attorney general are investigating this matter, and truth will be had without the help of this investigating committee," Walker said bitterly.

The mayor's direct examination was concluded with this phase of the case, each of the fifteen points of the charges made against him by Samuel Seabury having been covered.

After another bitter wrangle with John J. Curtin, counsel for Walker, the governor ruled that Curtin might call witnesses originally heard by the Hofstadter investigating committee, and that the first one to be subjected to Curtin's cross-examination would be Samuel Hofstadter, chairman of the legislative group that investigated New York City's affairs.

"We'll continue this case tomorrow and Friday," the governor said, "and then resume on Monday."

Sherwood Inquiry.

The earlier day's proceedings had dwelt at length on charges that the mayor aided and abetted Russell T. Sherwood, his financial man-of-all-work, in remaining out of the jurisdiction of the Hofstadter committee, and with charges that the mayor had disobeyed the committee's demands to bring in his entire financial records.

The mayor's defense forces tried to show, through cross-examination of Jacob Gould Schurman, jr., one of Seabury's investigators, that the committee had asked the police to discontinue their search for Sherwood.

Schurman admitted "calling off the New York City police," explaining that they were not empowered to serve a subpena out of the State, and that Sherwood had been located, first at Atlantic City and later in Mexico City, where he declined to obey the summons.

The governor once more had difficulty with Walker when he inquired into whether the mayor had produced his financial records.

The mayor insisted that he had produced everything he could find, but that the records for certain years were missing.

"I have no reason to withhold any," the mayor insisted.

Mayor Walker tonight denied reports that he was considering resigning his office and "seeking vindication at the polls."

"Such a thought has never entered my mind," he told newspapermen.

W. C. T. U. PREDICTS THIRD MAJOR PARTY

Mrs. Boole Is Elected Again; Liquor Reported Taboo in Washington Society.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Formation of a third major political party in the near future was predicted in a report adopted today by the annual convention of the women's Christian Temperance Union, which reelected Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, N. Y., to the national presidency of the organization for an eighth term.

Mrs. Boole had announced early in the convention she was not a candidate for reelection, preferring to give her entire time to the work of the world organization of which she also is president.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, Iowa, her nearest competitor for the presidency, was unanimously reelected vice president.

Mrs. Boole received 228 votes out of the 292 cast. Mrs. Smith received 49 and Mrs. Nelle G. Burger, of Springfield, Mo., assistant recording secretary, received 12. The others were scattered.

Without Debate.

Without debate and by a unanimous vote the union adopted the report of the political action committee which said, "We believe the time is not far distant when there will be an uprising of the American people for a new major party based on moral ideals, which will include observance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and other great principles of government."

The report also expressed opposition to the prohibition planks in the platforms of the two major parties.

Mrs. James M. Doran, of Washington, D. C., director of the department of nonalcoholic fruit products, and wife of Dr. James M. Doran of the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, told the delegates "there is nothing that arouses my indignation quite so much as the statement 'that the elite of America are serving intoxicating liquors in their homes.'

"There are wealthy people who spend their money," she said, "there are thoughtless people and there are careless people; there are, I am afraid, deliberate law breakers; there are people who, not caring to use their brains to carry on an intelligent conversation, befuddle themselves to a stage of maudlin laughter in an effort to enjoy themselves—but the elite of America, never."

Washington Society.

Society is going in for nonalcoholic drinks, she declared, "which are not a product of the bootlegger's black art, break no law and lead no one into the paths of ruin."

"Official Washington society," she said, "serves nonintoxicating fruit drinks; at the 'at home' functions of Cabinet officers' wives, for instance, delightful fruit drinks are served, and it is becoming more and more a matter of routine everywhere throughout the country to serve a fruit drink during dinner."

The orderliness in the camp of the bonus army at Washington, D. C., was cited by Mrs. W. C. Hair, of Philadelphia, associate director of the organization's soldiers and sailors department, as a "striking example of the real benefits of prohibition."

"Not one sign of drinking did we see, nor did we hear of any; not even through the wet press," she said. "Nor did we see any signs of intoxication in the city as they wandered about the streets. One can not visit the wretched camps and not be touched with compassion and a certain admiration as well."

The union decided to send a telegram of congratulation to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh on the birth of their second son. At the request of a delegate, Mrs. Boole led the convention in prayer for the safety and happiness of the new born infant.

"Billy" Sunday Views Repeal as Calamity

Lakeside, Ohio, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The greatest calamity that could befall America, both morally and economically, the Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday said tonight, would be repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"If Borah had run on a dry ticket, I would have supported him, but now Hoover will get my vote," said the evangelist in what he termed his first political address. "Gov. Roosevelt is a fine man but no candidate is going to ride into the White House on a beer wagon."

PUBLICITY ON LOANS BALKS HOUSE CLERK

John Quincy Adams died, and explained his position:

"I see in the papers that I will be called on the carpet if I don't make these loans public. This is a matter of law. It is not discretionary with me. Like all matters of law there are two sides to it. I have sought legal advice and my attorney is preparing a brief which will explain to the public the action which I shall take. I will make public my decision tomorrow."

Then an alternative occurred to him:

"Say, the President gets a copy of the loans. He can make them public."

Trimble decided, however, not to dodge the responsibility.

By coincidence there appeared on Capitol Hill yesterday Speaker John N. Garner, leader in the fight for the publicity provision. He conferred with Trimble, and on coming out of the office indicated he had left the matter squarely up to the clerk.

"Congress passed the law and that's all there is to it," Garner said.

MEMORIAL ERECTED TO GEN. L. A. WOOD

Native Town Pays Tribute to Late Army Chief as It Observes 200th Year.

Winchester, N. H., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Winchester tonight observed its 200th anniversary and honored the memory of its famous son, the late Maj. Gen. Leonard A. Wood.

A tablet, outlining the highlights in the career of Gen. Wood, who was born at Winchester, October 9, 1860, was unveiled in the presence of United States Senator George H. Moses, Assistant Secretary of War Frederick H. Payne, Col. Walter H. Grant, chief of staff of the First Corps Area, and the majority of Winchester's citizens.

It was erected on a business block, which long since had supplanted the home in which the general was born. It read in part: "Leonard Wood, commander of the Rough Riders; Governor of Cuba; Chief of Staff of the United States Army; Governor-General of the Philippines."

The exercises culminated a day of celebration, which was marked by a parade, a sports program and an historical pageant.

The tablet was unveiled by Brig. Gen. Osborne C. Wood, son of the late general. It was Gen. Wood's first visit to the town where his father was born.

Senator Moses gave a resume of the historical background of Winchester and Secretary Payne read a message from President Hoover which read:

"I will be obliged if you will convey my cordial greetings to the audience and express my deep sense of the value of Gen. Leonard Wood's services to the county both as a soldier and administrator."

The pageant tonight was held in a natural amphitheatre in the rear of the Universalist Church, with a sloping green as the stage.

Sunken-Treasure Steamer Located

Search East of Cape Henry for Merida Reported Successful.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—A deep-sea search for millions in gold and jewels lying in a steamer that sank 21 years ago was believed near success tonight as news of the hunt, being made 62 miles east of Cape Henry, trickled through a strict censorship.

It was reported here tonight that John Dahl and Harry Nettleman, operating in a newly patented diving chamber, have located the steamer Merida 200 feet below the surface, in a swirl of undersea currents. They have not been able to enter the ship, it was reported, because the swirling waters twisted them about so that they lost direction and could not issue orders, by telephone, to the crew above on the ship Salvor.

Word has also come back that the lost ship is covered with shells and sea growth and that huge undersea animals are hindering the work. These are being driven off, however, by powerful searchlights.

GUARDS HELD READY AS MINE WAR LOOMS

Troops Prepared for Service Following Slaying of Union Official.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—National Guard bayonets were dusted off tonight as guns blazed in the strike-torn Illinois coal fields.

Preparations for "any eventualities" were made at Camp Grant, where 8,500 Illinois guardsmen are in annual summer training upon receipt of information that a union mine official had been slain and a miner's wife slightly wounded.

Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the Thirty-third Illinois Division, instructed his staff officers to be prepared to move troops into the trouble zone if necessary.

Joe Colbert, recording secretary of a local union at Orient, Ill., was shot to death by three unidentified men who drove up in a car at his home, called him to their automobile and discharged a shotgun at him. The assassins escaped.

Near Taylorville, where sheriff's deputies are guarding highways against a threatened invasion of striking miners, Mrs. Clyde E. Mose was grazed on the forehead and arm by deputies who fired upon the Mose car which they believed was trying to evade them. The woman's husband and 7-year-old daughter were with her in the automobile.

Christian County authorities, who have deputized 1,500 men to guard highways, awaited anxiously the announced intention of striking miners to march upon mines in the vicinity and "peaceably" picket miners already working.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A measure to repeal the Alabama statute prohibiting the sale or possession of any beverage that "looks like, tastes like or smells like" beer was placed before the legislature in extraordinary session today.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Bankers who have participated in recent discussions with Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, said today that Meyer's plan to establish a large commodity finance corporation was still under consideration.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Russell N. Boardman, 34, speed flier and cohelder of the world's distance flight record, was still semiconscious tonight at Springfield Hospital, but physicians said his condition showed "slight improvement." Boardman was injured in the crash of his plane yesterday at Springfield Airport.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Airplanes went into action today against an Idaho forest fire raging on a 12½-mile front as flames drove back 25 fighters and burned out a camp in the Clearwater Forest. Roaring through thick underbrush northeast of Kooskia, the fire destroyed a camp commanded by Forester Hugh Redding, and drove fire fighters from the Ferguson camp, but did not burn it.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Wiley Noland was convicted by a jury in superior court here late this afternoon on a charge of attempting to bribe a juror in the trial of Col. Luke Lea and two others for violating the State banking laws. Sentence will be passed tomorrow morning, Judge J. H. Clement, presiding, announced.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Testimony that the first wife of the Rev. S. A. Berrie might have died of poisoning was given by Dr. W. W. Osgood today at a habeas corpus hearing on behalf of the preacher, who is charged with her murder. The physician had signed a death certificate stating Mrs. Berrie died of a heart affection.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Theft of $90,000 in diamonds from his trunk on a train between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati was reported to police today by Josh F. Crohn, New York, salesman for a New York diamond brokerage firm (Hugo Oppenheim & Co.). Crohn said he discovered the robbery when he opened his trunk at his hotel here this morning. Instead of jewels, he found only a package of women's apparel, he said.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Richard Gillman, of Cleveland, today was sentenced to 24 years' imprisonment, following his conviction on two counts of an indictment charging forgery in connection with a $131,000 swindle of Almours Securities, Inc., an Alfred I. du Pont concern.

VENABLE SHORTAGE TRIAL NEARS JURY

Women in Court Weep as Counsel Pleads for Former Official.

Warm Springs, Va., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The trial of George B. Venable, former Bath County treasurer, continued into the night with little probability that the case would reach the jury before tomorrow.

Seated behind his attorneys, with his two sons at his side, the accused listened with little show of emotion to final arguments of defense and prosecution.

Several women in the crowded courtroom wept as defense Attorney R. C. Stokes, of Covington, in a two-hour-and-a-half plea asked the jury to send Venable back to his invalid wife and two sons.

An almost equal amount of time was consumed by Prosecuting Attorney Bryan who said Venable was guilty of the charge that his accounts were short more than $93,000.

The Court in its instructions to the jury stressed the question of "fraudulently and knowingly misappropriated public funds."

Venable, whose testimony stretched over most of two court days, had admitted a small "book" shortage, but asserted there was at all times sufficient uncollected tax tickets to cover the deficit.

For almost two hours this morning the trial was delayed while the instructions were argued by attorneys.

Court Told Egan Ordered Murder

Former Convict Testifies Against Ousted Public Defender.

San Francisco, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Verne Doran, former convict, testified today he and Albert Tinnin, a process server, killed Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes with a motor car April 29 at the behest of Frank J. Egan, former San Francisco public defender.

"Egan told me he had gotten me out of jail and could keep me out," Doran related at the murder trial of the ousted official and Tinnin. "Mrs. Hughes, he said, had threatened to go to the Bar Association and expose him."

Doran, star witness for the State, was granted a separate trial so he might testify against his alleged associates in the killing of the elderly widow. He followed D. Herschel Brasfield, insurance agent, on the stand. The latter testfied he had delivered two policies on the life of Mrs. Hughes to Egan, who acted as her attorney. Doran repeated the story he had told the police of the planning of the murder by Egan and its execution.

STATE CHARGES BALL WITH HIKING BALANCE

Sheriff Howard B. Fields was forced to rap several times to restore quiet.

When questioned by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence Douglas, Andrews said that if a person with accounts in seven banks deposited checks on the other banks among the seven the result would have the effect of "boosting the bank balances by the amount of the transactions without actually increasing the amount in the bank."

After defense objections to the question had been overruled, Douglas inquired, "If a man conducts such a transaction or a series of transactions through the seven banks by depositing checks in the aggregate of $108,000, drawn on others of those banks, what effect will it have on the balances?"

Andrews replied that "it would have the effect of making the balances appear $108,000 more than they actually were."

The State through Douglas has charged that Ball raised his balance of June 30, 1931, in this way. Several bankers had testified to Ball's deposits and balances. They stated that many of the deposits were checks on other banks.

Although opposed by the defense, Douglas put into the trial record several sheets of paper bearing figures which were said to be in the handwriting of Ball and a clerk in his office. Douglas said that these indicated that Ball intended to inflate his bank accounts "by working out on a sheet of paper a scheme by which that could be done."

Defense objections were sustained when Collins Denny, jr., assistant State attorney general, tried to ask Andrews if State auditors checked treasurer's accounts with outstanding checks and actual bank balances.

The jury was dismissed and counsel argued the point before Judge McCarthy. Denny stated that "we have proved that at the end of the fiscal year he (Ball) kited checks." Denny argued that Ball knew that in former audits balances had not been investigated in this manner and had "set out to build up these fictitious balances by improper methods of issuing checks."

It is thought that Douglas will rest his case after defense counsel complete the cross-examination of Andrews today.

Dixie Baseball Body Check Fraud Victim

Southern Association Is Swindled of $3,400; Suspect Taken.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The Southern Baseball Association and its president, John D. Martin, were recently swindled of $3,400 by a forged check, it was brought out today with arrest of E. E. Hodges, in Oklahoma City.

Hodges came to Memphis last fall, officers reported, under the name of Harvey Harrison and opened an account at a local bank, posing as a lawyer. He deposited $300 and on January 22 is said to have deposited a check for $3,400. The check was on the printed form used by the Southern Association and signed by Martin.

Three days later Hodges is said to have drawn $3,700 out of his account and disappeared. Police have sought him since then. The check form was said to have been stolen from Martin's office. It was also reported that Hodges is a member of the famed Adler gang, notorious check-forging ring.

FATHER COX CHOSEN BY JOBLESS PARTY

Liberty Group Reaffirms the Nomination of Harvey After Split.

Creve Coeur Speedway, St. Louis, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Two political groups, each intent on control of a proposed coalition party, split and held separate conventions here today, the "Jobless" party nominating the Rev. James R. Cox, Pittsburgh priest, for President and the "Liberty" party reaffirming nomination of W. H. "Coin" Harvey, of Monte Ne, Ark.

Father Cox, who brought about 500 pilgrims from Pennsylvania, received his nomination by acclamation. As his name was proposed by Austin L. Staley, Pittsburgh lawyer, the grandstand resounded with a 15-minute ovation. The lusty voices of Pittsburgh's steel workers, who formed a large proportion of the delegates, mingled with those of their "blue shirt" comrades from St. Louis and delegates added en route.

Dr. V. C. Tisdal, of Elk City, Okla., who earlier in the day refused nomination for Vice President on financial grounds, reconsidered and accepted.

Relief Platforms.

Harvey and about 100 delegates, meeting at a boathouse across Creve Coeur Lake, nominated Frank B. Hemenway, Tacoma, Wash., real estate dealer, for Vice President, in place of Andrae B. Nordskrog, of Los Angeles, who was nominated with Harvey last year.

The jobless party adopted Father Cox's 18-point platform of social relief and economic reform while Harvey's group adopted a 6-point platform embodying Harvey's demands for Government ownership of banks and utilities and for a new monetary system without a metalic standard.

Terming the convention "one of the most unique ever held," Father Cox in his acceptance speech, outlined his economic platform.

Cities Communism Threat.

He said the dangers of monopolistic control of business and politics was prophesied by Abraham Lincoln.

He averred that cotton, once the ruling king of the economic world, must be reestablished, and steel must be subordinated.

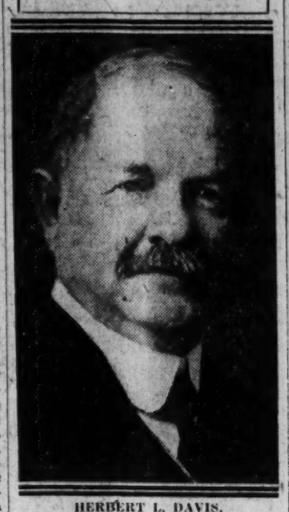
He declared his platform must be adopted by the Nation or communism would triumph.

The "jobless" convention closed late today with nomination of the priest and the delegates started tonight on their long trek back to Pennsylvania in automobiles and trucks. The original program called for a two-day meeting, but the lack of opposition to Father Cox made the extra day unnecessary.

Business Goes on Despite Fire.

Vance, Miss., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Business men of this little town carried on their affairs from quickly erected shacks today because of a fire yesterday which wiped out the business district, with an estimated loss of $75,000.

OFF TO EUROPE



HERBERT L. DAVIS, superintendent of insurance of the District, who left yesterday for Europe to study credit union operations.

Credit Unions Aim Of Study by Davis

Superintendent of Insurance Departs on Tour of Europe.

Herbert L. Davis, superintendent of insurance for the District, left yesterday for a tour of Europe, during which he will investigate the operation of credit unions in European cities. Upon his return he will report his findings to the District Commissioners.

At the last session of Congress, legislation authorizing the formation of credit unions in the District was passed. As a result, additional duties and powers have been turned over to Mr. Davis, who is making the trip to Europe to learn the best possible methods in the conduct of such unions.

The chief aim of credit unions, as outlined in the legislation adopted by Congress, is to promote thrift among their members, thereby creating a source of credit for them for provident purposes.

Irish-British Trade War Peace Progress Hinted

London, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Hope for progress toward solution of the economic war between the Irish Free State and the United Kingdom was reported today by the Daily Mail correspondent at the British Empire conference at Ottawa. The dispatch said that, after long-distance telephone calls to London and Dublin, it was expected the situation would be discussed at Ottawa tomorrow.

HOME LOAN SYSTEM BEGINS STOCK SALE

Board Members to Solicit Initial Capital From Financial Groups.

(Associated Press.)

A stock-selling campaign will be started soon by the Home Loan Bank board to secure initial capital for the eight to twelve lending institutions to be set up throughout the country.

Three members are going into different sections this week to sound out sentiments of financial groups toward subscribing for stock of the new Federal bank system.

Their plan is to determine how much of the stock can be disposed of in the districts to be carved out. The amount of prospective subscriptions are expected to go a long way toward determining the geographical location of the districts and probably the cities in which the institutions themselves are to be established.

Fort to Visit in East.

Franklin W. Fort, chairman, said he was making appointments to see leaders of financial groups in New England, New York and New Jersey.

H. Morton Bodfish is going to Chicago to confer with representatives of institutions in that region, while W. E. Best will tour Pennsylvania and possibly Ohio.

As explained by Fort and Nathan Adams, another board member, the act creating the home-loan system specifies that the board seek to raise the capital of not less than $5,000,000 for each bank through the sale of stock before drawing upon the $125,000,000 appropriated for that purpose.

The board, Fort said, was trying to find out whether "financial groups are going along with us or whether they are going to stay out."

Books Open 30 Days.

The law provides that as soon as the board decides upon the location of the banks, books shall be opened for 30 days for the subscription of stock, and all institutions becoming members shall purchase an amount equal to 1 per cent of the aggregate of the unpaid principal of their home mortgage loans, but not less than $1,500.

The board will reassemble Monday to consider the creation of the bank districts on the basis of information collected on stock subscriptions.

The board announced late yesterday it would forgo hearings on selection of bank cities and districts because of the "imperative need of getting the banks opened" without delay.

"Under the law," it said, "no bank can be opened for 30 days after the selection of the districts. The imperative need of getting the banks opened seems to the board to preclude taking the time which such hearings would consume."

The board has had hundreds of requests for hearings.

GERMANY PREPARED TO QUELL UPRISING

Papen Says Hitler Pledges Peace, but Force of Arms Would Meet Revolt.

Berlin, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Chancellor Franz von Papen has received assurances that Adolf Hitler will not use his storm troops to seize the German government, but in any event he will not hesitate to suppress any revolt by force of arms.

The chancellor made this assertion today in an interview in which he vigorously reiterated Germany's demand for equality in armaments with other nations, declaring that the Fatherland no longer could submit to being treated as a second-class nation.

Although the cabinet situation still is in a state of flux and there is no telling who will rule Germany after the new Reichstag has been called into session late this month, the chancellor appeared serenely confident his government would stay in power.

Reveals Hitler's Statements.

Hitler has denied that when he conferred last Saturday with the chancellor he demanded full power. Lieut. Col. von Papen asserted there was no doubt whatever on that point.

The Nazi leader admitted in that interview, he said, that during the last few months he had had a bad time with his impatient followers and could not accept a share of power, but must demand all of it, and he could vote only for a government which identified itself entirley with his movement.

The chancellor was asked whether Germany would leave the League of Nations if her claim for equality in armaments went unrecognized. He was noncommittal on this point, but he emphasized that it was a vitally important matter for his country which no longer can submit to discrimination and treatment as a second-class nation. In the event that security were denied her, the government would take necessary action as already defined by Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher.

Says MacDonald Sympathetic.

"Germany has no desire and no intention to arm," the chancellor said, "but she does want other nations to keep their promises to disarm."

He added that in his talks at Lausanne with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald he always had found the British statesman entirely sympathetic to the German standpoint on the subject of inequality in disarmament.

"Germany still has aspirations to get some of her colonies back," the chancellor remarked, asserting that here again was a case of unjustifiable discrimination which must be remedied sooner or later.

No diplomatic negotiations on these subjects have been opened, however, he explained.

Westinghouse Head Slates Promise of Upturn Is Brighter.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—F. A. Merrick, president of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., sees a brighter promise of business recovery now that the "natural forces of recuperation have begun to operate."

"In recent months," said a statement issued by Mr. Merrick today, "there have been numerous events of fundamental import. These include noteworthy items of betterment in the European situation and substantial contributions to stability in this country.

"The latter have largely grown out of the sympathetic and directly helpful actions of the administration at Washington in cooperation with the best financial and industrial minds of the country in a program to relieve the people of their attitude of fear and doubt of the future. With this background the natural forces of recuperation have begun to operate, and it is gratifying that the evidences of their working are becoming increasingly apparent. People are now no longer feeling that the worst is yet to come. The elimination of this feeling must be the basis of any return to normal operations."

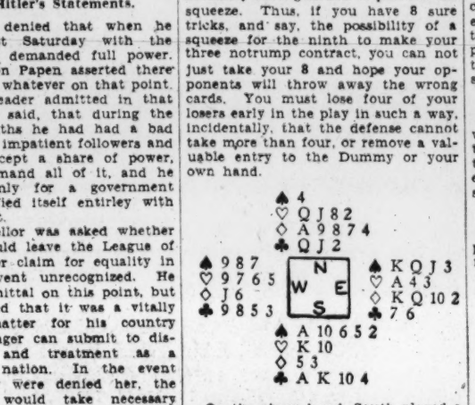
A FEW POINTS ON PREPARING FOR THE END GAME.

THE term "end-play" is used to designate any one of a number of fine plays which usually reach their culmination near the finish of a hand.

In its simplest form, an end-play is a means whereby the Declarer avoids taking a possibly losing finesse by elliminating two of the suits from both his hand and the Dummy, throwing the dangerous opponent in, and forcing him to lead up to Declarer's tenace. Of course, there are numerous variations of this type of play. Squeezes, incidentally, belong to the end-play family. Very often a combination squeeze and end play is developed where the hapless opponent on your left must either throw away a high card, setting up one in your hand, or keep the card and be thrown in with it, and forced to lead from his King up to your Ace-Queen.

End-plays and squeezes are developed more or less along the same lines, lines. As a general thing, they are not effective until the last few tricks of the hand, as, when there are several cards left, the defense will usually have an exit card to avoid the end-play or be able to keep the necessary suits guarded to prevent the squeeze. Thus, if you have 8 sure tricks, and say, the possibility of a squeeze for the ninth to make your three notrump contract, you can not just take your 8 and hope your opponents will throw away the wrong cards. You must lose four of your losers early in the play in such a way, incidentally, that the defense cannot take more than four, or remove a valuable entry to the Dummy or your own hand.



On the above hand, South played a contract of three notrump, which was doubled by East.

The Opening lead, fortunately, was a club, which was won by the Knave in Dummy. Three notrump was now obviously available by merely giving up a heart trick, which Declarer proceeded to do. On East's double, Declarer was able to place practically all of the adversaries' diamond and spade strength in the East hand. He, therefore, saw the possibility of the squeeze for an overtrick. When East took the Ace of hearts and led the King of spades, Declarer wisely stayed off with his Ace. East now played the King of diamonds, and Declarer also held up the Ace on this trick, as he saw three tricks must be lost anyway and must be lost immediately so that East could be squeezed at the end. After the second hold-up, East continued with another spade. South took it with the Ace this time, returned to Dummy with the Queen of clubs, and cashed in two good hearts. He then returned to his hand with another club, and on the fourth round of clubs, East was hopelessly squeezed, baing forced to either set up the 9 of diamonds in Dummy or the 10 of spades in Declarer's hand.

It is interesting to note that, in this case, the defense could have stopped this queeze for the overtrick. Had East led a second round of diamonds rather than a second round of spades, the perfect line of communication between the North and South hands would have been stopped by the removal of the necessary entry to Dummy. However, from East's position this would have been risky, as the Knave might have been in Declarer's hand.

This type of play, which might be called, for want of a better name, "reverse timing," wherein the Declarer gives up his necessary tricks early in the play to fully prepare for the end game, is equally important in preparing for a throw-in or elimination play, which I will touch on in a subsequent article.

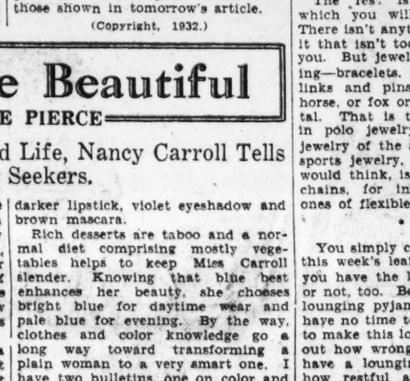
Today's Pointer.

End-plays—that is, the type of play which is designed to net an extra trick through timing the order of trick-taking—are not difficult to execute, provided the player understands the technique.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Live a Healthy, Regulated Life, Nancy Carroll Tells Beauty Seekers.

AS I mentioned in my column the other day, studying the stars is a revelation. One realizes how human they are and how sensible. Here are Nancy Carroll's theories. Her pet beauty secret is eight glasses of water a day. This pleased me, as you may well imagine, seeing as how this column has stressed the benefits of sufficient water every day.

Her beauty message is: "Live a healthy, regulated life. Sleep eight hours every night, eat all meals at the same hours daily and do not over-diet or over-eat."

Miss Carroll's bedtime beauty secret is bending to the floor 50 times and her favorite exercises are deep breathing, bending, swimming and driving. Miss Carroll believes that three creamings a day will keep the wrinkles away, and that a large jar of cleansing cream should have a place of honor on every woman's dressing table, in the business woman's desk, in the sportswoman's car, etc. Beside it keep a roll of cleansing tissues to wipe off the cream, softly and gently. On walking in the morning, she cleanses face and neck with cream and leaves a little of the cream on during her shower then wipes off with tissues. In the middle of the day another cleansing before fresh make-up is applied. Take it from one who knows this mid-day cleansing perks up your spirits as well as your good looks. Before retiring, this star feels that "all civilized women cream face and neck."

A light suntan powder, very light pink rouge with matching lipstick complete her daytime make-up. For evening the same powder, but a darker lipstick, violet eyeshadow and brown mascara.

Rich desserts are taboo and a normal diet comprising mostly vegetables helps to keep Miss Carroll slender. Knowing that blue best enhances her beauty, she chooses bright blue for daytime wear and pale blue for evening. By the way, clothes and color knowledge go a long way toward transforming a plain woman to a very smart one. I have two bulletins, one on color and another on fashion hints which are yours for the asking; but do include self-addressed, stamped envelope for each.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

TIMELY TESTED RECIPES.

From the Bureau of Home Economics.

Scalloped Salmon.

1 pound can of salmon
1¼ cups milk
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Prepare a sauce of the milk, flour and butter. Place a layer of the salmon in the bottom of a greased baking dish. Pour some of the sauce over the salmon. Add another layer of salmon, then more sauce. Cover the top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake until the sauce bubbles and the crumbs are brown.

Codfish Balls.

1½ cups (packed) salt codfish, shredded
3 cups mashed potatoes, seasoned with milk and butter
2 eggs.

Shred the fish, soak in the cold water until freshened and cook until tender. Place the fish in a double layer of cheesecloth and press out all the liquid. Mix the cooked codfish with the hot mashed potatoes and the well beaten eggs. Beat until light. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat and fry to a golden brown. Drain on paper and serve as soon as possible.

Fish Mold.

2 eggs
¼ cup water
¼ cup of vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery seed.
½ teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons gelatin
½ cup cold water
2 cups minced fish

Beat the eggs, add the seasoning, the vinegar and water and cook over boiling water until thickened. Soften the gelatin in cold water and add to the hot dressing. Then add the fish. Place in individual cups or one large mold, and let stand in a cold place until firmly set. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Fish Chowder.

1½ pounds fish
4 potatoes
1 onion, chopped
2 cups diced carrots
¼ pound salt pork
4 cups milk

Cod or haddock is the kind of fish generally preferred for chowder, but any kind of fresh dried or canned fish will do if it has large flakes of meat and only a few bones, which can easily be picked out before the fish is combined with the other ingredients. If preferred, a quart of clams or oysters may be used instead of the fish.

Cut the salt pork in small pieces and fry with the chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onions, carrots and potatoes in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add the milk and the fish, which has been removed from the bones and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, or for about ten minutes.

Girl, 13, Hurt in Cave, Files $50,000 Suit

Suit for damages of $50,000 has been filed against the Prince Gebrges County commissioners by Martha Geesling, 13, through her mother, Mrs. Emma M. Gregory, of Seat Pleasant, is named codefendant.

Through Attorney Louis B. Arnold, the child alleges she was permanently injured while playing in a cave at Sixty-third street and Addison Chapel road, August 5, 1927. The child has passed the last four years in hospitals, the bill states. Mrs. Gregory is named codefendant as owner of property abutting on the road where the cave existed.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Black velvet, white satin, and gold belt and trimmings make a picturesque gown for a charming cinema star. (A Dah-ray design.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Interest in exercising to keep fit—and specially to keep slim and firm and lovely, I think, is responsible for the increasing popularity of polo among women. Of course, polo is an expensive hobby, and one that requires quite as much sartorial taste as athletic skill.

Though you might like to hear about how to dress for polo—'case you are poloing these days, in your dreams. Let's leave the mallets out—they are the same as those used by men, anyhow, and if you ever get polo minded, you will have expert help on these.

But perforated pigskin gloves you must have, and polo shirts in wool, preferably white. A cork-lined polo hat. And sateen vests in different bright colors. One buys a set of these in different colors—or one's beloved makes one a gift of a set, if one is lucky enough to have a, shall we say, sophisticated beloved?

The rest is practical gear, for which you will have expert advice. There isn't anything to tell you about it that isn't too technical to interest you. But jewelry for polo is intriguing—bracelets, key rings, clasps, cuff links and pins, each featuring the horse, or fox or dog head set in crystal. That is the newest and latest in polo jewelry—or, of course, any jewelry of the sports type. And this sports jewelry, contrary to what one would think, is very delicate in type, chains, for instance, being narrow ones of flexible metal.

You simply can't get along without this week's leaflet! That is whether you have the lounging pyjama habit or not, too. Because if you haven't a lounging pyjama and still think you have no time to lounge, you have but to make this lounging pyjama to find out how wrong you are. And if you have a lounging pyjama, and know how restful and useful and much needed lounging pyjamas are—you still should send for the leaflet which tells you how to most easily make the most practical and flattering and stylish pyjama you ever saw. The blouse is the one I come back to and back to—because it is my favorite in flattery, as well as simply styleless—absolutely never goes out of style! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet, which tells you how to make the trousers and the blouse of lounging pyjamas most easily, using the least material and guaranteed to stay the longest in style of anything in your wardrobe outside of your nightie!

I think it's simply luv-v-v-v-lee! Yes, I do so—what about you? The dress I designed for you today, I mean. Why, anyone with even a hint of looks would be simply ravishing in this! Can't you just see the wrap-around, soft, crushless black velvet skirt—and the white satin blouse, with its edging, or should I say, trimming of gold? And the flat gold belt—and, oh, notice the odd collar and the repetition of the round collar line in the waistline of the skirt, where it joins the blouse. How do you like it?

Wooden beads are something for clever fingers to play around with in her spare finger time! Here they make a bag, belt, bracelet and necklace set, and I have just sketched a handful of them for you—the results you yourself might obtain by sewing them together into accessories.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LEO."

IF August 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:45 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from 9 a. m. to 10:50 a. m. and from 1:30 p. m. to 3:20 p. m.

The astrological indications of August 18 point to a day of restlessness and nervousness. Much will be essayed, little finished. No agreements or contracts should be executed, nor should anything of a serious nature be undertaken. All efforts promise to be spasmodic and, consequently, unfruitful.

A child born on this August 18 will be very timid, gentle and kind. It will not have a spirit of do and dare, but will be willing to render faithful and loyal service. Not suited for a position demanding qualities of leadership, it will occupy a subordinate position with credit to itself and benefit to others.

You, if born on August 18, are ambitious of only one thing, viz: happiness; and though you may find it like a kitten's tail—difficult to catch—you get plnety of fun chasing it. You are always thinking of others, and trying to comfort and to please them. Unselfish, considerate and generous, you are happier doing for someone else than in serving your own ends. Money, except as a means to "help out," posseses very little attraction for you. Power can not seduce you and position does not tempt you.

There is a strong religious streak in your "make-up"—more spiritual than mutual. You possess many of what are called in these hectic times old-fashioned virtues, and are straightforward, sincere and clean living. You are very loyal, especially to your kith and kin. You believe in much that is today ridiculed, and still cling to the ideals of the halcyon days of long ago.

In the home life, you will always be called upon to mediate between those who can not agree and all people in trouble will pour out their perplexities and difficulties to you, and will invariably find with you the solace and comfort that they seek.

Successful people born on August 18:

Marshall Field, merchant.
Robley D. Evans ("Fighting Bob"), naval officer.
Mark W. Harrington, astronomer.
James H. Hyslop, psychologist and educator.
George S. Fullerton, psychologist.
Seth Thomas, pioneer clock manufacturer.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

IT'S CHARMING.

YOU'LL adore this youthfully lovely model in Vionnet surplice tied bodice effect. It's distinctly individual. The dropped shoulders are finished with cute puffed sleeves. The skirt is cut with slightly circular sections at either side, creating a length-giving panel at the front and at the back. It's just "right" for hot summer days in town or for resort.

White being especially popular this season, both in flat and crinkle crepe silk, you'll find them entirely satisfactory mediums for this model. And they will tub and tub and always come up smiling.

If you wish a dress for general day wear, it's stunning and cool in a washing silk of floral or dot print as sketched.

And it's the smartest model for sports made of pale blue pique with white dots. Omit the puffed sleeves and finish the dropped shoulders with deep blue binds which may also be used to edge the neckline and the crossed bodice with attached tie-strings that cross at the center back and tie in the front.

Batiste prints, sheer linen prints, chiffon prints, triple sheers, voile prints and silk pique are delightful suggestions for its development.

Style No. 2802 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. For the 16-year size, 4½ yards of 39-inch material is sufficient to make it. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our Summer Fashion Magazine shows all the new and interesting styles for vacation and every-day wear. Every page in color.

You can save the price of the book over and over again, and look your very best. Send 10 cents for your copy of our Summer Fashions. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

WASHING THE NOSE.

RECENT experimental work has proved again what many have long known, and that is that the nose has an excellent automatic cleaning apparatus. When a man undertakes nose spraying and douching, he upsets the normal working of this apparatus and the chance is strong he will do more harm than good. Except right at the entrance, all the chambers of the nose are lined by what is called ciliated epithelium. The microscopic whiskers on this kind of body cell waves as does a field of wheat when blown by the wind. There is no chance in this waving. On the other hand, there is in it a well organized plan and purpose. The waving processes and the mucus and fluid poured out in the nose maintain an even, washing flow that carries dust and smoke steadily from within to the outside. The outward flowing currents have been demonstrated. In different parts of the nose these currents flow at varying speeds and force. But the speed and the flow are adjusted to the need, and the direction is always toward the outside, or some other dumping place. Nothing better than this steady, outward flowing stream has ever been devised for the purpose of washing out the nose.

If something unusually irritating gets on the nose membrane there is an outward gush of water—the key is turned and the hydrant is opened wide. To make the job more complete nature may pull off a violent air blast, known commonly as a sneeze.

Using all kinds of nose washes and douches is not the only mistake man makes in the care of his upper breathing apparatus. On occasions drugs are applied to the membranes of the nose to relieve some local trouble.

These are apt to be used as sprays, though sometimes they are painted on with a brush; or, cotton soaked in drugs is plugged into the nose. Thinking to promote absorption of the drugs, many people mix them with liquid vaseline, or oils of different kinds. The natural lubricant of the nose membrane is a mixture of mucus and water. If any medicine is put in that membrane with a view to having it stay there and get in its action or absorb, it must be as much as possible like the fluids that are there naturally.

Oils and greases will not do, since they will not mix with mucus or with water. If a person has a nose disease and is to use any spray at all, he should not use a greasy one, or one containing any oil. The nearer what he uses comes to being water and salt, the better it will mix with local mucus and the greater the chance that it will have some effect.

BAGS UNDER THE EYES.

C. A. K. writes: I am troubled with heavy bags under my eyes. The optician tells me my eyes are perfect. The doctor tells me my organs are all right. I usually get seven hours sleep each night and as my work is light, I consider that sufficient. The only explanation I have received is that my tear ducts are abnormal.

REPLY.

There are several causes of puffiness under the eyes. If it has not lasted long there is a possibility of trichinosis. Bright's disease sometimes causes this symptom, at a time when there is no general dropsy. Heart disease and anemia cause it. If all of these are ruled out, we think of local acidosis as the cause. If that be the explanation, change some of your habits; get more sleep, sleep in a better ventilated room, take a cold shower and a good rub on arising, swim more, get more exercise, live a more active life.

ANEMIA.

N. G. writes: What are the cause, the symptoms and the treatment of anemia?

REPLY.

There is more than one kind of anemia. In primary anemia, usually called pernicious anemia, treatment consists of the proper use of liver and stomach extracts, stomach juices, and a diet containing liver and tripe. In secondary anemia the treatment consists of iron and copper tonics and a diet that contains yellow of egg, good lean meat and vegetables, fruits, nuts and brain. The cause should be removed, if possible.

HOOVER NETS PRIZE HAUL IN BAY FISHING

President Dines Party at White House on Return From 3-Day Trip.

(Associated Press.)

Sun-tanned and happy from three full days of fishing down Chesapeake Bay, President Hoover last night gathered his guests on the trip around him at the White House dining table for a re-telling of their joint angling experiences.

The tales to be told were many, for even the poorest fisherman on the expedition pronounced the fishing a success. The Chief Executive himself enjoyed such luck that his original plans to come ashore early yesterday afternoon were altered and the party did not land until shortly before sundown.

The Department of Commerce inspection boat, Sequoia, put in at Annapolis, Md., just before 6 p. m., and the presidential party motored from there to the White House.

Earlier, Mr. Hoover tried his luck at half a dozen different spots in the upper bay. Starting early in the day, the President cast a line first from the stern of the Sequoia off Solomon's Island and later—before a Marine airplane reached him with the White House mail at 9:10 a. m.—he fished from a tiny speedboat.

During the forenoon, the Sequoia anchored at three different spots farther out in the bay, and the catch was reported one of the best of the three-day trip. The luck proved not quite so good at another spot many miles up the bay off Sharps Island.

To the President went the honor of the largest fish of the trip—a sea trout approximately 3 feet long, estimated to weigh 9 or 10 pounds.

White House aids said last night the President probably would work in his office today, catching up with governmental affairs after the longest vacation he has enjoyed since last year, and then continue his holiday at his Rapidan camp. It was said he might journey to the mountain retreat tonight.

100 West Virginians To Resume Mine Jobs

Welch, W. Va., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Officials of the Lake Superior Coal Co. announced today that 100 miners will return to work at the company's Superior mine tomorrow.

The mine, closed for three months, will operate three or four days a week indefinitely.

Soviet Sentences Two To Die in Freight Theft

Cheliavinsk, U. S. S. R., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The first sentences of death under a new decree providing the extreme penalty for persons who steal goods in shipment on the railroads were meted out today by the transport court here.

The sentences were imposed on Semenov and Girdin, leaders of a bandit gang of ten member who plundered freight shipments in this vicinity over a period of a year. They must die before a firing squad and, under the provisions of the decree, they have no hope of having their sentences commuted.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 17 (A.P.). The way was cleared today for convening the first world Jewish congress in history for the consideration of the unfavorable condition of all Jewry. The closing session of the assembly of Jews from many parts of the world set up an executive committee, representing ten countries, to prepare for the election of delegates. The congress is to meet in 1934.

Vienna, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—By a vote of 81 to 80, Parliament today ratified the Lausanne loan protocol. By this protocol Austria receives $42,000,000 under the auspices of the League of Nations. Most of it will go to conversion of short term notes held by the Bank for International Settlements, and loans from the Bank of England into long term obligations.

Santa Eufemia, Italy, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Sixty-five houses, composing one-fourth of this town at the toe of the Italian boot, were wiped out by fire today, leaving 300 persons homeless. Firemen, after a hard fight, prevented the blaze from spreading further.

Paris, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Paris experienced the hottest day in many years today as the thermometer recorded a temperature of 91.5 degrees Fahrenheit. At Marseilles the temperature was 97.

Bizerte, Tunis, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Four men were burned to death when a seaplane, on a night flight from the naval base at Kazouba, crashed in flames near here.

FLY HERE FOR DINNER

Members of the Hotel Greeters of America last night tendered a dinner in honor of Douglas C. Shaffer, who recently came to Washington to manage the Harrington Hotel. The dinner was given at the Willard Hotel. Left to right—F. Sterling Williamson, manager of the Schenectady Automobile Club; Jeff Ford, manager of the New Colonial Hotel; Charles E. Rochester, manager Hotel Lexington, New York; Mr. Shaffer and Ray Moulton, president of the Greeters Association of America, general manager of the Hotel Lincoln, New York. Mr. Rochester and Mr. Moulton flew to Washington to attend the dinner.

LANCASTER IS ACQUITTED AMID WILD COURT DEMONSTRATION was not there when the verdict was read.

Lancaster, a few minutes later, made his way to the press table. He dictated this statement:

"I am very glad to find that I am free to go out in the open air once more. I owe a great deal to two gentlemen, Mr. James Carson and Mr. J. H. Lathero.

"I owe heartfelt thanks to the many friends who have rallied to my support and to the people of Miami who have accorded me, a Britisher, in their midst, sympathy, kindliness and justice.

"I consider my trial was fair and impartial in every way. My immediate plans are to go to the home of Mr. Carson and rest up for a few days. After that my first desire is to find a job."

"Do your present plans include Mrs. Keith-Miller?" he was asked.

"Please do not ask me to answer that now," he said. "I don't know now what my answer would be."

Warrant for Lancaster's Deportation Is Held Up

Miami, Fla., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A United States deportation warrant issued against Capt. W. N. Lancaster, British aviator, a month ago, was not served upon him today as had been expected.

Federal agents have been holding the warrant here pending the close of Lancaster's murder trial in Circuit Court, which resulted in his acquittal today.

Hearing on a deportation warrant served upon Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, his Australian flying partner, some time ago, was scheduled for tomorrow, but has been indefinitely postponed.

It is understood Lancaster will be allowed a few days' seclusion to think over his future plans and decide whether he wants to remain in this country.

Firemen of Five Cities Control $100,000 Fire

Everett, Mass., Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Firemen from five cities tonight controlled a general-alarm fire which caused more than $100,000 damage to buildings and lumber owned by Segel & Ostrovitz Co., Inc.

Three buildings were burned completely and a great quantity of lumber was destroyed. Firemen from Everett, Revere, Malden, Chelsea and Somerville required two hours to control the blaze. Families in tenements in the vicinity fled as sparks were carried to the roofs of their homes.

Officer in Bank-Theft Trial Pleads Insanity

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 17 (A.P.). Attorneys defending Lieut. Herbert C. Lichtenberger against a bank robbery charge before an Army court-martial at Fort Sam Houston base their hopes for acquittal on the testimony of alienists and the Army Corps flier himself. The prosecution rested its case today.

J. Franklin Spears, of defense counsel, said he expected to introduce testimony of Lieut. Lichtenberger tomorrow to support the contention he was temporarily insane at the time the Schertz, Tex., State Bank was robbed of about $650 February 15.

Explorers Soon to Visit Isle Where Tree Eats Humans

Mysterious Madagascar "Sacrifice" Plant Is Said Authoritatively to Devour Girls Offered by Tribes on Island of Sinbad the Sailor.

London, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—A band of British explorers, including one woman, will land on the island of Sinbad the Sailor in a few weeks to search for the mysterious Madagascar "sacrifice tree," which devours human beings.

The so-called man-eating tree, which actually is said to take the lives of young girls rather than men, is not a product of the imagination, high authorities declare.

Capt. V. de la Motte Hurst, a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, has been convinced that it not only exists, but that each year it devours several of the most beautiful maidens of the island. Superstitious tribes offer the girls to the tree as sacrifices, he said.

"I have been told about the tree by many chiefs of the island and I have no doubt of its existence," Capt. Hurst said. "It eats human beings, but since the natives worship it they are reluctant to reveal its location."

The tree, as described to the captain, is similar to a colossal pineapple. It is about 8 feet tall and 6 feet around the base. It has long tendrils, which reach upward, each about as thick as the arm of a man.

The leaves are large and concave, and are lined with "claws." From the tree comes an intoxicating liquid, which the natives drink to arouse the hysteria which leads up to the sacrificial ceremony.

"While the natives dance around the tree, a young girl is forced to drink the liquid," Capt. Hurst said. "Then she is compelled to get up into the middle of the tree.

"The tree's tendrils and leaves are hypersensitive and as soon as the weight of the sacrificial maiden is pressed against them, the tendrils entwine her. The leaves raise slowly and completely hide the girl.

"The pressure of the tendrils and leaves is like a vice and it is said the body of the girl is crushed. I am told that the leaves remain in that formation for five or six days and then slowly reopen. Only the bones of the victim are found."

Capt. Hurst's expedition will land at Morundava, a small village on the coast of Madagascar. It will pass through the territories of half a dozen tribes, some of which are hostile.

The expedition hopes to take a motion picture of the tree sacrifice.

HARRINGTON HOTEL MANAGER GREETED

D. C. Shaffer Is Welcomed at Surprise Banquet by His Colleagues.

Welcoming Douglas C. Shaffer, the new manager of the Harrington Hotel, to Washington, more than 100 hotel men of this city and from other parts of the country were hosts at a dinner last night at the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Shaffer, who comes to Washington from the Van Curler Hotel in Schnectady, was presented with a framed original of the cartoon which adorned the menus. David A. Skinner, secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, was toastmaster.

The new Harrington Hotel manager spoke of his pleasure in being able to continue his hotel work in the National Capital and expressed appreciation of the surprise banquet tendered him. Addresses of welcome were made by Russell F. Donnelly, president of the Washington Chapter of the Hotel Greeters of America, sponsors of the dinner; Leroy D. Moulton, manager of the Hotel Lincoln, New York, and international president of the greeters.

Others present included: Judge James C. Cleary, of the national counsel of Greeters, New York; A. M. Adams, editor of the Hotel Review, New York; Frank S. Hight, manager of the Willard Hotel; Osgood Roberts, publicity director of the Mayflower Hotel; C. J. Mack, auditor of the Mayflower, and William C. Royer, executive vice president and managerial director of the Atlanta Biltmore, Atlanta, Ga.

The dinner committee was composed of Jeff Ford, chairman; Charles Eckert, Weston B. Jones, jr., A. I. Sheehan, Frank E. Sawyer, R. D. Mills, Chester Brown and William Jeffries Chewning, jr.

COL. UPHAM VISITS GUARD UNIT'S CAMP

Regimental Inspection Is Made at Cascade, Md., by District Chief.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 17.—A regimental inspection of the 121st Engineers, District of Columbia National Guard, training activities here was made yesterday by Lieut. Col. John S. Upham, adjutant general of the District National Guard.

Accompanying Col. Upham was Maj. Richard D. La Garde, former adjutant general of the outfit, and Lieut. Col. Charles L. Mitchell, of the office of the chief of Militia Bureau. They were entertained with a concert by the Engineer Band, headed by Warrant Officer Meyer N. Goldman.

The camp area sanitation flag still remains nailed before the quarters of Company A. No other company has been able to displace it since the beginning of the encampment. The kitchen efficiency flag was also awarded to Company A.

Athletic field events were held this afternoon on the parade grounds. Relay races, tug of war and other events held the interest of spectators. Awards will be announced tomorrow.

The only near casualty to occur since the regiment arrived happened yesterday on the rifle range. Private Howard W. Kidwell, Company A, was treated by Capt. Walter R. Stokes, medical officer, for a slight burn over his eye, suffered when the end of a defective cartridge blew out.

Lady Kylsant will motor from her flat in Mayfair to the prison where she will receive her husband about 7 o'clock in the morning. She will drive him direct to Coomb Llangain Carmarthen, his home in Wales.

Isolation Policy Hit as Dangerous

U. S.-Japanese War Seen as Result by Institute of Politics Speaker.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Dr. Finold J. Toynbee, director of the British Royal Institute of International Affairs, told the Institute of Politics tonight there was great danger to world peace if the foreign policy of the United States were directed toward isolation from the rest of the world.

"The policy of isolation means a policy of drift," he said. "But in a world keyed up and concentrated by the drive of great new social forces, to drift means to collide."

He invited his audience to imagine a "head-on collision between the United States and Japan." The United States, "committed by isolation to making a bid for world power," he pictured as grinding down Japan until the conflict should draw the whole world in.

2 Lost Carrier Pigeons Fed and Cared for Here

Two carrier pigeons, exhausted and hungry, were fed and cared for yesterday while their finders awaited news of the owners.

One was found resting on a window sill at the home of Robert and Daniel Leonard at 1755 Euclid street northwest. It bore the number MCCA 307-32. The other stopped at the home of Robert Curry, of 3228 Prospect avenue. Its number was WCCA 32-2667.

THE DARK AND BLOODY GROUND

"Nature in the Raw"— as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth, noted painter of the American Indian... inspired by the fierce cruelty of the savages whose knives and tomahawks caused the story of the Pioneer West to be written in blood.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

WITHHOLD THE REPORTS.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has sent its first monthly report to President Hoover, to the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House in accordance with the so-called publicity clause of the last relief act. The report has not been made public and indications are that it will not be.

A great deal of pother has been raised about these reports. Some Democratic leaders in the House insist that they should be given to the public each month, and Majority Leader Rainey has said that the Clerk of the House would be disregarding his duty if he failed to make the reports public. Threats that South Trimble, Clerk of the House, would be disciplined if he kept the reports secret were made in the heat of the fight over the relief bill, but since the controversy has quieted down it seems improbable that any such attempt at intimidation would be carried out. The Secretary of the Senate is not making the report public.

It is obvious that the intent of Congress was to keep the President and Congress informed of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's activities. There could be no purpose in making these reports public, except to embarrass the very institutions that the Government is trying to assist through a critical period. Banks would hesitate to borrow from the corporation if the details of their needs for ready cash were to be published to the whole country, and much of the usefulness of the relief agency would be destroyed. It would be absurd to attribute to Congress the motive of embarrassing institutions to which the Government is lending money.

It is notable that the law says nothing about publicity for the relief agency's monthly reports. It merely instructs the R. F. C. to submit its reports. Publicity for them is left to the discretion of the President and Congress. Obviously, it is not within the jurisdiction of the Clerk of the House to make public a report submitted for the information of Congress when that body is in adjournment, unless he is specifically so instructed by law.

When Congress reassembles the election will be over, the country may be well on the way to normal activity again and there will be no point to any controversy over publishing the reports. The entire issue probably will be forgotten. If Mr. Trimble is in doubt as to his duty in this connection, it would certainly be the part of discretion to withhold the reports until he receives specific instructions from Congress. In that way no damage can be done. But the consequences might be serious if Mr. Trimble should allow the threats of a few members of the House to decide his course in a matter that involves the interests and welfare of the whole country.

HUNGER IN THE SOVIET.

Throughout the depression Soviet Russia has boasted on every possible occasion that there was no unemployment under the Communist regime. Russian workers have been encouraged by propaganda about the alleged horrible conditions existing among the workless men of "capitalistic countries." But nowhere except in Russia have working men left their jobs in these critical times because their pay would not buy food enough to keep them from the sufferings of starvation.

The dispatch from Moscow, revealing that nearly 25,000 miners have deserted the mines in the Donetz basin because of intolerable living conditions, gives vivid insight into actual conditions in the Soviet. While the dictators in Moscow have been struggling to surpass the United States in industrial development, they have well-nigh destroyed the agricultural class and left 160,000,000 people without an adequate food supply.

The food shortage was recently reflected in an order cutting in half the rations allowed to foreign workers. Foodstuffs available to native Russians have always been sharply curtailed under the communistic regime. Hunger and malnutrition have been the foremost products of the five-year plan. Yet the extermination of the kulaks, Russia's successful farmers of the old regime, went ruthlessly forward. The business of supplying the Soviet with food has been entrusted to shiftless peasants who are forced to farm collectively. This experiment has brought the Soviet dictatorship to the pitiful acknowledgment that this once great agricultural country is now unable to feed its own people.

In 1931 Russian crops were poor, but not much was said about it. This year the harvest is 25 per cent below what it was at the same time a year ago. Moscow officials attempt to give the impression that weather conditions have been adverse, but the true explanation seems to be that peasants forced into the collective system have grown only enough food for themselves. Attempts have been made to overcome this human tendency by allowing the peasants to sell the balance of their crops after their allotments have been turned over to the government. But the result is famine.

The picture of this huge agricultural country suffering for want of food is a most potent commentary on communism. Instead of coordinating the efforts of the Russian people for the general welfare, communism has killed initiative, accentuated selfishness and increased the difficulties of the average man in converting his toil into the necessities of life. So long as the Soviet is unable to feed its own people the outlook for the "new era" by means of communism is black indeed.

THE RELIEF DRIVE.

Following President Hoover's conference on economic rehabilitation, social service leaders will meet at the White House in September to organize a united relief drive throughout the Nation. This coordinated movement to alleviate distress resulting from hard times is a corollary of the reconstruction program, and deserves wholehearted support by the people.

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Citizens Committee for Welfare and Relief Mobilization in 1932, has enlisted the aid of 55 of the country's most distinguished men. The most important task before this committee is the raising of adequate funds to care for the families of jobless men. Its work represents the American ideal, so often expressed by President Hoover, of community self-help as opposed to government doles.

Business seems to be gradually picking up and some factories are putting men back to work. Before winter sets in it is hoped that there will be a substantial improvement in economic conditions. Even so, the need will be great. No country can recover from a severe shock to its economic system over night. Time will be required to wipe out unemployment even after business has achieved substantial recovery.

During this interval it is the responsibility of people who have jobs and who are the beneficiaries of the business upturn to alleviate distress among their fellow citizens. A new spirit should be injected into this relief work because of the knowledge that better times are on the way. When the end is in sight it is not difficult to make an extra effort to aid those who are in need.

FARMERS ON STRIKE.

Iowa's farm strike, designed to raise the price of agricultural products to a reasonable level above the costs of production, would be amusing if it did not arise out of a situation that contains all the elements of tragedy. The distress of the farmer is one of the gravest problems confronting the Nation. Yet the method which these Iowa farmers have adopted to remedy their situation produces a colorful farce and nothing more.

Farm prices are incredibly low in spite of the recent upturn. For two years farmers have been selling large portions of their crops at a loss. Every remedy that has been tried has either proved ineffective or only partially successful. Considerable gains have been made through cooperative marketing, but the farmers are impatient, demanding immediate relief. A small group in Iowa has become convinced that there is no way to bring about higher prices, except to keep farm products away from city markets for a period of 30 days.

Adoption of this method is a commentary on the farmers' comprehension of economic law. Thus far the strike has been confined to Sioux City, as if the denial of vegetables and dairy products to one small Midwestern city could have any effect on commodity prices. Efforts are being made, of course, to extend the strike to other regions. But the prospects for its success are nil. Even if the farmers should succeed in holding back large portions of their crops, they might curtail consumption and increase imports, thereby augmenting the surpluses which weigh heavily upon prices.

Apparently the farmers do not yet understand that prices respond to the forces of supply and demand. So long as the supply remains large it is a crushing weight on prices whether it is in the hands of farmers or the food dealers. They might effectively raise prices by curtailing production, but the idea of trying to force prices up by picketing against trucks en route to market is childish.

GROUP MEDICAL SERVICE.

The final report of the most exhaustive study of the whole field of medical service ever undertaken will be made before the end of the year. The Committee on the Costs of Medical Care has for five years been investigating the provision of adequate, scientific medical service to all the people at a cost that can be reasonably met by them in their respective stations in life. Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur is chairman and Dr. Harry H. Moore director of the committee, which has just issued its eighteenth special report in connection with its inquiry.

This latest finding relates to a group medical service plan through which 5,300 people, including mine workers and their dependents, receive at virtually the same cost much more medical attention than it is possible for such economic groups to obtain from private practitioners. The report, by Louis H. Reed, Ph. D., describes the medical service of the Homestead Mining Co., where the group served is considered typical of many other working groups in the United States.

When the Homestead gold mines were opened in the Black Hills district of South Dakota adequate medical facilities were lacking and it was necessary to make provision for the care of the men and their families. Dr. Reed's investigation of the system which has been developed shows that the employes of this company, and those eligible to the service, had the benefit of six times as many office calls and from 40 to 90 per cent more calls at home than a similar group of representative families who obtained their medical attention from private practitioners in the usual manner.

The Homestead company maintains a hospital and employs physicians on yearly salaries averaging $5,280, which are higher than the net incomes of practitioners in adjacent territory. Patients have a free choice of doctors within the group and may change if they so desire, the relationship between doctor and patient being essentially the same as in private practice. All drugs and medicines are supplied free. The average annual per capita cost of the service is $12.89 exclusive of workmen's compensation activity."

The greater benefits offered without additional cost are made possible by economies effected through group purchases and group-practice of medical care. Overhead expense is reduced by the joint utilization of waiting-room space, X-ray, laboratory, physical therapy equipment, and the greater volume of service rendered.

Both the company and employes find the medical service satisfactory, while the attending physicians believe this form of practice has many advantages for both patient and doctor. Attention is provided more promptly, and patients can be sent to the hospital, given laboratory tests, or called upon as often as desirable without the necessity of considering their financial standing. On the basis of local prevailing fees the Homestead report estimates that the value of the medical service rendered in a year would have amounted to $175,000. The actual cost through the group system was only $70,978.

WHY DO FREE IMPORTS FALL?

Facts are often embarrassing in a political campaign. Hence, it is a common practice to avoid them completely.

The perfect example of this practice is the statement, which is woven into virtually every Democratic address, that the tariff has destroyed American foreign trade. Complete data on foreign trade are available at the Department of Commerce for any one who cares to ask for them. Apparently no one who makes the bold charge that the tariff has ruined American foreign trade has taken the trouble to find out what the facts are. And since the Department of Commerce holds itself aloof from politics, this false premise is allowed to stand as the basis for hundreds of arguments.

Any impartial observer may, however, obtain the following information for himself: Slightly more than two-thirds of all imports into the United States come in without paying any duty. During the first six months of 1930, which was the last half-year before the new tariff became effective, imports on the free list were valued at $1,154,087,438. In the corresponding six months of 1932 imports on the free list were valued at $513,324,275. The decline of imports that are not in any way affected by the tariff was 55.5 per cent during two years of depression.

Fluctuations in the dutiable list are strikingly similar. In the last half-year under the old tariff rates imports were valued at $581,897,312. In the corresponding period of 1932 dutiable imports were valued at $234,571,613. While the value of free imports was falling 55.5 per cent, the value of dutiable imports fell 60 per cent.

It would be preposterous to assume that the tariff is responsible for this sharp decline in the value of merchandise that enters American ports free. And even if all the decline in dutiable imports should be ascribed to the tariff, that would account for only 35 per cent of the fall which import values have taken in the last two years. How do the politicians who ignore this fact account for the other 65 per cent?

It is reasonable to suppose that the forces of world-wide depression which operated upon free commodities were also at work on dutiable goods. Assuming that dutiable goods were affected in the same way as free imports by these outside influences, a decline of 4.5 per cent in dutiable imports may be ascribed to tariff changes in the Smoot-Hawley act. Since only one-third of the total imports are dutiable, this means that the charge that "the tariff has ruined foreign business" is baseless and absurd.

Speaker Garner announces that the Goldsborough inflation bill will be the currency policy of the country if the Democratic ticket should win. President Hoover might as well keep on fishing.

CONFIDENCE IS BASIC

Kansas City Times.

It is natural and understandable that, in the prevailing optimistic views of business conditions, there should be an occasional note of skepticism. Betterment is not general; whether it actually is developing now, as seems to be plain, or whether it must come later, it will be gradual. The man who is without work, or whose business has failed to pick up, may profess himself unable to see that a rise in stock and bond prices, even in grain, live stock and cotton, has any particular meaning. He may think the condition is artificial; that it represents manipulation; that it is only temporary. There have been other upward turns in the last two years that did not hold; neither will this, the skeptic contends.

But skepticism did not build civilization. It has never advanced humanity. It did not make the American Nation. It has nothing constructive to its credit, in business or elsewhere. At times it may serve as a wholesome check upon excessive enthusiasm. It may explode fallacies. It has its place. But it is a mighty sorry prop on which to lean at present. It contains none of the stuff that must be responsible for recovery. If it prevailed, it would make recovery impossible at any time.

What is doing the work now is revived confidence. That is basic. It must precede a return of normal conditions that will be widely beneficial, as activity is resumed, as more men are put to work, as more money is paid in wages, as more buying comes, as prices reach a level that will mean profitable operations for the farmer, the manufacturer, the business man of every kind.

The growth of confidence is not without its causes, its justification. It can not operate automatically. It is due to removal of disturbing factors at home and abroad. It is due to a realization that America and the world have needs that must be supplied; that this country, above all, can not continue to operate on a level that normally belongs to 30 years ago. Confidence, faith, looking to the future, rather than the past, coupled with individual initiative and the resources of a Nation of nearly 125,000,000 people, can be depended upon to do the necessary work of restoration.

A Tip to Business.

POST HASTE

Chairman Farley is checking up to see whether Speaker Garner's tears dissolved New York's suspicions.

Possibly the return of the American fighting spirit is making war on the depression is due to the consumption of 185,000,000 pounds more meat this year.

Roosevelt and Garner are to exchange costumes and "campaign" each other's territory. But can they change their spots without being put on one?

Tokyo calls for "a spread of Japanism." It sounds like a threat to the American Jap-a-lac trade.

After his visit to Al Smith Speaker Garner said: "I think he is worth as much as any man—maybe more. I'd like to have him supporting the ticket." This may be fulsome praise in Texas; it's rather weak tonic for one accustomed to the super-man plaudits of New York.

"Business cheerful though still dull." It should improve these slack times by taking a conversational course.

It is a good point the broad columns on the West made, that the 5 per cent decrease in American business, which is represented by lowered foreign trade, loses the relative value it has during boom-time and full-capacity production, when there is a market ten times as great to be recovered at home.

Some things are still luxuries abroad, but in America if you haven't an automobile, a radio, a mechanical refrigerator and a vacuum cleaner, who are you?

Those mournful wails come from the Wall street shorts—they just can't bear the present market.

Speaker John's question to Al of the Empire State, "Will you campaign for the ticket?" appears to have received the explicit reply: "Why didn't you answer my phone call from Chicago?"

Canada fears proposed agreements with England might still permit Russian dumping. No need to be apprehensive of such a contingency—it's certain.

"Stock exchange seat sold at $30,000 advance." Wall street is even regaining confidence in itself.

It must have been hoarding that wore out the silk stockings and now results in keeping the hosiery mills busy.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE FIGHTER.

And if the fight I lose, what then?
The world is filled with stronger men
Than I, whose blows I can not meet.
There's no disgrace in such defeat
Unless, perchance, afraid to fall,
I will not face my foe at all.

Lord, spare me that! The stronger man
May down me, since he knows he can.
The odds are with him. At a blow
He has the power to lay me low,
But till I can not raise a fist
His every onslaught I'd resist.

I would not crawl upon the dust
Until I'm helpless and I must.
Outmatched I may be, but I'd fight
With all my courage and my might,
That he who puts me on my back
Shall know 'tis only strength I lack.

Some say 'tis wisdom oft to flee.
But judge of that each man must be,
And sometimes for his self-respect
A man must stand with head erect
And take the cruel blows which fall,
Rather than fail to fight at all.

You Can't Stop the Flow of a River, but You Can Change Its Course

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IF these are times that try men's souls, they are also times of golden opportunity.

It is in times like these that the old order changes, giving place to something better.

Men whose nests are feathered seldom favor change. Those who are winning see no fault in the rules. Changes are planned and executed by those who have little to lose except their lives.

Americans are a conservative breed, inclined to endure much without protest, because they are accustomed to prosperity. Even when they suffer through some fault of the established order, they are reluctant to consider a change and suspicious of those who advocate it.

That frame of mind can serve no good purpose now. Strange conditions are making history and history is change. To be afraid of change is to obstruct progress.

In times like these it is well to remember that the great men of the past whose names are venerated now were once regarded as outlaws by those in authority. A great liberator is merely a despised rebel who succeeded. Washington was an Englishman in rebellion against his government. Solid citizens who dominated the political, financial and social world knew him only as a wicked outlaw, supported by tax-dodgers and followed by lawless scum.

Even Jesus of Nazareth was an outlaw to the leading citizens of his own race and a rebel to the civil authorities of Rome. He was imprisoned and tried as an enemy of the established order—a man who threatened everything held sacred by men of wealth and power.

All advocates of better things seem dangerous men to those who are satisfied.

It does not follow that all advocates of a new scheme of things are good and wise men. In times of travail and uncertainty, the land swarms with noisy cranks and each new day witnesses the invention of a new idiocy. No scheme to save the world is too silly to win a following.

But a change of some kind is inevitable. We are living a great epoch in history. And the men who will have least to regret are those who now realize the need of change and do their part to effect it wisely lest irresponsible experimenters make bad matters worse.

When the boy is ready for grown-up ideas, somebody else will teach him if his parents don't.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Waste of Public Funds.

Houston Post.

Congress effected some economy in public expenditures during its recent session, but it never did get around to curtailing the "leave to print" abuse. Privilege of extending remarks in the Congressional Record was continued, and was it exercised?

Probably $35,000 or more was wasted by printing undelivered speeches in the Record after the adjournment of Congress. There is no more brazen and indefensible squandering of public funds anywhere than is this practice of printing undelivered speeches and franking them to all parts of the country.

Boomerang Words.

Cofferville Journal.

Sometimes statesmen utter words which come home to plague them. J. H. Thomas, Minister for the Dominions in the British cabinet, in debate over Irish refusal to pay land rents, asked the Parliament: "Do you intend to allow the other people to get away with your money, or don't you?"

Our senators, congressmen and Cabinet members might take note of this question propounded by Mr. Thomas and apply it in debate over debt cancellation when Britain comes to us with a soulful plea for remission of money Britain owes the U. S. Treasury.

Irreconcilable.

Detroit Free Press.

What happened to the great overturn in politics that was coming? Kansas is still voting dry.

Speaking of Slow Things.

Toledo Blade.

Mere suggestion, but an appropriate name for the Missouri turtle that has traveled only half a mile in 47 years would be Immediate Beer.

Why Congress Is What It Is.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The argument is good. Congress is what it is because we assist it to be what it is, and yet it is the focus of popular abuse just now, as often it has been in the past. It presents, as Dr. Sockman says, "a sorry spectacle of sectionalism and self-interest." But the tragedy of our congressmen, he truly affirms, lies in their being representatives of the selfishness of their constituencies. It is not so much a case of blind leading the blind as of the selfish pushing the selfish.

Not So Thrilling.

Newark Advocate.

Instead of parades of hollering torchbearers this fall, we are likely to see parades of groaning taxpayers marching up to the polls.

Republican Middle Ground.

Topeka Capital.

The wet press of the large cities took up the haw-hawing of the galleries at Chicago over the Republican plank pledging that "the gains under prohibition must be safeguarded" in any move for revision or repeal of the eighteenth amendment. They make the derisive and rhetorical answer of "What gains?" Well, a gain that even the wets up to this summer have granted is abolishment of the old saloon order. Another gain is that factory employes enormously increased the consumption of milk, to the advantage of the dairy interests, in place of beer. Another gain is that Monday no longer was known as a day when work slumped. And another is that millions of children were better shod and clothed. Being matters of record these gains can not be laughed off. The Republican platform stands on the gains and does not propose that they be given up in any revision program for handling the liquor problem.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Drys Change Their Tactics—Their Course in 1928 Helped to Develop Repeal Sentiment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: During the 1928 political campaign, F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Antisaloon League, like a host of others who claimed to be fighting solely for the cause of temperance, concentrated all his efforts toward the defeat, at any cost, of one candidate, viz., Gov. Al Smith. These so-called advocates of temperance were then bending all their efforts to defeat one candidate, and when occasionally a real Democrat would come out and plead for tolerance and fair play with the assurance that Congress alone has the power to propose amendments to the Constitution and that the President, whoever he might be and whatever his personal feelings on the liquor question, had absolutely no power to change the law, these champions of the prohibition cause would only increase their attack upon the Democratic nominee for President.

So intense was the hatred for the one candidate that those running for the House of Representatives and the Senate were lost sight of by these so-called temperance advocates. They did not then have the time to waste in trying to elect members to Congress, who alone have the power to propose amendments to the Constitution.

What a change four short years has brought about in the hearts of these dry leaders! Typical among the announcements showing up in the press during the past few days is that of Mr. McBride, who has just stated that "Our major task as to the coming campaign is clearly presented in the election of congressmen, who in the last analysis, have sole responsibility for amending the Constitution."

Had Mr. McBride and the others who so bitterly opposed Gov. Smith in 1928 focused their efforts then on the election of congressmen who are opposed to any change in the Constitution, as they are going to do this year and which they have a perfect right to do, their good faith would never have been questioned. One of the great religions would have been left out of the campaign, and millions of voters who were once proud to cast their votes for candidates who were known to be dry would not now be turning their backs upon these discredited so-called dry leaders and eagerly waiting for the opportunity to elect any man who is opposed to the eighteenth amendment in its present form.

The drys themselves have dug the grave for prohibition, and incidentally they have completely changed their tactics since 1928, but the change has come too late. The die is cast. VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Hoover's Speech, Democratic Stand for Sound Money and Adjournment of Congress Encourage Recovery.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: President Hoover's speech of acceptance establishes a new record in American politics. No other has made such a profound impression with thinking people. As he pictured for us the world-wide convulsions that have racked all commercial nations we realize more fully the dangers we have been near the past three years. He reminds us that we are not yet out of the woods, though we seem now to be up from the sewer level and can see what is going on in the world of business.

The first ray of hope seems to have followed the declaration for sound currency and untarnished national credit, made by the Democratic convention in June. That quieted the fear of a flood of fiat money. Then when Congress adjourned the middle of July, business that had been held in check was released, as it was felt the worst was over in regard to legislation.

President Hoover sees clearly that there is a vast amount of work yet to be done in order to get the industrial and financial machine running smoothly. After his statement of August 11 he could well afford to rest his case with the voters, make no more addresses, but let his aids carry on through the campaign to the November election. He should conserve his strength for the great work of aiding recovery just now under way and let others bear the stress of campaigning. EDWIN MEAD.

Chevy Chase, Md.

Suggests Revision of Local Place Names, Particularly Great Falls.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see it stated that at next Friday's meeting the Capital Park and Planning Commission will consider the changing of the name of Buzzards Point back to the original Duddington, or to Carrolsburgh. While the commission is about it, I think they should consider the changing of other names in addition to that in question—duplicate names of streets, for instance. In particular I wish they would take action for the changing of the name of the Great Falls of the Potomac to Potomac Falls. There are a thousand "Great Falls" in the streams of the United States, and the name is misleading as applied to our magnificent cascades. J. C. F.

Alcohol, Not Law, the Root of the Evil of Liquor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As Henry Ford points out, it is not the illegality of liquor that demoralizes, it is the alcohol in the liquor.

Shakespeare saw alcohol as an enemy put into the mouth to steal away the brain. He did not need a high-powered microscope to arrive at this conclusion; the outward and visible manifestations were amply sufficient.

Modern science explains the bad moral effects of alcohol as due to definite degenerative changes in the brain cells. Slight as was the excuse for alcoholism in Shakespeare's day, there is less now, and there will be still less in the future.

Miss Mildred Vogel is spending the week at Selby-on-the-Bay at the summer home of her aunt, Mrs. Carrie Yobst.

HOOVER'S 'SURRENDER' TO WETS ASSAILED BY BISHOP CANNON

statement recently submitted to Congress that consumption of intoxicants had diminished over 60 per cent since 1914?

"Had Hoover in March, 1929, not only declared his purpose to enforce vigorously and efficiently the Volstead act, but also asked Congress to furnish whatever men and money were necessary to secure as efficient enforcement as for other laws, Congress would have provided the men and money and the prohibition department would have been equipped to smash the city beer gangs, imprison or deport alien gangsters, suppress open speakeasies and bootlegging, and prevent any wholesale nullification of the Constitution.

"But, while appointing able and incorruptible officials, Hoover never requested adequate funds for efficient enforcement.

"When Senator Harris, of Georgia, introduced a resolution appropriating $25,000,000 for enforcement it was vigorously opposed by Secretary Mellon, who, replying to an open telegram which I sent him advocating the appropriation, wired me openly that the money was not needed and could not be effectively used by the prohibition department.

Sees Hoover Surrender.

"And now, without having first appealed to Congress for money and men to aid him to prevent nullification of the Constitution, Hoover suddenly surrenders and declares the helplessness of his administration to enforce the Constitution which he has sworn to uphold and defend.

"Would Jackson or Lincoln or Wilson have made such a declaration of administrative helplessness to uphold the Constitution without a vigorous demand that Congress give all possible aid?

"And now to remedy the 'intolerable' conditions which he declares his administration can not control, Hoover makes an indefinite, illogical and impracticable proposal that a new amendment be adopted, which amendment will permit the States to legalize the manufacture and sale of intoxicants, but which will contain a guarantee that the Federal Government will prevent the return of the saloon and violation of laws of dry States.

Calls Plan Generality.

"Until Hoover specifically formulates a provision whereby he proposes to prevent the return of the saloon his proposal is simply an indefinite and glittering generality. How will he define where the legal hotel or restaurant or drinking parlor ends and the illegal saloon begins.

"Moreover, if, when as now, the liquor traffic is criminal everywhere, the President declares the helplessness of his administration to prevent the 'intolerable speakeasies, bootlegging and practical nullification of the Constitution,' why, if the traffic is legalized, should it be supposed that the same helpless administration under far more difficult conditions could enforce a law against the return of the saloon or its equivalent under another name?

"Or if before ratification of the eighteenth amendment the impossibility of preventing smuggling into dry States was a potent factor in the adoption of Federal prohibition, why now, if the liquor traffic is legalized anywhere, should it be thought possible to prevent smuggling into dry States through the innumerable trains, trucks, automobiles, watercraft and aircraft?

Says Task More Difficult.

"Really preventing the return of the saloon or its equivalent in States where the traffic will be legalized and to prevent smuggling into dry States will be far more difficult than it has been to enforce the eighteenth amendment, and the great increase of money and men required to enforce the new amendment, had it been demanded by the President and provided by Congress in 1929, would have secured average efficient enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

"Hoover admits Federal prohibition has banished the intolerable legalized saloon, and officials report that consumption of intoxicants decreased over 60 per cent since 1914.

"Notwithstanding Hoover now surrenders to the speakeasies, bootleggers and nullifiers of the Constitution without ever asking Congress to furnish the Government sufficient money and men to secure average enforcement of the prohibition law.

Sees Loss for President.

"Those advocates of Federal prohibition who believe prohibition to be the outstanding economic, social and moral issue of the presidential campaign can not logically support either Hoover or Roosevelt and doubtless hundreds of thousands will refuse to vote for either, which may cost Hoover the electoral votes of several States.

"Others, while recording publicly vigorous protest and utter disagreement with both candidates on the prohibition issue, will carefully consider all present facts and future possibilities before final decision.

"Meanwhile emphasis must be placed upon the election of senators and representatives opposed to submission and repeal. Political platforms and Presidents are temporary. This is only one battle in the irrepressible warfare with alcohol, in which there can be no compromise, no retreat, no surrender until traffic in alcohol—the great enemy of social order—has been practically abolished."

ings from King Albert of Belgium and the Swiss government.

The scientist rose at 2 a. m. after resting several hours. He dressed himself in a sports suit, Tennis shoes and a cap.

At 2:45 he was in action, supervising the placing in the gondola of oxygen bottles sufficient to last 36 hours. Food placed in the gondola consisted of bananas, oranges, peaches, chocolate and bread. Five liters of water were aboard.

On the flight last year, which ended on a mountainside in Austria, the professor was greatly handicapped by the intense heat of the sun. The gondola is painted white to deflect the sun's rays. It is tightly closed and has eight portholes, whereas the old one had only two portholes.

A radio is carried on the flight, enabling the professor to keep in touch with ground stations. Both Prof. Piccard and his assistant wear parachutes.

The plan is to make observations of cosmic rays at various altitudes and, in doing so, Prof. Piccard may break his altitude record—a possibility in which he is not interested. He is entirely indifferent to the adventure angles of the flight and has concern only for the data which will be recorded by his instruments.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Prof. Auguste Piccard, the Swiss physicist, took off in his white globular balloon for his second jaunt into the stratosphere after a rousing send-off at the Duebendorf Airdrome in Zurich which was heard here in a transatlantic broadcast tonight.

Before taking off the professor said he plans to come to America some time next year and visit the stratosphere from the vicinity of Hudson Bay or some other suitable location.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE TRIAL OF JIMMY WALKER.

GOV. ROOSEVELT (trying to make the best of an uncomfortable position):

Good morning, Mayor Walker,
Your accusers say I must
Strip you of your robes of office
As unfaithful to your trust.
I've a list of allegations,
And a little time I'll save
By announcing at the outset
They are very, very grave.

The Peepul (leaping, cheering and throwing their hats in the air):
Grave charges? Phooh and phooey!
We don't care what Sam discloses;
You're our darling Little Jimmy—
Have another bunch of roses!

Governor (wishing he was making a speech on "The Forgotten Man" instead):
I shall take up all the charges
And discuss them, one by one;
They involve official ethics
And a steady flow of "mon."
First they say that Mr. Sisto
Cut you in on oil because
It was hoped you might be helpful
In a change of taxi law.

THE PEEPUL—(Jimmy with lilies of the valley as emblems of official purity and interrupting before he can answer)

Hip Hooray! We're for you, Jimmy!
Never mind this silly fuss;
Quite regardless of your ethics,
You are just the boy for us!

GOVERNOR — (Wondering what Hoover is doing)

It appears that bonds were sent you
In a fat white envelope
Without any payment by you—
You will clear this up, I hope.

THE PEEPUL—(Dancing in the streets and turning cartwheels)

Never mind such nonsense, Jimmy!
It's a wicked, vicious plot;
We are for you if you're guilty—
And we're for you if you're not!

GOVERNOR—(Wondering why he ever appointed Judge Seabury anyhow)

They say sev'ral thousand dollars
You received from Mr. Block,
And you'd have us understand it
Was a clean-up in some stock;
Mr. Block's great heart was broken
By a query from his son—
So he helped to swell your income,
Which was all in good, clean fun?

THE PEEPUL—Playing ring-around-rosey on the capitol steps)

Snap your fingers at 'em, Jimmy,
Give the bird to one and all!
For you still would be our hero
If you'd stolen City Hall!

GOVERNOR—
There's an implication horrid
And you'll find it is on file
That your wealthy benefactor
Had an interest in tile.

PEEPUL—Giving a hand to an old lady who is trying to break into the chamber and kiss hizzoner.)

Make some wisecracks for us, Mayor—
Let your mood be one of joy.
We don't care just how you got it—
You are still our Sunny Boy!

GOVERNOR—(Acting quickly as Mr. Curtin, the mayor's counsel, rises to make his fifty-fourth objection.)

Your objections, Mr. Curtin,
Are so intricate and deep
That I find it hard to listen
Without falling fast asleep;
Should you start you will not finish.
I am certain, very soon—
So I'll now declare adjournment
'Till some rainy afternoon.

PEEPUL—(Falling in line behind brass bands as the mayor comes out of the building, and strewing his path with sweet flowers)—

Three long cheers for James ("Susanna")
And the old red, white and blue!
You're our pal beneath the mastic
And our pal beneath the yew!

Logical Deduction.

"WELL, as soon as the market gets some good news it ought to break real badly," says the Office Philosopher.

"Tomorrow the New York Yacht Club fleet will leave New Haven and get under weigh for the 300-mile run to New London."—New York Herald Tribune.

In light air it only seems that far.

Naturally.

The cutting of the dividend by Eastman Kodak will force some stockholders to rewind the roll.

And, as a cheerful holder said today, all you can do when a camera company cuts a dividend, is to await developments.

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES CURTIS will open his campaign for reelection on the Republican ticket with a talk from his home city, Topeka, Kans., at 4 o'clock this afternoon. WMAL will distribute the address locally.

The program calls for brief introductory talks by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican national committee, and Senator L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, who delivered the keynote speech at the party's national convention in Chicago. It is expected that Vice President Curtis' address will last about 30 minutes.

SECRETARY OF WAR PATRICK J. HURLEY will be the principal speaker during a special American Legion program (WRC, 10:15 o'clock), tonight. The program is the last of a series which has been broadcast during the spring and summer months in connection with the American Legion convention scheduled to meet in Portland, Oreg., September 12.

Senator Hiram Bingham will speak on the "Future of Aviation" during the annual luncheon of the National Aeronautic Association (WRC, 12 noon) today.

EDITH WALLACK, dramatic soprano, an N. B. C. staff artist, will be heard over WRC again at 4 o'clock this afternoon. She sings twice weekly, being heard on Mondays at the same hour. Mrs. Wallack's fan mail shows a decided response to the modern heart songs, therefore she includes one in each of her recitals, but for the most part she draws on her large classical and semiclassical repertoire.

Mrs. Wallack sang last year in "Aida" with Mme. Matzenauer.

WHEREVER Gracie Allen, of Burns and Allen, wends her way, "How's your brother, Gracie?" is an inevitable greeting. Such is the price the comedienne must pay for having made famous through the medium of radio the amusing but fictitious escapades of her brother. But, if this is the price she must pay, pity Gracie's actual brother.

His first name is George. He is a serious-minded chap, modest and unobtrusive, who is employed by an oil company in California, Gracie's home State. His was a prosaic life until Burns and Allen made their appearance over the air. Now he no longer is just George Allen. People point him out, saying, "There's Gracie Allen's funny brother," and everybody laughs—that is, everybody but George.

Graham Harris and his orchestra will feature Dvorak's finale to the "New World Symphony" during the concert at 8:30 o'clock over WRC. Mozart's overture to "The Magic Flute" will open the program.

BAND AND GLEE CLUB WILL GIVE CONCERT

Masonic Home Inmates to Play Tomorrow in Alexandria.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Band and Glee Club of the Masonic Home of Virginia, located in Richmond, will give a concert in the auditorium of the Maury School in Alexandria tomorrow night, according to plans completed yesterday by members of the local Masonic lodges and Eastern Star Chapter. The concert will be a benefit event, with the proceeds going to the musical education fund of the Masonic Home, according to announcement by C. Philip Heishley, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Among those assisting Mr. Heishley in preparations for the concert are Mrs. G. H. Hepburn, Mrs. Maud Studds, Percy E. Clift, Roy H. Dale, Dr. S. Nelson Gray, F. L. Hastings, F. Clinton Knight, B. W. Pullin, George E. Reigler and E. E. Tillett.

The two organizations of the Masonic Home have given several concerts in Alexandria, and their work has been commented upon favorably by musical critics of note throughout the country. The proceeds of their concerts are placed in a special fund for the musical education of any child at the Home, regardless of whether or not the child is a member of either the band or glee club.

This is the only means the managers of the Home have for raising funds for this cause, and the two organizations make periodical tours of Virginia.

Miss M. L. Williamson, of Washington, addressed the members of the Cameron Club and a number of invited friends yesterday morning at the George Mason Hotel on the origin and growth of Communism in this country. This was the second of a serious of four talks, the next to be at 10:30 o'clock next Wednesday morning, in the George Mason Hotel. Miss Helen Norris Cummings, president of the club introduced the speaker.

The Alexandria Kiwanis Club will feature Police Day at the luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock today, at the George Mason Hotel. The guest speaker will be Gen. Pelham Glassford, superintendent of District of Columbia police. Capt. John S. Arnold, of the Alexandria Police Department, and a group of police officers also will be guests of the club. The Kiwanis merit medal will be presented at this meeting to the police officer, who by devotion to duty and attention to details has the best all around record since Capt. Arnold became chief of the Alexandria department.

George Christian, colored, 35 years old, reported to the Alexandria police that while walking near the plant of the Mutual Ice Co. Tuesday night he was halted by three colored men, robbed of $28, and then stabbed on the forehead, cheek and arms by one of the bandits. Christian, who lives in a bunk house near the ice plant, was unable to identify his assailants.

The Alexandria Retail Merchants Association has warned its members to be on the lookout for forged money orders, stolen from the postoffice at Groveton. The numbers of the stolen order blanks are 35,001 to 35,200, inclusive. Alexandria authorities have been asked by the Federal authorities to apprehend any one attempting to cash the stolen orders.

Alexandria motorists in whose applications for State automobile drivers' licenses any physical defects have been noted have been notified by the State motor vehicle commissioner to appear at the local police headquarters for examination before licenses will be issued. The notice was sent by Commissioner T. McCall Frazier to Police Capt. John S. Arnold, under whose supervision the tests will be conducted.

Andrew Stuart Mitchell died at his home, 2001 Russell road, Mount Ida, Alexandria, yesterday morning, following a protracted illness. Funeral services will be held at his home at 11 o'clock this morning and the body will be sent to Milwaukee, Wis., for burial.

SHERIFF'S FEES DUE FOR AIRING IN RULES

Opinion in Prince Georges Is Given by State Official Regarding Salary.

Several rulings regarding the sheriff's office of Prince Georges County, Md., were made public yesterday. The rulings were contained in an opinion rendered by Assistant Attorney General William L. Henderson of Maryland in response to a query by Edmund R. Stewart, State auditor.

In the first, Mr. Hendreson ruled that all fees collected by the sheriff should be turned over to the State, including money paid by the Bowie race track for police work done at the track.

"Where funds come into the sheriff's hands from any source by virtue of his office he must account to the State for the excess over and above his salary, unless required by local law to account therefor to the county," the opinion rules. Such a local law exists in Prince Georges County.

"As to the sum of $550 received by the sheriff from the Bowie race track, it seems clear that the money is paid to the sheriff by virtue of his office and that he should account for it to the county as part of his fees," the opinion states.

Regarding the payment of the sheriff for transportation of prisoners and feeding prisoners, the opinion declares: "There is a local act in Prince Georges County which fixes the sheriff's salary at $2,400 a year and requires him to account to the county for all fees collected, also to obtain reimbursement from the county for the cost of transporting prisoners. It seems clear that if, as you state, the county allows him a flat sum for this latter expense (transportation), it is in disregard of the statute; the county is legally entitled to an accounting from the sheriff but the State is not interested in any excess.

"The same thing would appear to be true as to the allowance for boarding prisoners. The county pays 'not more than 50 cents a day' for each prisoner and the sheriff is to make annual settlement with the county, consequently the accounting lies between the county and the sheriff, who should not be permitted to retain more than his actual expenses."

Funeral services for Mrs. Rachael Cox, 62 years old, of Oxon Hill, who died at Providence Hospital as the result of burns believed to have been caused by an exploding oil stove, will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Murray's funeral home, Anacostia. Burial will be in St. Barnabas' Church Cemetery.

MONTGOMERY BANK PROMOTIONS MADE

Changes Ordered to Relieve R. G. Hilton, President, of Detailed Work.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Two promotions were announced yesterday by the Farmers Banking & Trust Co., of Montgomery County, Md. Both promotions were made by the unanimous action of the board of directors and were approved by the president, State Senator Robert G. Hilton. They are intended to take part of the administrative load from the shoulders of Senator Hilton, who has been in ill health. They were made at his request.

Richard F. Green, cashier of the Kensington Bank of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co., was elected chairman of the board of directors. He has been cashier of the Kensington branch for ten years and now will have active charge of both the main bank at Rockville and the Kensington Bank.

F. Bache Albert, assistant treasurer, who has been with the bank for many years, was elected treasurer.

The will of George M. Hunter, of Rockville, president of the Montgomery County National Bank and prominent in the life of Montgomery County for many years, was filed yesterday with the office of Hanson G. Cashell, register of wills at the Rockville Courthouse.

The will bequeaths all of his property, real and personal, to his wife, Mrs. Hortense Dorsey Hunter, and names her as executrix, without bond. The will was dated April 21, 1904, and did not state the amount of the estate. It was admitted to probate yesterday.

The will of Sarah E. Jacobsen also was admitted to probate. It names her husband, Jacob Jacobsen, as executor and bequeaths the property to him to use as he wills. If any is undisposed at the time of his death, it is to be divided among a number of nieces and nephews and his son.

Col. Anderson to Stump For George Cole Scott

Richmond, Va., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Col. Henry W. Anderson, prominent Virginia Republican, said today he would take the stump in behalf of the party's Third District congressional candidate, George Cole Scott.

Col. Anderson, who placed Mr. Scott's name in nomination after himself declining the call to make the race, termed the nominee "a successful business man of large and varied experience, with important contacts throughout the country."

STATE TO SURFACE LEE HIGHWAY SOON

Commissioner Shirley Writes Arlington Manager He Will Rush Work.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 599. Clarendon, Va.

Assurance that the State highway department soon will start work on surfacing the Lee boulevard was received by County Manager Roy S. Braden yesterday.

The letter reads in part:

"Hope to get to work on our end of the Lee boulevard shortly and complete it as speedily as possible." It was signed by H. G. Shirley, commissioner.

Mr. Braden said it is expected all rights of way as far as Pershing drive will have been obtained prior to starting the work. This, he said, will provide access to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge by passing through Fort Myer.

With the completion of the State's work the boulevard will have been completed as far as station 107, where it meets Government property.

The case of M. O. Peed, charged with larceny, was continued yesterday by Judge B. M. Hedrick, of the Arlington County court, until Wednesday at 10 o'clock. He was released on $1,000 bond.

The warrant sworn to by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, charges that Peed obtained $100 by false pretenses and representation from James Cannon.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Alice W. Semones, Aurora Hills.

DIES AT HOME

MRS. MARY C. CAMPBELL.

Virginians to Discuss Buchanan Road Plans

Marion, Va., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Representatives of three counties, Grayson, Smyth and Tazewell, will meet here Friday to draft plans for conducting a campaign looking to the establishment of the B. F. Buchanan Memorial highway.

It is proposed to establish a permanent tri-county organization to work for the highway's establishment. The proposed route would be an extension of Federal Route No. 58 from Galax through the three counties connection with Virginia State Route No. 112 and West Virginia Highway No. 12, leading to Welch, W. Va.

MRS. CAMPBELL, 79, DEAD IN ARLINGTON

Wife of Retired Engineer to Be Buried Saturday in Bethel Cemetery.

Funeral services of Mrs. Mary C. Campbell, 79, wife of Loudoun Campbell, a resident of Arlington County for more than twenty years, who died at her home yesterday at 154 Mount Vernon avenue, Arlington Ridge, Arlington County, will be conducted from the home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. W. Townsend, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Aurora Hills. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Mrs. Campbell, who was married Christmas Day, 1870, was a native of Alexandria, coming to Arlington County with her husband more than twenty years ago.

Mr. Campbell, in his eighty-fourth year, is a retired engineer of the Water Department of the District of Columbia.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Campbell is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Elma Lyles, Miss Alice Campbell and Mrs. Ruth MacDonald, and three sons, Frank G. Campbell, Herbert M. Campbell and Henry G. Campbell, all of Arlington County.

Firemen to Picnic Saturday.

Firemen of two Virginia counties, Arlington and Fairfax, will gather at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Saturday for their annual outing. An elaborate program of entertainment for the firemen and their families is being arranged by a committee composed of the following: E. J. Blackmer, chairman; H. F. Smith, Clarendon; Frank Vitale, Ballston; P. G. Lyons, Jefferson District; R. D. Royston, Falls Church, and William D. Topley, Cherrydale.

Andrew Nolte, 67, Jeweler, Is Dead

Brief Illness Is Fatal to Leader in Social and Church Groups.

Andrew Nolte, 67, jeweler in Washington for the last 50 years, and active in social and religious organizations, died yesterday at his home, 4301 Fourth street northwest, after a brief illness.

A member of the Catholic Knights of America, the Capital Beneficial Association, and the Windthorst Club, Mr. Nolte was at one time the president of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Nolte three daughters, Mrs. Joseph Christie, Mrs. Claggett T. Jones and Miss Catherine Nolte, and a son, Andrew Nolte, all living in Washington.

A requiem mass will be said at St. Gabriel's Church at 9:30 a. m., Monday. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH MORRISON.

Dies After Brief Illness at Home of Daughter Here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Morrison, 65, wife of the late William F. Morrison, a plate printer in the Bureau of Engraving, died Tuesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles F. Gramlich, 4301 Fourth street northwest, after a brief illness.

Mrs. Morrison is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Gramlich and Mrs. Fred J. Hughes and three sons, Robert Morrison, Arthur Morrison and Theodore Morrison. Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Gramlich at 2 p. m. Friday. Burial will be in the Congressional Cemetery.

Pupils and friends of the Providence Heights Industrial School will hold a picnic Saturday at Providence Heights near West Falls Church. Refreshments will be served. The Rev. A. A. Lott is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

LONG ILLNESS FATAL TO LEON F. TYNDALL

Designer and Manufacturer of Stained-Glass Windows Expires at 63.

Leon F. Tyndall, 63 years old, member of an old Virginia family and a resident of Washington for 40 years, died yesterday at Sibley Hospital after a long illness. He was a designer and manufacturer of stained glass windows and his work forms part of many churches and buildings in Washington, including the Catholic University and the Franciscan Monastery at Brookland. He had just moved to 2700 Ontario road northwest.

Mr. Tyndall was born at Richmond, Va., the son of Lieut. Mark A. Tyndall, of the famous Virginia Black Horse Troop of the Confederate Army, and Mrs. Martha Jane Tyndall. He received his education in Baltimore, Md., and came to Washington about 40 years ago. He was one of the founders of the Palace laundry, with T. Hill Marshall, and was interested in several other business enterprises here.

He became one of the best known and most accomplished artists here in stained glass. He recently became critically ill and several days ago was removed to the hospital.

Mr. Tyndall is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie G. Tyndall; three sons, Ralph M. Tyndall, Leon F. Tyndall, jr., and William H. Tyndall; a brother Mark A. Tyndall, all of Washington, and a sister, Mrs. Fannie L. Ten Eyck, of St. Petersburg, Fla. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

$50 in Clothing Stolen From Auto.

to keep cars HEALTHY

TODAY cars, like people, move at top speed. And with both the question of good health is a matter of good care.

Proper lubrication is vital to the health of modern high speed cars. Old fashioned methods won't do because no one lubricant and no one lubrication gun are sufficient to meet the specifications of the engineer who designed your car.

That's where Amoco Approved Lubrication comes in. There's a specialized Amoco lubricant for every part requiring lubrication and a specialized gun for its application. (See Gun Board.) And expert, trained men for the job.

And yet, like all our service extras, there is no additional charge for the specialized gun service itself. You pay no more than for the old fashioned "grease job".

Keep your car healthy—have your car lubricated the approved Amoco way. On top of smiling, willing service in all branches of automobile care, you'll find the best in products.

For instance, Amoco-Gas—the original special motor fuel, with its lower cost per mile. Orange American Gas—the finest gasoline selling at regular gas price—Amoco Motor Oil and Lubricants.

REBELS' SURRENDER DEMANDED IN BRAZIL

Terms Suggested by Leaders of Uprising Rejected as Loyalists Advance.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The federal government sent its troops deeper into the rebel territory of Sao Paulo State tonight and demanded the unconditional surrender of the insurgent forces arrayed against the provisional regime of President Getulio Vargas.

President Vargas informed the rebel emissary, representing Generalissimo Bertholdo Klinger, that the government would not accept any terms for peace except the absolute and unconditional capitulation of the Sao Paulo forces. Suggestions for a settlement on other terms were flatly rejected.

The attitude of the president was stiffened by advices from the front reporting further successes for the federal troops, although observers said the general situation at present is at a stalemate.

Government troops, which have encircled Sao Paulo State, advanced along the northern front and were well into the rebel state territory.

On the eastern front loyalists advanced on Alto da Lage, which is at the Brazilian Central Railway line head, an official communique said, while the capture of Silveira appeared imminent.

Fighting along the Minas Geraes frontier continues unabated, but in the south the government troops from Parana have moved close to the Sao Paulo border and are awaiting reinforcements.

The S. S. Southern Cross, en route to Rio de Janeiro and New York, entered the port of Santos, in rebel territory and took aboard 62 passengers anxious to leave Sao Paulo State, where a number of United States citizens had been stranded.

Meanwhile, fears of a coffee shortage abroad because the Sao Paulo crop is tied up were relieved by the statement of Jacques Maciel, director of the Minas Geraes State Coffee Defense Institute. He said the requirements of foreign nations, particularly the United States, would be met.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Miss Lily Pons, Metropolitan opera soprano, concluding a season that began last June, broke the box office records at the Colon Theater tonight with a recital that drew about $7,000. She will return to Europe soon.

Mexico City, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—The Mexican delegation has left for Tapachula en route to Guatemala City, where a conference will be held to determine the Guatemala-Mexico boundary. The conference begins August 22. Approximately 20,000 persons inhabit the zone which both countries claim.

Jalapa, Vera Cruz, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Federal troops were ordered out tonight to put down a rebellion started at Las Vigas, on the Interoceanic Railroad, by Ambrosio Bello, commander of a small band of irregulars in that district. Bello declared the government itself had furnished him with arms and ammunition with which to stage the revolt, but state officials here were mystified by the movement.

French Aero Club To Give Prize Here

Comdr. P. V. H. Weems, U. S. N., Is Honored as Author.

Lieut. Comdr. P. V. H. Weems, U. S. N., has been awarded the Aero Club of France gold medal for the best book published during the year on aeronautics in a language other than French, according to an announcement made yesterday.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautic Association, will make the presentation tonight. Commander Weems has taught navigation to a large number of transoceanic fliers, including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Harold Gatty.

Weems is a native of Turbine, Tenn., and is now attached to the Navy's Hydrographic Office here. His book was entitled "Air Navigation."

F. Novell Larkin Resigns Post as County Manager

Duties as Fairfax Engineer Also Given Up; R. M. Loughborough, Assistant, Placed in Charge Pending Appointment of Permanent Successor.

F. Novell Larkin, who, for the last four years has been county engineer and for the past year county manager of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday submitted his resignation effective immediately to the county board of supervisors. R. M. Loughborough, who has been an assistant to Mr. Larkin and county purchasing agent for several years was placed in charge of the office pending the permanent appointment of Mr. Larkin's successor.

Yesterday was the first meeting of the supervisors following the election last week when the voters of the county decided to remain in the newly created secondary highway system. It has been reported that Mr. Larkin has been named State resident engineer in charge of all roads in Fairfax and Prince William Counties.

Larkin, in submitting his resignation, told the board that he would remain in Fairfax for some time and would assist in the duties of his former office without compensation. He stated that all county road equipment had been stored in the county road camp near Fairfax and two men were employed by him to act as watchmen day and night, which action was confirmed by the board until it is decided what will be done with the county machinery. The county now has equipment valued at $31,000 of which the State has offered to purchase $9,000 worth. No action was taken as to the disposal of the equipment yesterday.

Two courses are open to the county under the new road law. The equipment can either be turned over to the State, without charge, in which case the machinery will be used entirely within the county, or it may be sold at public auction. All accounts in the county manager's office to date were submitted to the board for approval and all funds under his control were turned over to the county treasurer. Members of the board paid tribute to the work and cooperation of Larkin under whose guidance the county highway department was said to have been the most efficient county organization in the State.

Twenty-two applications were filed with the board asking for permits to establish commercial hog farms in various sections of the county. The board ordered the applications posted for a public hearing on September 6. This action was taken under the new county ordinance governing the establishment and control of commercial hog farms according to authority granted by the last session of the State Legislature.

The supervisors were questioned whether they intended to continue under the county manager form of government, since the State has relieved that office of the control of county roads and if the present county police would be maintained to patrol State roads. This question was tabled indefinitely for further study by the board.

Adventists Widen Sphere of Activity

34,859 Converts to Faith Reported in Year; 1,250 in Russia.

Seventh Day Adventists added 38 new languages to their foreign activities during 1931, making a total of 455 in which they are proclaiming the Adventist gospel, according to the annual report of H. E. Rogers, statistical secretary of the denomination.

The denomination, the report says, is now operating in 141 countries of the world, through 21,607 evangelical and institutional workers.

There were 34,859 baptized into the faith last year. The largest gain was in North America, the increase being 10,578. In Soviet Russia 1,250 converts were made.

Former District Woman Leaves $15,000 Estate

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 17.—The will of Miss Grace Potterfield, formerly of Washington, filed for probate in the Orphans Court, distributes an estate of approximately $15,000. After legacies totaling $8,500 to nieces and nephews, the residue is given to the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Wehler, pastor.

The bequests are to Mary A. Coblentz, $3,000, jewelry and personal effects; Laura A. Potterfield, $1,000; Mollie M. Potterfield, $1,000; Clara E. Coblentz, $1,000; Mrs. J. Fred Main, $1,000; Mabel G. Wise, $500; Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Coblentz, $500, and Harry B. Coblentz, $500. The Frederick County National Bank is named executor.

Capital Children Win at Pony Show

Others Also Get Prizes in Saddle Events at Rockville Fair.

A score of cups and ribbons were awarded yesterday to as many children, several of them Washingtonians, when the Rockville, Md., Fair opened with a pony show and race. Because the show pleased the adults in the grand stand as well as the diminutive gentlemen jockeys, fair directors decided to continue the event another day.

Among those awarded prizes in the show, including jumping and saddle classes, were: Robert Gibbons, 622 C street northeast; H. M. Powell, Lily Mae Huddleson, William Francis Hughes, David Martin, Collins Thompson, Tommy Ladson, John Maher and Fred Hughes.

In one of the races, Washington boys were in the fore, with James Smith, 3015 Cambridge place northwest, and Dan Baker, 2821 Q street northwest, coming in first and second, respectively. Others "in the money" were Joe Starkey, James Powell, Fred J. Hughes, Donald Lowell, Frank Owens, Tommy Ladson, Rufus Milor and Adrienne Tucker.

The fair will continue through Saturday night. Tomorrow's chief attraction will be the showing of approximately 250 dogs under auspices of the American Kennel Club. Free fireworks, wrestling matches and daredevil stunts will be staged each night.

NEW BOLIVIA PEACE NOTE IS DISPATCHED

Concrete Proposal Is Asked by Neutrals to Bring Chaco Accord.

(United Press.)

Five neutral American republics endeavoring to facilitate solution of the Chaco controversy last night dispatched a new note to Bolivia, requesting it to submit a concrete proposal to bring the Bolivian position in accord with that outlined by the 19 American republics in their declaration of August 3.

The new note, 1,200 words in length, was legal, analytical, and conciliatory in tone. It outlined important divergencies between the Bolivian position regarding the basis for suspension of hostilities and that previously proposed by the neutrals.

Asuncion Paraguay, Aug. 17 (U.P.). A new clash between Bolivians and Paraguayans in the Gran Chaco was announced today by the war ministry, which said seven Bolivian soldiers had been killed.

A "strong contingent" of Bolivians attacked the Paraguayan post at Caraya, the ministry said. The Paraguayans retired but, later recovered the post.

The second clash resulted in a defeat for the Bolivians who lost a lieutenant and six men, the announcement said.

One Paraguayan was wounded.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WHEN the S. S. Champlain of the French Line arrives in New York today, there will come ashore a group of 60 foreign artists signed for the forthcoming tenth edition of Earl Carroll's "Vanities"—already in partial rehearsal in New York—in the personal charge of Norman S. Carroll, brother of the producer and general manager of his theatrical enterprises. With the exception of Will Fyffe, famous comedian, who was last seen in this country three years ago, their appearance in the "Vanities" will mark the American debut of the entire party.

In addition to Fyffe, the group includes Andre Randall, French comedian; Edwin Styles, English musician and comedian; Petit Jimmy, of the Casino de Paris; Andre Renaud, who plays two pianos at once; Keith Clark, French vaudevillian; Grazia Del Rio, Parisian prima donna; Max Wall, London Hippodrome character dancer; Harry Wills, eccentric dancer and comedian—not the sepia slugger of the prize ring—Bruno Salto and Ubaldo Russo, Italian opera singers; Juffe, German buffoon; Martin and Violet Roses, Swedish players and modern ballet dancers; Charmel and Rachel Carlez, Belgian singers; seventeen Helen Jackson Dancing Girls, the Sparks Dancing Troupe of Girls and numerous others.

That last-named dancing troupe probably are fire dancers!

Sparks, sparklers—and that reminds me. In the negligible item of diamonds, Betty Compson, principal luminary of the "Star Night at the Cocoanut Grove" revue, current on the stage at Loew's Fox, is wearing more carats than a green grocer has parsnips! Among the doodads that will put your eyes out are a pendant about the size of a flatiron, a solitaire she can hardly lift and what amounts to a diamond wristlet, in place of a bracelet, on her left wrist. All of which adds up to a lot of ice!

The Community Center department announces two Summer Festival Programs at the Sylvan Theater in the Washington Monument Grounds next week. On Tuesday evening, August 23, the U. S. Navy Band and the Washington Denishawn Dancers, led by Marian Chace and Lester Shafer, will appear in a joint program, and on Friday, August 26, at 8 p. m., the Estelle Wentworth Opera Co. will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore."

A double-header is also scheduled for Glen Echo Park the first of next week. On Monday night, beginning at 8:30, the Crystal Pool will stage another swim meet, with the sanction of the D. C. A. A. U. Events for men, women and boys are on the card. Then on Tuesday the annual outing of the Relief Association of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. and the Potomac Electric Power Co. will be held. This event attracted in excess of 12,000 visitors to the park last year. Write your own ticket, this.

Arthur D. Mayo, prominent Washington pianist and a former member of the musical organization developed by the Crandall Theaters, underwent a major operation at the Washington Sanitarium Hospital, in Takoma Park, yesterday morning. He was reported in excellent condition and on the road to recovery last night.

Since things seem to be happening in two's in the amusement world next week, there will be two world premiers in the picture houses, for which the following attractions are announced: Columbia, world premiere of Charles T. Trego's "Isle of Paradise;" Palace, Marion Davies in "Blondie of the Follies," world premiere; Metropolitan, the foremost living celebrities in "The Cry of the World;" RKO-Keith's, Dorothy Wilson, Richard Cromwell, Arline Judge and Eric Linden in "The Age of Consent;" Loew's Fox, Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante and Thelma Todd in "Speak Easily," and Herb Williams headlining the vaudeville; Earle, Ralph Graves, Lila Lee and Jack Holt in "The War Correspondent," and Nick Lucas headlining the vaudeville.

Contrary to current rumor, Loew's Fox is not to become a straight vaudeville house presenting 9-act bills, but I am told that when the new policy of feature pictures and five-act vaudeville bills goes into effect Friday the free list will get the ax.

Yeah, a faux pas to ask for a Fox pass, as you might say!

Sheriff Investigating 2 Robberies in County

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 17.—Sheriff J. Mason Smith and his deputies today were seeking clews in two robberies in separate parts of the county, in one of which the loot was estimated at approximately $300.

Yesterday morning Sheriff Smith was called to Proffit to investigate the burglary of James Clark's store. Entrance was gained there by smashing a window. An attempt to break open the store safe with a hammer and chisel had been abandoned.

Hagerstown Holds Man In Robbery for Jury

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 17.—Hilton (Dink) Grove, 29, recently released by District of Columbia authorities as a suspect in a plot to rob several banks in that vicinity, today was held in $2,000 bail for grand jury action in the robbery of Henry Zimmerman, Frederick taxi driver near here.

Grove and another companion, who disappeared, are alleged to have robbed Zimmerman of his money and then took his taxicab.

NATS' 3-RUN RALLY IN 7TH DEFEATS CHISOX, 4-2

Washington Solves Lyons' Slants After Being Held Scoreless for 5 Innings

Spencer Singles With Bases Loaded to Break Deadlock.

Good Fielding Aid to Coffman; Brown Gets Credit.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

FOR six innings yesterday, the Nationals held back waiting for the White Sox to give them a lift by coming through with their usual errors. Then the residents became discouraged, decided that they would have to do something on their own account, and hopped on Ted Lyons for four of the nine hits credited them during the game to take the decision, 4 to 2.

Until this three-run rally was staged, Lyons had been pretty much in control of things, while some superfielding had prevented the Chicagoans from coining more than two runs off the nine bingles they curried from Dick Coffman's slants. They obtained at least one hit in every inning he worked except the sixth and were a continued threat.

Sox Start Game With Rush.

The Sox started with a rush, Funk opening the game with a triple and tallying on Hayes' one-shot to center. Later Seeds doubled, but Hayes was held at third and English ended the round by rolling to Cronin. Three aliens were left in the second, Coffman pitching out of quite a hole in this canto. With one dead, Grube walked, Lyons was hit and Funk singled, all in rapid order, to fill the bases. Hayes fanned, however, and then Myer made a nice play to retire Blue.

After Appling opened the third with a single and died stealing and Seeds followed with another hit, only to fall a double-play victim, the visitors scored again. Kress was robbed of a hit by Manush opening this fourth round but Grube doubled and Lyons singled. Coffman then checked this rally and the Sox never seriously threatened thereafter. Lloyd Brown, who took up the mound assignment starting the seventh, pitched hitless ball and was credited with the victory.

Washington's hits were inserted in but four frames. Cronin opened the second with one and, although West later was credited with a triple when Kress misjudged his liner, no runs were scored, due to the fact that Kuhel, who preceded West to the tee, hit into a double play. Manush cracked out a one-baser in the fourth and the Sox, who are leading the league in twin murders, turned in another on Cronin's tap to Appling.

Nats' Last Six Hits Put To Good Use.

The Nats' other six hits were devoted to scoring purposes. Lyons issued his only pass of the game to Spencer, opening the home sixth. Reynolds, batting for Coffman, went out on a high foul to Grube, but Rice singled Spencer to second. The latter took third when Myer's tap was turned into a force play at second, and counted on Manush's single to right.

Kuhel started what proved to be the winning rally in the "lucky" frame by doubling off the right field wall. West beat out his intended sacrifice bunt and the runways were crowded, with none dead, when Bluege beat out a scratch hit to English. Spencer singled two mates home and Bluege to third, and the latter checked in with the final run of the game when Kress ill-advisedly caught Brown's foul, giving Bluege plenty of time to score after the out was made.

Seeds led the swatsmiths of both teams with a double and two singles. Funk had a triple and one-baser to show for his day's work, while Manush and West were the only Nats to hit safely more than once.

Weaver Faces Chisox In Third of Series

Monte Weaver, whose winning streak at nine straight was snapped by the Yankees here last Sunday, will try to start another at Griffith Stadium this afternoon when he does the Nat pitching against the White Sox. He will be seeking his nineteenth victory of the year. Opposing him probably will be Paul Gregory, a rookie right-hander.

Newport Net Upset Sees Austin Beaten

England's Premier Player Bows to Mangin in Straight Sets.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A quintet of American youngsters was called upon to repel foreign tennis invaders today in the fourth round play in the Newport Casino tennis tournament, and three of the star-spangled racquet wielders were strong enough to uphold the Nation's prestige.

The first foreign star to fall was Henry W. ("Bunny") Austin, England's premier player. He engaged Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., for the fourth time and suffered his third setback. The Jerseyite registered a straight set victory, 6—4, 6—1, 6—2, but the margin was much closer than those scores indicate.

Ellsworth Vines, the national champion and defending titlist, played his usual languid game against the smooth-stroking Takeo Kuwabara, of Japan. The latter outplayed the lanky standard bearer by a wide margin in the opener, but when Vines began to feel the Oriental's pressure he uncorked a barrage of his terrific forehanders and piled up enough placements for an 8—10, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3 victory.

Wilmer Allison, No. 2 singles player in the recent Davis Cup final with France, got off to a slow start against Ted Avory, of England, but finished strong and swept his international opposition off the courts, 5—7, 6—2, 6—2, 6—2.

Navy Elects Wendt 1933 Rowing Captain

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 17.—Letter men of the Naval Academy rowing squad have elected Waldo F. A. Wendt, of Wisconsin, captain of the crew for the 1933 season, it was announced today by officials of the Navy Athletic Association. R. R. Derickson, of Seattle, Wash., was chosen manager.

Wendt took to the sweeps from the time of his entrance at the academy three years ago. He rowed on the plebe eight. He developed rapidly and the following year pulled an oar in the junior varsity boat. During the late season, he rowed regularly on the varsity.

Cubs Setback Braves in 19th, 3-2

Errorless Thriller Is Decided by Rookie's Long Fly Ball.

Tinning, Young Hurler, Shares Honors; Cubs Add Lead.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Chicago's Cubs, led by a pair of rookies, defeated the Boston Braves in an errorless 19-inning story-book thriller at Wrigley Field today, 3 to 2, and boosted their lead in the National League pennant race to two full games over Pittsburgh.

Demaree, youthful outfield recruit, provided the finishing touch in the long game by sailing a long fly to Berger with the bases loaded and one out to score Herman easily with the winning run. The game was the longest of the National League season and one of the longest in Wrigley Field's history.

Bud Tinning, rookie Cub right-hander, shared the honors with Demaree, relieving Burleigh Grimes in the sixth inning and holding the Braves without a run until he was relieved by Guy Bush for a pinch-hitter in the eighteenth. Frankhouse also pitched superbly from the seventh inning but was yanked when the Cubs loaded the bases.

In the final blow-up, Herman started the inning with a single, English was hit by a pitched ball and both advanced on Cuyler's perfect sacrifice. Stephenson was purposely passed and Pruett relieved Frankhouse. Demaree then polished off the game with a long drive to Berger.

WOOD-DON RACE SEPT. 3.

Hamilton, Ontario, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—At the request of Gar Wood, Detroit speedboat racer and American defender of the Harmsworth Trophy, the first heat of the international race on Lake St. Clair has been postponed one day to Saturday, September 3.

Kaye Don, in New York, agreed to the postponement.

Garden Matches Leonard And McLarnin October 3

Benny, at 36, to Face Most Important of Comeback Bouts.

By JACK CUDDY.

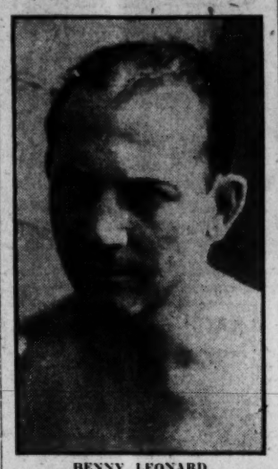
NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (U.P.).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, who is staging one of the ring's most remarkable comebacks, was matched today for a ten-round bout with Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver welterweight, at Madison Square Garden's new bowl on October 3.

The semibald Leonard, who at the age of 36 was forced back into the ring by unfortunate investments after seven years in retirement, has fought and won 21 bouts during his comeback campaign.

Some of these bouts were against fair opponents, such as Billy Townsend and Paulie Walker, but he has met no one in McLarnin's class.

Agreement was reached as to details of the match today, and Pop Foster, McLarnin's manager, and Benny's brother, Willie Leonard, will sign formally in a day or so.

Leonard wanted the match sooner, but McLarnin wouldn't agree to a near date because he wants plenty of time for a cut on his head to heal. He suffered the cut during his recent bout with Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, Mass., to whom he lost the decision.



BENNY LEONARD.

"I'll take McLarnin like the market took me," Benny said today on the telephone from Dr. Bier's training 34th Homer for Ruth as Tigers Are Defeated, 8 to 3.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees ran a winning streak to ten straight today, their best consecutive spurt of the season, as the Detroit Tigers bowed to George Pipgras' pitching and the clouting of Babe Ruth, 8 to 3.

Pipgras, off to a bad start, allowed the Tigers three runs in the first four innings before he settled down to win his fourteenth victory of the year in easy fashion. Only Bill Rogell, of all the Tigers, failed to respond to Pipgras' taming but his one-man fight was not enough.

Watt Hurls and Hits Police Nine to 2-0 Win

Special to The Washington Post.

Occoquan, Va., Aug. 17.—Frank Watt, former major league pitcher with the Philadelphia Nationals, pitched and batted the Washington Police Department nine to a 2-0 victory over the Occoquan All-Stars in a game here today.

WOMEN'S NET PLAY TRUE TO FORM

Mary Greef Provides Only Mild Surprise at Forest Hills.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug 17 (A P).—Women's tennis tournaments are noted for running true to form and the National proved no exception today as eight tried and true stars progressed to the quarter-finals at West Side Tennis Club.

In all except one instance, those whom the tournament fathers had figured would win, breezed right on through the third round, with the favored Helen Jacobs doing nothing to impair the belief that she will carry off the crown defaulted by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody.

Mary Greef, the blonde, hard hitter from Kansas City, provided the only thing resembling an upset in eliminating Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Calif., by scores of 6—1, 6—4. Miss Greef was unseeded for the tournament, while the California girl was placed at No. 4, but it was all very strange, inasmuch as Miss Greef enjoys a No. 5 international ranking and Cruickshank is no higher than No. 12.

Mrs. Jacobs Wins In Two Sets.

Mrs. Jacobs disposed of Mrs. Frederick McBride, of New York, 6—3, 6—3, and Mrs. Lawrence Harper, second to the Berkeley girl, on the seeded list, won from Mae Ceurvorst, a left-hander from Wichita, Kans., 7—5, 6—2.

Tomorrow's pairings pit Jacobs against Van Ryn, Greef against Pittman, Harper against Babcock and Painter against Ridley, with the Pittman-Greef encounter promising to supply the fireworks.

The Marchioness Wins $54,000 Trot

Extra Heat Necessary; Invader Is Second in Classic.

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The Marchioness, the favorite, came from behind with a closing burst of speed to win the seventh running of the $54,000 Hambletonian, historic harness racing event, over the Goshen mile track today to the cheers of a crowd of 25,000.

Forced into an extra heat, when Invader, an outsider, outstepped the field of seven classy 3-year-old trotters in the third heat, Will Caton, who once drove the harness racers of the Czar of Russia, brought the Marchioness through the stretch with a brilliant bit of driving to win the fourth mile in a thrilling duel with Invader and Hollyrood Dennis, the second choice and victor in the second heat. The Marchioness won the first heat.

Backers of the Marchioness, which sported the silks of Mrs. Ralph Keeler, of Auburn, N. Y., received an equivalent of 5 to 4 in the auction pools, while the owner and trainer-driver split the purse of $29,742.48. Second money went to Invader, a representative of the Copake Falls, N. Y., stable of Fred Holsapple, and A. C. Garner, with Hollyrood Dennis, owned by John L. Dodge, of Lexington, Ky., taking down third portion of harness racing's biggest purse.

Schmeling Sparring Mate Golf Qualifier

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 17 (A.P.).—One of Max Schmeling's sparring partners in his training for the Sharkey fight last June will represent the Southeast in the national amateur golf tournament at Baltimore next month.

Ralph Redmon, of St. Petersburg, who won last position in the qualifying test at Eastlake course here yesterday, was a sparring partner for the former champion.

He took on the Schmeling job for the fun of it and the experience. This is his first shot at the amateur event.

TOP FLIGHT RETURNS TO RACES TO WIN $12,225 STAKE

Whitney Filly 4-Length Victor

Increases Earnings to $273,125 With Earl Sande Up.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Top Flight, C. V. Whitney's renowned filly, attracted a large crowd here this afternoon to see the daughter of Dis Donc—Flyatit return to competition following a layoff since her dismal showing in the Arlington classic. Three other fillies opposed the Whitney star in the fifty-second running of the Alabama Stakes over the one and one-fourth mile route, but they were no match for Top Flight, Sonny Workman guiding the 2-to-5 favorite home by four lengths, looking back through the final sixteenth.

Second money went to the Greentree Stable's Parry, which was in receipt of 10 pounds. Laughing Queen, from the W. R. Coe establishment, took the show, another eight lengths behind. W. S. Kilmer's Dark Charmer was a beaten off last.

Top Flight's victory was worth $12,225, and increased her total winnings to $273,125.

A definite line on how good Top Flight is right now is hardly available on the strength of today's result, as the filly was not asked to give her best and her time, 2:05 2-5, was anything but fast.

Mt. Vernon Annexes Church League Series

Although outhit, Mount Vernon M. E. defeated Eldbrooke M. E., 7 to 4, yesterday to win the second-half laurels in the Georgetown Church League. Eldbrooke had previously won the first half and needed only a victory yesterday to gain the championship. The two will now play a three-game series for the title. The first game will be played next week.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Crowned Head, $10.60, was the winner Asbestos hit yesterday. This followed Santa Crest, $12.40, the day before. Isn't he the comeback kid? Too bad he only bet $1. The bank roll went up $4.30 and is $42.41.

Today's bet: $1 each Old Depot, Hawthorne, and Alma, at Thistledown.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 17.

We finally got old Charleigh home and at a price. You seem to be slipping. I warned you about Capt. Ed and Pancho Lopez. I had them away winging and way in front as promised, but they were nabbed at the finish, both landing in the second hole. You know you were to root them home.

The card tomorrow has a bit more class and the winners more easy to locate, still they all look good the night before and no doubt there is many a headache packed in tomorrow's card. Here's hoping that you don't need a "bromo." Good luck.

BILL.

SECOND RACE—Here's one that's the limit. Looks now like it might be a good idea to shoot at the "field." MODERN TIMES, if he gets to start, may win. SUBTLETY and HATTERAS are as good as any.

THIRD RACE—If VISHNU can make LITTLE AMERICA stop, the race is over. The first half will be at a killing pace. JOURNEY'S END should show.

FOURTH RACE—BALLAGRAN and MISS MELODY should finish in the order named, with SPARTAN LADY for show end.

FIFTH RACE—Going to string once more with CATHOP. It's close for place between FRENCH DUCHESS and REHOBOTH.

SIXTH RACE—OLD DEPOT, VOX POP and UNENCUMBERED are the contenders and may finish in the order named.

SEVENTH RACE—My special, ANITA ORMONT, goes here and with a good break should gather the grapes. KNEE HIGH for place and LUCKY CARTER may beat the favorite, PIGEON HOLE, for show money.

EIGHTH RACE—Here comes old SUITOR again and he should beat this bunch of hounds. CHUM and ORMONTIME may finish close up.

Stocks Advance Is Halted Again by Moderate Losses

Profit Taking Is Blamed for 1.3 Points Decline in Lighter Turnover.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The stock market again balked at bullish stimulation today, and closed with moderate net losses, although substantially above the day's lowest prices.

Dividend news was largely favorable, but lacking an element of surprise. American Telephone ordered the regular quarterly of $2.25, and while a brief buying flurry followed, the action eventually caused more profit taking than fresh buying, inasmuch as it had been widely expected. American Sugar ordered the regular quarterly of 50 cents, and Electric Bond & Share ordered the regular 1½ per cent common stock dividend, and the regular preferred payments.

Stocks pushed up about 1 to 3 points in an abortive bullish effort, but then tumbled to show many losses of about 2 to 4 in the afternoon, only to regain at least half of the decline in the last hour. The net loss, as measured by the price average of 90 representative issues, was 1.3 points, against yesterday's advance of 1.9. Trading veered between periods of dullness and considerable activity, but the turnover of 2,876,570 shares was considerably under yesterday's.

American Telephone fluctuated between a high of 115 and a low of 108¼. It closed at 110¼, off 3¾ net. Case dropped to 48, then closed at 52, off 4 net. Auburn fluctuated over a 10-point range, closing off 4.

Some of the motion picture stocks closed higher. Bulls turned to this group on the theory that the season of increasing theater attendance was approaching and that the companies have effected drastic economies. Loew's rose more than 3 points and closed up 2½ net. Paramount finished up about a point.

The afternoon flurry of selling was so sharp as to raise some uncertainty as to its source, although brokers were mostly inclined to regard the setback as merely another flurry of profit taking, in view of the violence of the recent advance and the large volume of buying. Foreign buying was said to have dwindled and some profit taking from abroad appeared.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading was quiet and prices irregular on the stock exchange. British funds sagged on realizing and some transatlantic issues were lower despite favorable overnight Wall street news. German issues were weaker and the market closed irregular.

Paris—Unaffected by New York's overnight rise, prices opened steady on the bourse. Realizing later checked most small gains. French rentes gained small fractions and international issues were steady. The closing was barely steady.

Berlin—Trading continued firm on the bourse, although the closing was easier and prices were above opening quotations.

BOND RISE PERSISTS AT HALF-POINT RATE

Profit-Taking Raids Defied in $12,693,000 Turnover; Rails Popular.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The bond market hesitated for a while today, under a barrage of profit taking, but managed to end the session on fairly firm ground.

There were a few soft spots among the domestic categories and the majority of the more active loans were unable to retain their best gains. The list, as a whole, however, showed considerable resistance to realizing.

Trading slowed down somewhat, sales totaling $12,693,000, par value. The average for 60 selected corporate bonds advanced one-half point.

The speculative rails again attracted the largest following. Gains of one or more points were held by some issues of Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Central Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago & North Western and Rock Island.

International Telephone loans exhibited strength, as did those of Postal and Western Union.

Amusement company bonds led the industrials, advances of 1 to around 3 points being registered by issues of Loews, Paramount and Warner Bros. The oils were steady.

Foreign obligations were quiet. The Argentines were up from 1 to 2 points and the Australians and Polish improved. The Germans eased and the Japanese were irregular.

Ready readers await the offers in Post Classified Ads, the first thing in the morning.

Billion in Gold Being Hauled Through New York Streets

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Millions of dollars in gold moved placidly through the streets of New York today and, although carried in armored cars and otherwise heavily guarded, no crowds collected.

The stock of precious metal, valued at somewhere around $1,000,000,000, is being transferred by the Government from the old assay office in Wall street to the new offices at South street and Old Slip.

The removal contract, which is being carried out by the Armored Service Corporation of Brooklyn, specifies that the gold must be moved within 20 days.

Commodity Exchanges Advance Seat Prices

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Seats on the various commodity exchanges are rising in response to the broader trading interest and advancing trend in the leading raw materials markets.

A seat on the New York Cotton Exchange sold today at $17,500, an advance of $3,500 over the previous sale. This is the highest level for cotton exchange seats for some time, and the sharpest advance this year.

CURB PRICES SLUMP UNDER PROFIT SALES

Trading Volume Remained High at 420,000 Shares; Utilities React.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Although trading volume continued relatively heavy — 420,000 shares against 450,000 yesterday—stocks on the curb ran into profit-taking today and the list closed irregularly lower.

The utility stocks, after early bulges which were fairly general, reacted rather sharply, although some leaders in this group succeeded in closing the day with net gains.

The common stock of Elcetric Bond & Share Co., on which the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent in stock was ordered, closed at 21⅝, off 2¼ points. American Gas & Electric was off 2 points.

The recent advance in general price levels brought some additional buying into the investment trust issues.

Gulf Oil broke 2½ points, but other oils were steady. Standard of Indiana gained a small fraction and International Petroleum lost ⅛.

$1,500,000 Gold Cargo Received From England

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—One of the largest imports of gold from England since Britain left the gold standard was received today in the form of $1,500,000 worth of gold bars, which arrived on the liner Majestic.

Of the total amount, $1,000,000 was consigned to the International Acceptance Bank, acting as agent for the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Gold transactions, as reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank today, brought a net increase in American monetary stocks of $5,426,100.

There was an export of $6,007,300 to France, but this was more than compensated for by a release of a little more than $9,000,000 of metal which had been held under earmark for foreign account. Imports totaled $1,683,400, all of which came from England save $80,600 from Mexico and $36,600 from Colombia. There was an additional release from earmark of $767,100 yesterday which appeared too late for yesterday's report.

A., T. & T. ANNOUNCES REGULAR DIVIDEND

Electric Bond & Share and American Sugar to Pay Usual Rates.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. dividend record was kept inviolate today when directors declared the regular quarterly payment of $2.25 a share.

The Electric Bond & Share Co. today declared the regular quarterly dividends on the preferred and common stocks, $1.25 on the 5 per cent preferred, $1.50 on the 6 per cent preferred and 1½ per cent in stock on the common. The preferred dividends are payable November 1 to stock of record October 5. The common dividend is payable October 15, to stock of record September 6.

The Reading Co., for the six months ended June 30, had net income of $938,102, equal after dividend requirement on the 4 per cent first preferred stock, to 45 cents a share on the second preferred stock. This compares with $365,481, or 65 cents a share, on the first preferred stock in the first half of 1931.

Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., reports for the six months ended June 30 net loss of $117,600 compared with net income of $580,179 in the first half of 1931.

Directors of the American Sugar Refining Co. today ordered the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable October 3 to stock of record September 5. Declaration of the regular payment had been expected in Wall street in view of the recent upturn in sugar prices.

$21,000,000 Razor Suit Is Settled in Boston

Boston, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—A decree providing settlement in the $21,000,000 suit of minority stockholders against certain former directors of the Gillette Safety Razor Co. was entered in the supreme court today by Judge Henry T. Lummus.

The settlement contemplates payment by the defendants of $400,000 in cash, delivery to the company of notes of two defendants of $62,500 each, payable in two years from date, release or waiver by the defendant, Frank J. Fahey, of all claims to recover $53,318 paid back by him, without prejudice, on account of bonuses and assignment and release of Ralph K. Thompson of any claims he may have in respect to patents.

BUILDING IN CAPITAL TAKES NINTH PLACE

Position in 25-City Survey Is Recession From June and Last Year.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Washington was ninth among 25 cities reporting the largest volume of building permits in July, the national monthly building survey prepared by S. W. Straus & Co. reveals. The total valuation of local private building, $548,570, however, fell behind that of June when it was $1,403,340. It also is a decline from that of July, 1931, $2,303,115, and that of July, 1930, $2,356,570.

New York, as usual, headed the list with a permit total valuation of $4,226,259. Other cities ahead of Washington on the list were Boston, Milwaukee, Buffalo, Baltimore, Des Moines, Los Angeles and New Haven. Yonkers, N. Y., was last on the list with a total permit valuation of $208,375. The District of Columbia did not have a place among the 12 leading States for July.

The permit statistics assembled from among 589 cities and towns in the United States show a total valuation for the month of $52,506,956. This figure represents a 14.2 per cent decrease from June, 1932, when the volume for these cities was $37,901,513, as compared with a normal seasonal expected decline of 13.1 per cent. Permits issued during July, 1932, fell 72.3 per cent below those issued in July, 1931.

The 25 cities of the group reporting the largest volume of permits for last month present a total valuation in permits of $19,148,668. This was a 16.5 per cent gain over June, 1932, but a recession of 69.3 per cent from July, 1931, and one of 80.8 per cent from July, 1930. New York headed the list of 12 leading States, as is customary, and Illinois was at the end. Six of the 25 leading cities made individual gains over July last year. These were Milwaukee, Buffalo, Des Moines, Louisville, Union City, N. J. and Salem, Mass. Five cities registered advances over July, 1930: Des Moines, New Haven, Louisville, Union City and Salem.

COTTON VALUES SAG UNDER LIQUIDATIONS

Southern Selling Also Adds to Price Drop; December Closes at 7.45.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Cotton was generally lower today under liquidation, combined with local and Southern selling promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, weakness in the stock market and a rather better weekly weather report than expected.

Trade buying continued, however, while the declines seemed to bring in covering or fresh commission house buying, and after selling off to 7.45 for December, or 25 points net lower, there were recoveries of 12 or 13 points in the late trading. December closed at 7.58, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 11 to 14 points.

Active months sold back to within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotation, but offerings increased after the publication of the report, which evidently read less unfavorably for the crop than anticipated by early buyers. A few stop orders were uncovered on the break, which extended to 7.28 for October and 7.67 for January, or about 24 to 25 points net lower during the early afternoon.

Liverpool cables reported local and continental liquidation on the unfavorable Lancashire labor situation, but said there was an improved demand for cotton cloth from Africa and South America. Exports today were 34,044 bales, making 238,103 bales so far this season.

Copper Demand More Active.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Demand for copper in the export market is more active with the price firm at 5.45 cents a pound, according to reports in trade circles. The domestic price is unchanged for the first quarter of 1933 shipment.

WHEAT AND OATS DIP ON IMPORTS DECLINE

Grain Needs in Europe Put at 705,000,000 Bushels; 64,000,000 Less.

Chicago, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—Tottering under a load of stop-loss selling, wheat values reeled downward today to depths untouched of late, and oats outdid long-time bottom records.

A big decrease of 64,000,000 bushels in estimates of world import requirements of wheat, as compared with last year, had an unsettling effect, and so, too, did new York stock market setbacks. Forecasts of North America's 1932 wheat exportable surplus went beyond figures on the world's probable takings.

Wheat closed nervous, at a fractional upturn from the day's low, but ¼ to ⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, unchanged to ¾ down; oats, ¾ to ⅞ off, and provisions showing 5 to 10 cents decline.

Suggested world import needs of 705,000,000 bushels for the 1932-33 season were the smallest in eight years with one exception.

Domestic wheat receipts in the Northwest were liberal, 650 cars against 257 a year ago, and Canadian reports told of rapid progrees of harvesting.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat. Provisions gave way under the influence of grains and stocks.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT HIT BY AUTO CURTAIL

14 Per Cent Capacity Still Unchanged; Pick-Up in Pig Iron Demand.

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—While encouraging signs of prospective business improvement are not lacking, steel ingot production has not been above 14 per cent of the country's capacity, Iron Age said today. This is unchanged from last week's rate.

"The slowing down in the automotive industry, including the Ford suspensions," the review continued, "has come at a time when expected seasonal expansion in requirements in other consuming lines has scarcely begun to assert itself. However, at Chicago the steel orders from miscellaneous sources have taken up the slack caused by smaller releases from the automobile industry.

"On the brighter side can be recorded a noticeable gain in demand for pig iron, including a number of inquiries of fairly good size for fourth-quarter delivery, continuing strength in scrap markets, the resumption of steel buying on a small scale by many manufacturers whose plants have been wholly or partially shut down during recent weeks, and seasonal orders and inquiries from consumers whose business normally expands in the fall, such as stove and furnace makers.

"Although application of the Pennsylvania Railroad for a loan to build 1,500 steel box cars in its own shops is the only concrete development in the proposed railroad development program, negotiations by some other roads are expected shortly."

Boston & Maine Allowed Loan.
(Associated Press.)

The Boston & Maine Railroad was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday to borrow $10,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation to repay $2,563,000 of bank loans, $5,391,000 of bonds maturing January 1 and February 1, and equipment trust certificates and current vouchers.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The volume of bankers' acceptances outstanding declined $42,601,770 in July to $704,646,592, the American Acceptance Council reported today. Retirement of a large volume of matured acceptance credits and delayed demand for new season financing were responsible for the decrease. Acceptances outstanding on July 31, 1931, totaled $1,228,202,179.

There will be no meeting of the International Harvester board this week for action on the common dividend owing to the impossibility of obtaining a quorum, it was announced to succeeding date for the meeting has been set.

Wall street hears that the Endicott Johnson Corporation will do considerably better in the second half of the year than in the first half when a small loss was shown after inventory adjustments. The last six months are normally the most profitable for the company.

The auction of Insull Utilities Investment & Corporation Securities Co. collateral, which is held by New York banks has again been postponed, this time to August 19.

Ross Beason, chairman of Administrative & Research Corporation, has been elected its president, it was announced today. He succeeds John Y. Robbins, who had been president since 1930. Administrative & Research Corporation acts as sponsors of corporate trust shares. Beason, it was said, will fill both the presidency and the chairmanship of the organization.

Power Output of Week Shows Slight Decline

New York, Aug. 17 (A.P.).—The National Electric Light Association today announced a slight reduction in the Nation's power production for the week ended August 13, but this was apparently of seasonal scope.

The aggregate production was placed at 1,415,122,000 kilowatt hours against 1,426,986,000 the week before. In 1931 and in 1930 there were similar decreases, but in 1929 there was a slight gain for the same period.

THE Orioles and Hawks assumed joint leadership of the insect division of the Capital City League yesterday by winning over the respective opponents yesterday. The Orioles shut out the Dominicans, 7-0, while the Hawks were pressed to the limit to eke out a 9-8 decision over the Ben Hundleys, first half champions.

Johnny Dougherty almost pitched a no-hit game against the Dominicans, setting down his opponents with a lone single. He captained his team's attack, banging out three hits in as many trips to the plate. Coakley also connected for a trio of bingles.

Krafte's homer featured an eighth-inning Ben Hundley rally that produced five runs, but proved insufficient to overtake the Hawks, who amassed an early lead. Anderson, with four hits, and McDonough, with three, were outstanding in the winner's attack.

Buchholz to Reward Marine Ring Champs

Fred Buchholz, local innkeeper and sportsman, has presented eight gold medals to Lieut. Col. Joseph J. Staley, commander of the Sixth Marine Reserve Brigade, to be given to the eight boxing champions decided during the Leatherneck's encampment at Virginia Beach, August 21 to September 6.

The Marines plan an active boxing season at the beach resort this season. Danny Pyne, Third Corps Area middleweight champion, heads the boxing fraternity.

The brigade is coached by Joe Lesser, former amateur knockout specialist. Lesser is also flyweight champion. Walter McFeeley, veteran local glove thrower, is lightheavyweight champion.

U. S. AND FOREIGN TRACK STARS MEET

Keep himself near top form over a longer period.

The eight Olympic men's champions entered are Luigi Beccali, Italy, 1,500-meters; Lauri Lehtinen, Finland, 5,000 meters; Jan Kusocinski, Poland, 10,000 meters; Volmari Iso-Hollo, Finland, 3,000 meters steeplechase; Elo Sexton, U. S. A., shot put; Bill Miller, U. S. A., shot put; Ed Gordon, U. S. A., broad jump, and Jim Bausch, U. S. A., decathalon, who will compete in the shot put and pole vault. The two women's champions are Babe Didrikson, U. S. A., 80-meter hurdles and javelin, and Stella Walsh, Poland, 100 meters.

The feature promises to be a run-off between Lauri Lehtinen, Finland, and Ralph Hill, lanky Oregon boy, in the 5,000 meters. Lehtinen won the Olympic title but twice jig-jagged in front of Hill as the American tried to pass him in the home stretch. They were both timed in 14 minutes 30 seconds, a new Olympic record.

The 3,000-meter steeplechase is another event which will settle an Olympic dispute. Volmari Iso-Hollo, Finland, won the event in 9:15.6, running an extra lap when the lap checkers made a mistake. Joe McCluskey, U. S. A., would have been a close second at the end of 3,000 meters, but he weakened in the extra lap and finished third.

Departmental Honors Are Won by Unionists

Harvey Robinson's single in the eleventh inning broke up the ball game between Federal Unionists and Agriculture yesterday, with the Unionists gaining an 8-7 victory over their rivals and with it the honors in the north section of the Departmental League.

Robinson's hit followed successive singles by Kiesel, pinch-hitting for Gamble, and Harris. The latter pitched for the victors, and after Bertolini's home-run in the sixth inning held his opponents hitless.

In the south section of the loop Investigation's bid for the title was again denied as Lem Owen's fighting Treasury team held the sleuths to a 4-4, 10-inning tie.

SIX PLANES TESTED PRIOR TO AIR DERBY

Speed Flights Made to Set Handicaps for Race to Start Sunday.

Six privately owned airplanes roared over the Navy's speed course on the Potomac River off Hains Point yesterday in flight tests conducted to set handicaps for the start of the Atlantic wing of the Transcontinental Sweepstake Air Derby for the Cord Trophy taking off from Washington-Hoover Airport next Sunday.

A 7-year-old Travel-Air owned by Joseph A. Field, of Bradford, Pa., was the first ship tested. A large crowd had gathered at advantageous points on the shore as Field raced his plane, fifth place winner in the 1927 New York to Spokane Air Derby, over the course at an altitude of only 75 feet while a bracket of stop watches and an electrical timing device registered his speed.

Later William Payne, local flying instructor and test pilot, and Lieut. Stanley Umstead, Bolling Field pilot, each flew the ship over the course. The mean average of the three flights was taken and the ship's speed rating, on which the handicap will be based, was determined.

To Arrange Handicaps.

After the speed of all the ships has been recorded the handicapping system will be worked out. It provides that under ideal conditions and perfect piloting all the planes would reach their destination at the same time. Thus the small and lower powered planes have as good a chance to win one of the grand awards as have the trim racers.

Other planes tested yesterday included a Stinson owned by R. H. Moore, of Dayton, Ohio; a Pitcairn flown by W. F. Cummings, of Donaldsonville, Ga.; a Waco belonging to S. C. Huffman, of Cincinnati, Ohio; a Cessna, flown by J. V. Hays, of Ponca City, Okla., and a Waco owned by Lee Gehlbach, of Mount Clemens, Mich.

Chief Judge John S. Wynne, manager of Washington-Hoover Airport, was in charge of the timing trials. J. D. Peterson and an assistant from the Bureau of Standards operated the electrical timing device which tested the planes on one part of the speed course.

Derby Officials Watch.

Accompanying Mr. Wynne were several of the derby officials, including Tom Potts, Jack Parker, Robert Cottrell and Whitney Leary.

The new entrants put in their appearance yesterday, bringing the total now to 24. G. H. Coffin, of Brooklyn, flying a Waco, and P. A. Sturtevant, of Elmhurst, Ill., piloting a General Aristocrat, came in during the day. Neither pilot flew in the speed tests. Both spent the remainder of the day checking their planes and preparing them for the race.

A technical committee, headed by Lieut. Comdr. Ralph S. Barnaby, U. S. N., and composed of Ken Boedecker, Jack Lenkard and R. T. Wickford, make a thorough examination of each of the planes before the tests are flown.

CHILD, 10, BELIEVED KIDNAPED, IS FOUND

Attorney Near Here Says Boy Left New England Home to Visit Farm.

John Hall, 10, who was believed kidnaped from his home in Lawrence, Mass., was found in Prince Georges County, Md., last night. His whereabouts was revealed by Attorney Robert W. McCullough, of Cheverly, Md., acting on behalf of Atherton Southworth, with whom the boy left home. Southworth, until recently an attorney at the Bureau of Internal Revenue, denied kidnaping the boy and said the boy had told him his mother concurred in his wish to visit the Southworth farm, near District Heights, Md.

According to Attorney McCullough, a sister of Southworth visited him at his home Tuesday night and saw the boy and learned of the circumstances connected with his visit. When she read of the alleged kidnaping in The Post yesterday, the sister became alarmed and appealed to the attorney to straighten out the affair. Mr. McCullough telephoned to Capt. Michael Barry, of the Lawrence police and told him the circumstances and offered to produce the boy at once if the kidnaping warrant were withdrawn.

Deputy Sheriff L. E. Dutrow, of Prince Georges County, took the boy from the Southworth home, later turning him over to the custody of Mr. McCullough. No action will be taken against Southworth, police said.

Southworth told the attorney he met the boy in Lawrence while taking his wife to Maine for a vacation and that the boy had told him he would like to visit his Maryland farm. He gave the boy some money and told him he would stop for him on his way back, he said. When he returned to Lawrence, the boy told him his mother had consented to his visiting the Maryland farm, Southworth said.

The attorney said Southworth had suffered a heavy mental strain from overwork while with the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Members of the boy's family are expected to come here today to get the boy.

Alexandria Boy Killed In Tumble From Truck

Falling from a huckster truck, James Cook, 15-year-old colored youth, of 326 North Payne street, Alexandria, was killed yesterday. His neck was broken and he suffered a fractured skull.

The youth was working on the truck with James Scott, colored, of 218 North Henry street. He was climbing on the truck after making a delivery of some fruit at the 300 block of Mt. Ida avenue and fell to the pavement when his foot slipped. Scott took him to Alexandria Hospital, but he died before arrival here.

"Old Ironsides" to Mark Anniversary Tomorrow

The 120th anniversary of the historic conflict between the United States frigate Constitution and the British warship Guerriere will be celebrated here Friday with a colorful unfurling of flags on board "Old Ironsides."

Shortly after 5 o'clock the ship's banners will be raised just as they were in 1812 when she answered the challenging gunfire of the Guerriere off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland.

Woman, Hurt in Crash, Is Treated at Hospital

Mrs. Rosamond Krah, 35 years old, of 1701 Sixteenth street northwest, suffered injuries to her back yesterday afternoon when the automobile she was driving was in collision with another car at Constitution avenue and Seventeenth street northwest.

The driver of the other car, Burgin Hummer, of 349 Tenth street southeast, escaped injury. Mrs. Krah was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment.

Cigarette Is Blamed In Apartment's Fire

A blaze, which firemen said apparently started from a cigarette which landed on a davenport, badly damaged the apartment of Lieut. R. H. Hill, U. S. N., early yesterday.

Neighbors in the apartment building at 1808 I street northwest, noticed smoke coming from the apartment about 5 o'clock in the morning and turned in an alarm. The apartment was unoccupied at the time the fire was discovered.

PHONE FIRM OFFERS ITS VALUATION DATA

Public Utilities Commission Exhibits Are Attacked in New Tabulation.

The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday afternoon began justifying its own valuation figures and at the same time attacking Public Utilities Commission exhibits by introducting a tabulation of the appraisal of its land as made by the appraisal committee of the Washington Real Estate Board.

Harold C. Doyle, a member of the committee, testified that the total value of land owned by the telephone company is $1,243,056, as of August 12, 1932. This figure is $386,360 in excess of the company's book cost of $856,696 used by the commission as the value in establishing reproduction cost.

Although severely cross-examined by William A. Roberts, special counsel of the commission, Mr. Doyle stuck to his figures and insisted they reflected "fair values" and were frequently under actual sale prices. The cross-examination, however, was just getting under way when the hearing adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

Oddly enough, the real estate committee's appraisals were $315,606 under appraisals exhibts submitted by the commission earlier in the hearing as estimated based on appraisals of the real estate board in 1924 plus purchases since that time.

Later the telephone company intends to introduce exhibits as to actual depreciation of its buildings and equipment and to attack contentions of the commission that its reserve funds for this purpose are excessive.

Postal Substitute Work Is Explained

Seniority Basis Temporarily abandoned, Chairman Meade Informed.

Substitute work for clerks and carriers in the Postoffice Department is being distributed among all substitutes rather than on a seniority basis, the department yesterday informed Chairman Meade, of the House postoffice committee.

Where work can not be divided so as to help the service, preference is given the senior employes, it was added.

The situation regarding clerks in second-class offices, which on July 1 were relegated to third-class offices, also was pointed out to Mr. Meade. The department informed him that in as many cases as possible, where employes were thrown out of work due to the change, transfers were made to other offices.

J. FRED RICE GIVES LAW SCHOLARSHIP

Presentation to Columbus U. Made at K. of C. Supreme Council Session.

Presentation of a perpetual three-year scholarship in the school of law of Columbus University to men and women living outside of Washington was a feature of the closing session yesterday of the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus.

The scholarship was presented by J. Fred Rice, State deputy of the district of Washington, on behalf of the national board of directors. The scholarship will entitle one man and one woman to a three-year law course every three years.

Mr. Rice also offered a resolution seeking formal approval and support of the national body for erection in Washington of a new Knights of Columbus clubhouse, to replace the present quarters at 918 Tenth street northwest. The proposal is expected to be discussed by the national board of directors at its meeting in November or December.

Veto was given a proposal to make a survey looking to establishment of a tuberculosis sanitarium in Arizona for members of the Knights of Columbus, this being done on the ground that the present economic situation would not permit such an expenditure.

A proposal to hold the supreme convention biennially instead of once a year was rejected.

The biennial meeting of the vice supreme council which began yesterday afternoon will continue this morning. Fourth degree knights were entertained at a dinner at the Mayflower last night by Arthur B. J. Williamson, master of the fourth degree assembly, District of Washington, and the officers of the Washington assembly.

Thropp, Capital Banker, Changes Name to Scott

Permission to change his name to Thomas A. Scott has been granted to Thomas A. Scott Thropp, a director of the Dupont Circle Bank, now a branch of the Riggs National Bank, and grandson of a former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Mr. Thropp petitioned the District Supreme Court to change his name following differences with his brother, Douglas S. Thropp, of New York, during litigation over the will of their mother, Mrs. Miriam D. Scott Thropp.

The Thropp family is of a distinguished line. Thomas A. Scott, the grandfather after whom Mr. Thropp was named, was not only president of the Pennsylvania Railroad during his lifetime, but was Assistant Secretary of War during the Lincoln administration.

SHINAULT INQUEST RESET FOR MONDAY

More Time Is Allowed for Getting Evidence; Arrest Believed Near.

An inquest into the death of Policeman George W. Shinault, which was scheduled for today, was postponed until 11:30 a. m. Monday, to allow members of the Police Department sufficient time to collect evidence and notify witnesses.

The concentrated efforts by police of nearby States and the District to arrest William Bullock, colored, in the slaying of Shinault, will soon bring results, it was predicted yesterday by Detective Sergt. H. K. Wilson, head of the homicide squad.

Shinault was shot when he entered a house at 39 F street northwest to quell a reported fight. Funeral services for the policeman were held in Richmond, where burial took place. Services also were held at his residence, 1350 Franklin street northeast, Tuesday.

Marine Band Plays Tomorrow Night

Solos Will Be Featured at Sylvan Theater Festival.

A leading event of "band concert week" will be the summer festival concert tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Sylvan Theater under the auspices of the greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade.

This concert will be given by the United States Marine Band and will feature instrumental solos by Second Leader Arthur S. Witcomb, and Musicians Kenneth Douse and Wilbur D. Kieffer.

The guest soloist will be Mrs. Anne Yago McGuffey. The program will be under the direction of the Community Center Department and the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

Judge Given Cursed By Court Spectator

John Ward, who yesterday staggered from his seat among Police Court spectators to curse Judge Ralph Given, today will be charged with contempt of court, drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Ward was locked up at the First precinct; when Judge Given decided he was in no condition for immediate trial. A court attache who took him in custody said he was "very drunk." Ward is the second Police Court spectator to face contempt charges for drunkenness in the last three days.

County Judge Orders Cemetery Bill Dismissed

Fulton R. Gordon, Washington real estate dealer, having failed to file within an authorized time limit an amendment to his bill asking that the Montgomery County commissioners be enjoined from interfering with his establishment of a cemetery on a tract of land at Bradley boulevard and River road, near the Congressional Country Club, Judge Robert B. Peter has ordered dismissal of the action.

Woman Victim of Purse Snatcher.

Emma B. Johnson, 2310 Ashmead place northwest, yesterday reported to police that a colored man snatched her purse containing $5 while she was in the 1800 block of Mintwood place and escaped in a nearby automobile.

Blind Group Denounces Fraud of Rug Salesmen

Denouncing canvassers who sold rugs which they represented as products of the local association for the blind, but which were actually produced elsewhere on a large commercial scale, the National Better Business Bureau and organizations for the blind yesterday appealed to the public to verify the claims of venders.

In order to prevent misrepresentation of merchandise, the buyers were urged to send information regarding the salesmen to the New York office of the National Better Business Bureau.

Five Branch Libraries Will Close to Sept. 10

In compling with the economy act the Public Library is forced to close its five subbranches from August 22 through September 10. According to Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian, no funds are available for the employment of substitutes while the branch library staffs take their enforced furloughs. As the subbranches have staffs of only one or two persons, closing is therefore necessitated to cover the required furlough schedule.

The agencies affected are the Chevy Chase, Tenley, Conduit Road, Eastern High and Woodridge subbranches. Readers will be permitted to take a reasonable number of books for the full period of closing. Additional books may be secured on the subbranch library card from the central library or any of the four major branches.

"Town Meeting" Slated By Democratic Women

The Women's National Democratic Club will hold an old-fashioned "town meeting" at their clubhouse September 1, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the group held on the terrace of the Shoreham Hotel.

Stressing the importance of rallying the residents of Washington to the support of the party in the election, Mrs. L. J. Pollock told members that there were 60,000 absentee voters living in the city and that "the importance of this voting group is not to be minimized." The club will make a special effort to inform local voters about the laws governing their ballots.

Motorist's Senate Pass Fails as Traffic Charm

It takes more than a pass to the Senate gallery to win right of way through a red traffic light, Judge John P. McMahon yesterday advised Henry C. Bow, laundryman-motorist.

Police testified Bow claimed "diplomatic immunity" when stopped for the traffic infraction, exhibiting a Senate gallery ticket in support of his claims. Judge McMahon was diplomatic. He took Bow's personal bond.

2 Parties' Wet Stand Attacked by Rechabites

Deploring the "backard steps on prohibition taken by the Republican and Democratic parties," Eagle Tent, No. 2, Independent Order of Rechabites, yesterday refused to indorse either party or the present nominees for the Presidency.

The organization also urged that citizens throughout the country elect only "loyal friends of the eighteenth amendment" to seats in Congress and State Legislatures.

Gypsy Steals $8 From Home.

Mrs. Edith Turnbull, 1512½ Rosedale street northeast, reported to police that a Gypsy woman carrying a baby about 2 weeks old stole a pocketbook containing $8 and also a dress valued at $6 when she allowed her to come into the house while she got her a glass of water.

$50 in Clothing Stolen From Home.

Thieves stole clothing valued at $50 from the home of Charles C. Richey, of 321 Ninth street southeast, yesterday. Richey named a suspect to police.

Poison Victim in Hospital.

John H. Carr, 27, of Capitol Heights, Md., was treated at Providence Hospital yesterday for a poison which he said to have swallowed while in the home of Mrs. Kate Smith, 3001 Fourteenth street northeast. Mrs. Smith discovered Carr in the bathroom of the house and called the hospital ambulance. His condition is said to be undetermined.

Sightless Today Visit U. S. S. Constitution

Blind men and women will visit the decks of the U. S. S. Constitution today according to an announcement of Ralph Campbell, executive secretary of the Columbia Polytechnic Institute for the Blind. All sightless persons of the District have been invited to board 'Old Ironsides" at its navy yard berth.

Ten guides will be on hand to explain all about the ship and to allow the blind to "see" with their fingers all the workings of the frigate.

$250,000 Building Asked for Mammals

A request for $250,000 to erect a new building for small mammals is included in the 1934 estimates for the national zoo, and accounts largely for a jump from $228,880, which is the current appropriation, to $519,000.

The house would accommodate small mammals, rodents, gibbons and great apes. Zoo officials explain that they are striving to gather all animals into large buildings, rather than a number of small structures, as they have done already for reptiles and birds.

POLICE COURT DROPS CASE OF 3 MARCHERS

Trio Indicted in Assault Not to Face Charges in Lower Tribunal.

As plans went forward for District Supreme Court arraignment Monday of the three bonus marchers under indictment for assault, similar charges against the three, awaiting preliminary hearing in Police Court, were nolle prossed yesterday.

The three veterans, Bernard McCoy, John O. Olson and Broadus Faulkner, were indicted Tuesday in District Supreme Court in connection with July bonus disorders. Assistant United States Attorney Milford Schwartz said this made preliminary Police Court hearing unnecessary. He quashed the lower court charges.

In view of this action, Judge Ralph Given announced he would not need to pass on charges of "bias and prejudice" filed against him by Attorney Jesse C. Duke, when he refused to issue subpenas for appearance of newspaper executives at the hearing.

Not to Answer, Charges.

When Duke asked the judge yesterday what he would do about the charges, he replied:

"I'll neither affirm nor deny them."

Later yesterday Judge Given denied Duke's motion for retrial of Harold Evans, another bonus marcher, whom Judge Given had sentenced to 25 days for disorderly conduct.

Government records showed that the three indicted men had World War records. McCoy was in the Navy from May, 1916, to October, 1919. Olson is listed as having been awarded the distinguished service medal for "extraordinary heroism in action near Bois de Fontaine." Falkner served overseas from March, 1918, unti July, 1919.

Two New Groups Formed.

Two groups of men headed by former leaders of the bonus army are organizing B. E. F. members. Both groups claim the sponsorship of Walter W. Waters, former national commander. At 631 Pennsylvania avenue, Earl F. Atwell, leads the "Bonus Expeditionary Force, Rank and File of America," while from the old headquarters on North Capitol street R. B. Ellison heads the "Khaki Shirts."

Both claim Waters unqualified approval. Both organizations have like purposes. They wish payment of the bonus and emphasize good citizenship and loyalty to the Government.

Ballistic Expert Aids In Murder Conviction

Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistic expert of the local Police Department, returned from Wentworth, N. C., yesterday, where his testimony aided in convicting Rufus Hickman, 23, of the murder of James Bellies, 73, of Gointown, N. C., who was shot to death last May.

Lieut. Fowler identified the gun which was used in the shooting. Hickman was convicted on a second degree murder charge.

MODEL PLANE ACES TO DRAW TROPHIES

First Winner to Be Made District Champion; Test to Start Monday.

Awards of silver trophies and other valuable prizes will be made by the committee in charge of the 1932 District Model Aircraft Tournament to the boys and girls who will compete in the various indoor and outdoor events.

E. C. Graham will serve as chairman of awards. He has announced that the "ace" or "silver ace," winning the most points in the tournament events of next week, will receive officially the honor of being the District Champion, and have his name engraved on the trophy offered by the Aviation School of America.

The Board of Trade trophy will also go to the champion, to remain in his possession. A new trophy has been added this year to be known as the Harris Trophy. It will go to the youngest boy or girl winning points in the competition.

The tournament will open Monday at 9 o'clock in Macfarland Community Center. It will be continued Tuesday and Wednesday at Bolling Field, and close Friday at Macfarland Community Center.

Rotarians Observe 20th Anniversary

Nine Charter Members of Local Club in Charge of Program.

The weekly luncheon of the Washington Rotary Club at the Willard Hotel yesterday celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the founding of the local club.

The gathering was in charge of nine charter members. The presiding officer was John Dolph, first president. He called the roll of charter members, which included Thaddeus C. Dulin, George W. Harris, Fred W. Mackenzie, Samuel J. Prescott, Edwin C. Graham, John L. Weaver, Ralph W. Lee and Daniel J. Callahan.

Past President William L. Radcliffe spoke for the whole club in paying tribute to the charter members for their service to the club and to Washington.

Catholic University Adds Four to Faculty

The addition of four members to the faculty of Catholic University was announced yesterday.

To the law faculty have been added Attorney James F. Ryan, a former instructor at Iowa University, and Dr. Brendan Brown, the only American to win a Ph. D. degree in the philosophy of law at Oxford University. The Rev. Dr. Felix Kirsch, a writer and lecturer, has been added to the department of education, and Dr. Harry Deferrari, from the University of Maryland, to the department of romance languages and literature.
